CENSUS OF IRELAND, 1891.

GENERAL REPORT.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY, LAWRENCE, EARL OF ZETLAND,

LORD LIEUTENANT-GENERAL AND GENERAL GOVERNOR OF IRELAND.

AG. DO. SO.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,

We, the Commissioners appointed under the Census (Ireland) Act, 53 & 54 Vic. cap. 46, have the honour to lay before Your Excellency our General Report and Tables relative to the population of Ireland on the night of the 5th of April, 1891, which form the second part of the publications in connection with the Census, the first, already published, consisting of four volumes containing detailed Tables for each County and Province.

PRELIMINARY

As it has been customary in the Reports on previous Censuses to prefix a short account of the preliminary arrangements and the mode adopted for collecting the information we follow a similar course on this occasion.

The warrant of the Lords Justices appointing the Commission bears date 24th November, 1890, but the arrangements for taking the Census of Ireland in 1891 were commenced long before that date, as in November, 1889, the Registrar-General was in communication with the Treasury relative to the provision required for the preliminary expenses. At an early period the question of the office accommodation requisite was carefully considered.

On the 31st May, 1890, the approval of the Lord Lieutenant and the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to the arrangements for the organization and remuneration of the staff was received. Hitherto at each decade, a Secretary was specially appointed to the Census Office, but on a re-organization of the General Register Office in 1886, the secretarial duties in connection with the decennial Census, were attached ex-officio to the post of Secretary to that Department. The Census Office was formally opened on the 1st October, 1890, when the office Superintendents entered on the discharge of their duties in connection with the preparatory business of the Department.

Office Staff.

On the 23rd November, 1890, a pattern set of Tables for the county books, based on the plan of 1881, with a few slight changes, was submitted, and received the approval of the Government on the 4th December, 1890.

Plan of County Books.

The Forms A., or family return (see Appendix, p. 349), which is similar to that used in 1881, was forwarded for the approval of the Government on 20th November, 1890, which was given on the 19th December, 1890.

Preparation of Forms.

The remaining enumeration forms were then rapidly submitted and approved.

It may be mentioned here that in compliance with section 4 of the Census Act no alteration was made in any of the enumeration forms, as adopted in 1881, except such as were necessary to comply with the provisions of section 3.

Prior to the drafting and submission to the Government of the various Forms and Tables, all the methods and processes of tabulation employed at the previous Census had been carefully considered and revised, and considerable improvements made therein, with a view to the diminution of labour and reduction of expenditure in the progress of the work.

Revision of Statistical Processes,
&c.

The requirements of the office as regards the necessary books, forms, &c., were as far as possible, anticipated in the preparation of journals, books of reference, maps of townships, &c.

The Registrar General had the honour to receive on the 29th November, 1890, the Warrant appointing the Commission, and we held our first meeting on the 19th December, 1890, continuing to meet at intervals, as the nature of the work required.

On completing the collection of the Returns for his district each enumerator proceeded to summarize the results.

On the 28th of May, 1891, we were enabled to forward to the Government, for presentation to Parliament, our Preliminary Report with Abstract of the Enumerators' Summaries.

The clerical staff, originally estimated for, consisted of 100 male and 10 female clerks and 100 boy copyists.

The maximum number of male clerks employed was 80, so that the total indoor office staff was 190. In addition to these there were 25 males and 25 females employed as taskworkers exclusive of some members of the staff of the General Register Office.

On the 15th of September, 1891, we had the honour to submit to your Excellency, the first of the series of County Books containing the detailed Tables for the County of Carlow, and we submitted at brief intervals those for the other Counties and the Provincial Summaries.

GENERAL SUMMARY OF RESULTS.

Before proceeding to examine the figures in detail it may be interesting to present a concise summary of the principal results of the Census, which are as follow :—

General
Summary
of Results.

Persons.—The Population of Ireland in 1891, including the Navy and Military serving in the country, was 4,704,750 (2,318,958 males and 2,385,792 females). In 1881 it was 5,174,836 (2,533,377 males and 2,641,559 females). There was therefore in the ten years a decrease of 470,086 persons, or 9·08 per cent.

Ages.—There is a marked diminution amounting to 15·7 per cent. of the number of children under 15 years of age in 1891 compared with 1881. There is also a decrease in the number of persons in the age periods from 20 to 30, and from 30 to 40, amounting to 5·5 and 8·4 per cent. respectively.

Conjugal Condition.—The number of married persons in 1891 was, males 613,649; females 626,031. In 1881, they were respectively 696,542 and 712,525. Widowers and widows were 91,500 and 232,004, compared with 95,860 and 253,091 respectively in 1881. The unmarried were, males 1,613,804, females 1,527,762; the corresponding figures for 1881 being 1,740,350 and 1,675,737.

Birthplaces.—In 1881 the number of Irish born persons enumerated who did not reside in the county in which they were born amounted to 10·2 per cent. of the population. In 1891 they amounted to 10·8 per cent. or an increase of 0·6 per cent.

In 1881 the number of persons born in England enumerated in Ireland amounted to 69,382; in 1891 the number was 74,523, being an increase of 5,141, or 7·4 per cent.

The number of Scotch in Ireland in 1881 was 23,328, in 1891, 27,323, or an increase of 22·4 per cent.

The number of persons born outside of the United Kingdom who were in Ireland on the Census night in 1881 was 19,792, and in 1891, 21,521, being an increase of 9·2 per cent.

Religious Professions.—Roman Catholics decreased from 3,960,891 in 1881 to 3,547,307 in 1891, or 10·4 per cent. Protestant Episcopalians decreased from 639,574 in 1881 to 600,103 in 1891, or 6·2 per cent. Presbyterians decreased 5·5 per cent., their numbers being 444,974 in 1891, as against 470,734 in 1881. Methodists showed an increase from 48,839 in 1881 to 55,506 in 1891, or 13·6 per cent. All other professions increased from 54,798 in 1881 to 56,866 in 1891, being an increase of 3·8 per cent.

Education.—In 1891 the number of persons in Ireland five years old and upwards who were wholly illiterate was 18·4 per cent. of the population; in 1881 the per-centage was 25·3, showing a decrease in 1891 of 6·8 in the per-centage.

The number of persons aged 5 years and upwards in 1891 who could read only was 11·0 per cent. of the population; in 1881, the per-centage was 15·5, showing a decrease in 1891 of 4·5 in the per-centage.

In 1881, 59·3 per cent. of the population aged 5 years and upwards were able to read and write; in 1891, the per-centage was 70·6, showing an increase of 11·3 in the decade.

Schools and Scholars: Primary Schools.—In 1891 there were 9,177 establishments for primary instruction attended by 685,074 pupils. In 1881 the number of establishments was 9,151, and the number of pupils 675,036, showing an increase of 10,038 or 1·5 per cent. In 1891 there were 490 establishments for superior instruction, with 27,769 students. In 1881 the number of superior schools was 504, and the number of students 24,698, showing an increase of 3,076, or 12·5 per cent. in 1891.

Occupations.—The Professional Class in 1881 numbered 198,684, or 3·84 per cent. of the population. In 1891 it numbered 214,243, or 4·55 per cent., an increase of 0·71 per cent.

The Domestic Class in 1881 amounted to 426,161, or 8·24 per cent. In 1891 the number was 255,164, or 5·42 per cent. This, however, is owing to a difference in classification. Had the plan followed on the present occasion been used in 1881, the figures for that year would have been 287,069, or 5·54 per cent. of the population, giving a decrease of 0·12 per cent. during the decade (see page 23).

The Commercial Class in 1881 amounted to 72,245, or 1·40 per cent. In 1891 the number was 83,173, or 1·77 per cent., an increase of 0·37 per cent.

The Agricultural Class in 1881 numbered 937,956, or 19·28 per cent. In 1891 it was 936,759, or 19·92 per cent., an increase of 0·64 per cent.

The Industrial Class in 1891 was represented by 691,569 persons, or 13·36 per cent. In 1891 it consisted of 656,410 persons, or 13·25 per cent., an increase of 0·09 in the percentage.

The Indefinite or Non-productive Class.—The number tabulated in this class for 1881 was 2,788,281, or 53·88 per cent. In 1891 it was 2,559,021, or 54·39 per cent.; but had the composition of the class been the same in 1881 as in 1891, the per-centage for the former year would have been 56·75 of the population, showing a decrease of 2·36 in the per-centage for the ten years (see also page 26).

Families.—The number of families in 1891 was 932,113; in 1881 the number was 995,074, representing a decrease of 6·3 per cent. in 1891.

Houses.—The inhabited houses decreased from 914,108 in 1881 to 870,578 in 1891, or 4·8 less per cent. Houses of the first class increased from 66,727 to 70,740, or 6·0 per cent. Second class houses increased from 422,241 to 466,632, or 10·5 per cent. The number of third class houses is 312,589 against 384,475 in 1881. This represents a decrease of 71,886, or 18·7 per cent., while fourth class houses (mud cabins) decreased from 40,665 in 1881 to 20,617 in 1891, or 49·3 per cent. (See note to Table VIII. on page 109.)

Rateable Valuation.—The rateable valuation of Ireland rose from £18,812,363 4s. 9d. in 1881 to £14,084,681 1s. 9d. in 1891, or 1·6 per cent.

Births.—From 1st April, 1881, to March 31st, 1891, 1,147,321 births were registered, against 1,391,993 during the preceding ten years.

Marriages.—The marriages registered amounted to 212,256. The number in the previous ten years being 245,968.

Deaths.—The deaths were 879,412 against 969,076 for the previous decade.

Emigration.—The emigration during the decade amounted to 768,105 persons; 393,744 males and 374,361 females.

Sickness.—The sick and infirm of all kinds on Census night of 1891 numbered 66,664 or 1 in 71 of the whole population. Of these 33,722 were temporarily diseased, and 30,942 permanently diseased.

In 1881 the number of sick and infirm on Census night was 71,328, or 1 in 73 of the whole population. Of these 40,090 were temporarily diseased, and 31,238 permanently diseased.

Blind.—The number of the totally blind in Ireland in 1891 was 5,341. In 1881 the number was 6,111.

Deaf and Dumb.—The deaf and dumb numbered, in 1891, 3,365; in 1881 their numbers were 3,993.

Dumb not Deaf.—The number tabulated under this heading in 1881 was 1,143, and in 1891 it was 1,099.

Lunatics and Idiots.—The total number of lunatics and idiots returned in 1891 was 18,413, and in 1891 the number amounted to 21,198. The number of lunatics enumerated on Census night of 1891 was 14,945 (7,463 males and 7,482 females), of whom 893 were at large, 11,265 in asylums, and 2,787 in workhouses. In 1881 the number of lunatics was 9,774 (4,857 males and 4,917 females), 943 being at large, 7,547 in asylums, and 1,284 in workhouses.

There were, in 1891, 6,243 idiots (3,601 males and 2,742 females), of whom 4,977 were at large, 996 in asylums, and 1,170 in workhouses. In 1881 there were 8,639 idiots (4,674 males and 3,965 females). Of these, 4,548 were at large, 1,896 in asylums, and 2,195 in workhouses.

It is probable that a portion of the increase in lunatics and decrease in idiots appearing in the figures here given is due to a difference of classification in the original returns.

Division of Land.—In 1891 the total extent under crops (including meadow and clover) was 4,818,381 acres, in 1881 it was 5,195,377 acres. The extent under grass in 1891 was 10,298,654 acres against 10,075,425 in 1881. Woods and plantation in 1891 occupied 311,554 acres, as against 328,703 acres in 1881, and turf bog, marsh, barren mountain, roads, fences, &c., represented 4,769,677 acres in 1891 and 4,593,097 in 1881.

Land under Crops.—In 1891 the extent of land under cereal crops was 1,492,763 acres, under green crops 1,191,424 acres, under flax 74,665 acres, and under meadow and clover 2,059,529 acres. In 1881 the acreage under cereal crops was 1,777,175, under green crops 1,264,223, under flax 147,145, under rape 5,803, and under meadow and clover 2,001,929 acres.

Live Stock.—The number of live stock in 1891 was as follows:—Horses and mules 621,479, asses 216,268, cattle 4,448,516, sheep 4,722,613, pigs 1,367,712, goats 336,337, and poultry 15,276,128. In 1881 the numbers were—horses and mules 574,746, asses 187,143, cattle 3,956,595, sheep 3,256,185, pigs 1,095,830, goats 266,078, and poultry 13,972,426.

Language.—The number of persons returned as speaking Irish only in 1891 was 38,197, or 0·81 per cent. In 1881 the number so returned was 64,067, or 1·24 per cent.

The persons who could speak "English and Irish" in 1891 amounted to 642,053 or 13·6 per cent. In 1881 they were 885,765, or 17·1 per cent.

Navy and Military serving in Ireland.—The number of the Navy and Military serving in Ireland in 1881 was 26,055, and in 1891 it was 25,725.

Foreigners.—The number of foreigners in Ireland in 1891 was 12,900; in 1881, 11,210, showing an increase of 1,690. The principal feature in connexion with this subject is the large immigration of Russian Jews during the latter part of the decade.

Pauperism.—The number of paupers in the workhouses of Ireland on Census night in 1891 was 42,348, being 13,482, or 24 per cent., under the number in 1881. The number of persons in receipt of outdoor relief in Ireland at the date of the Census of 1891 was 62,988. The corresponding number in 1881 was 64,233.

We shall now proceed to lay before your Excellency our Report on the detailed Statistics of the country, dealing with the various subjects in the following order:—

- I. Area, Houses, and Population.
- II. Ages of the People.
- III. Civil or Conjugal Condition of the People.

- VII. The Sick and Infirm.
- VIII. Public Institutions.
- IX. Religious Profession of the People.
- X. Religious Profession and Education.
- XI. Irish-speaking Population.
- XII. Emigration.
- XIII. Miscellaneous.
- XIV. Maps and Diagrams.

GENERAL
Territorial Divisions.

I.—AREA, HOUSES, AND POPULATION.

One of the great difficulties in dealing with Irish statistics is the multiplicity of territorial areas into which the country is divided. Of these there are seven principal classes dealt with in the work of the Census, viz. :—(1.) The Civil Division—which consists of townlands, civil parishes, baronies, counties, and provinces, with cities or towns, and counties of towns. (2.) The Poor Law Division.—Consisting of townlands, electoral divisions, dispensary districts, and unions. (3.) The Registration Division.—Consisting of townlands, electoral divisions, registrars' districts, and superintendent registrars' districts. (4.) The Police Division.—Consisting of townlands, Constabulary districts, and counties. (5.) The Judicial Division.—Consisting of townlands, petty sessions districts, quarter sessions districts, and counties. (6.) The Ecclesiastical Division.—Consisting of ecclesiastical parishes and dioceses. (7.) The Parliamentary Division.—Consisting of divisions of counties and boroughs.

We extract the following details regarding these areas except the last named from the General Report on the Census of 1881, making the alterations required to suit present circumstances.

The Civil Division.—The townland forms the unit of this in common with all of the other divisions. There were in Ireland at the date of the Census, 60,576 townlands, varying in area from nearly 8,000 statute acres to under 1 acre.

Townlands. The townland is the smallest recognised territorial division in the Census publications, and on the Ordnance Survey Maps.

In Table VII. of the County Books will be found statistics of area, houses, population, and valuation for each townland.

Parishes. The civil parish is composed of groups of townlands. There were in Ireland at the date of the Census 2,428 civil parishes, varying in area from 200,960 to under 2 statute acres.

The parish was originally an ecclesiastical division. At an early date it was adopted for civil purposes—but even before the passing of "The Irish Church Act, 1869," the boundaries of the civil and the ecclesiastical parishes were not in all cases identical. The civil parishes as laid down on the Ordnance Maps, have been adopted in the Census publications since 1841.

Baronies. The baronies, which were generally constituted from the ancient Irish divisions, were originally feudal and military jurisdictions, but are now used for administrative and fiscal purposes only. They are composed of groups of townlands, and in the Census publications the townlands composing the barony are grouped together according to the parishes or portions of parishes in which they are situated. Some baronies have been divided into half baronies. There were at the date of the Census 327 baronies and half baronies, varying in area from 310,386 to 1,693 statute acres.

Counties. The division into counties was introduced gradually by the English settlers, after the model of the English system. It was not, however, perfected until the entire country had been annexed. The boundaries of some of the counties were adopted from ancient divisions of the country, while others were new partitions of territory. The limits of the counties were not accurately ascertained and fixed until after a great lapse of time. This work was completed and perfected by the Ordnance Survey. The counties are composed of groups of baronies. They number 32, but in three instances, those namely of Cork, Tipperary, and Galway, the county is divided into two ridings. The area of the largest county, Cork, is 1,849,686, that of the smallest, Louth (including the county of the town of Drogheda) 202,128 statute acres.

Provinces. At the time of the English invasion, Ireland was divided into five kingdoms, viz., Leinster, Meath, Munster, Ulster, and Connaught. After the invasion, the division of the country into four provinces was adopted, the ancient boundaries and names being retained, except that the kingdom of Meath, which consisted of the present counties of Meath and Westmeath, became merged in the province of Leinster.

The largest province, Munster, has an area of 6,067,723 statute acres, the smallest, Connaught, an area of 4,392,453.

There are 12 counties in Leinster, 6 in Munster, 9 in Ulster, and 5 in Connaught.

Power to alter boundaries. Under the Boundary Acts, power to alter the names and boundaries of townlands is vested in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, when the straightening of river courses, reclamation from the sea, or other circumstances, render such alteration necessary. By similar authority, changes may be made in the boundaries of parishes, baronies, and counties.

In addition to provinces, counties, baronies, parishes, and townlands, may be mentioned counties of cities or towns, parliamentary divisions, parliamentary and municipal boroughs, and townships created under the provisions of various Acts of Parliament.

The Poor Law Division.—The Electoral Divisions were formed under the provisions of the Irish Poor Relief Act (1838), 1 and 2 Vic., cap. 56. They consist of groups of townlands, and form the unit for rating purposes under the administration of the Poor Law.

There were in Ireland at the date of the Census 3,446 electoral divisions, varying in area from 31,378 to 380 statute acres.

Formerly a number of electoral divisions extended into more than one county, but in the years 1877 and 1879 the Local Government Board, exercising the power vested in them by statute, issued sealed orders restricting each of these areas to a single county. The only case, now, where an electoral division boundary crosses that of a county is the electoral division of St. Mary's, in the union of Drogheda, part of which is in the county of Meath, and part in the county of the town of Drogheda.

The Dispensary Districts were created under the provisions of the Medical Charities Act, 14 and 15 Vic., c. 68. They consist of groups of electoral divisions, and were formed with regard to extent and population. There were on 5th April, 1891, 721 dispensary districts in Ireland.

The Poor Law Unions were formed under the same statute as the electoral divisions; originally they numbered 130; in 1857 they were increased to 163, but the number on the 5th April, 1891, was 160. They are multiples of townlands, electoral divisions and dispensary districts, and vary in area from 345,921 statute acres, the area of Westport Union, to 41,193 statute acres, the extent of the union of North Dublin.

The poor law union, as an area for the purposes of local government, has been increasing in importance, and the Census volumes of 1871, 1881, and 1891 contain various tables showing statistics for these areas.

The Local Government Board for Ireland have statutory powers to alter, by sealed order, the boundaries of dispensary districts and poor law unions, as well as those of electoral divisions already referred to.

Of the poor law unions, 100 are situated wholly in one county, 47 in two counties, while 13 extend into three.

The Registration Division.—Under the Act 26 Vic., cap. 11, which came into operation on the 1st January, 1864, and by which a general registration of births and deaths was established in Ireland, the dispensary districts above referred to were adopted as the Registrars' Districts, subject to such modifications and alterations as the Registrar-General, with the approval of the Lord Lieutenant, should deem expedient and proper. The boundaries of the dispensary and registrars' districts are now coincident, except in the case of some dispensary districts where, for the greater convenience of the public, the district has been divided for registration purposes. Thus there were, at the date of the Census, 799 registrars' districts, compared with 721 dispensary districts. It may be well to add here that the districts under the Births and Deaths Registration Act are, by the 26 and 27 Vic., cap. 90, those for the registration of marriages celebrated by the Roman Catholic clergy; and, also, by the 26 and 27 Vic., cap. 52, those for vaccination purposes.

Of the 799 registrars' districts in Ireland, 736 are situated wholly in one county, 61 extend into two counties, and 2 (the districts of Roscrea No. 1, and Coolattin and Clongall) into three counties.

The Superintendent Registrars' districts were formed under the Registration Acts already mentioned, and are in all cases identical with the Poor Law Unions, the Clerks of the Unions being ex-officio Superintendent Registrars.

The districts of the Registrars of Marriages under the 7 & 8 Vic., cap. 81, are also co-extensive with the poor law unions, except in the case of the district of Dublin, which comprises the unions of Dublin North and Dublin South.

The Police Division.—For police purposes the county proper is divided into constabulary districts and sub-districts, each of the latter consisting of a certain number of townlands.

There is an exception to this as regards the metropolis and certain portions of the county of Dublin, which together form the Dublin Metropolitan Police District, under the control of the Commissioner of Police.

As the Superintendents of Census Enumeration and the Enumerators were selected from the members of the Royal Irish Constabulary and Dublin Metropolitan Police, the Census returns were collected according to police districts as being the most convenient under the circumstances, but this arrangement necessitated the subsequent recasting in this office of the various papers into parish files.

The Census reports do not exhibit any details arranged according to constabulary districts which are not coincident with any other territorial areas; but in Table 77 will be found statistics of area, houses, and population for the Dublin Metropolitan Police District.

The Judicial Division.—The Petty Sessions Districts are composed of townlands and parishes, or portions of parishes. Statistics for these areas were published for the first time in 1871, and great care has been taken on the present occasion to make them as accurate as possible.

The Petty Sessions Districts are not confined within the county boundaries, 568 being situate wholly in one county, and 38 in two counties. They are each, with the exception of 72 instances, situate wholly in one Quarter Sessions District.

There is an exception to the division of the country into Petty Sessions Districts in the case of the Dublin Metropolitan Police District, which is under the magisterial jurisdiction of Divisional Justices.

The Quarter Sessions Districts are, in most cases, confined to one county, but there are some exceptions.

The Ecclesiastical Division.—Since "The Irish Church Act, 1869," came into operation, the ecclesiastical division of the country is not recognised for legal purposes. This division is now of a purely ecclesiastical character, but following the course adopted in 1871 and 1881, statistics of population and religious profession have been prepared for diocesan areas as possessing general interest. This division consists of provinces, dioceses, and parishes, some details regarding which are given at pp. 55-6.

The origin and history of these ecclesiastical divisions are given by the Census Commissioners of 1861 in their Report on Religious Professions, Part IV., page 20.

The Parliamentary Division is composed of divisions of counties and boroughs, and has been mainly formed under the 48 & 49 Vic., Cap. 23, Redistribution of Seats (1885) Act.

Having submitted to your Excellency the foregoing remarks respecting the various classes of territorial divisions which exist in Ireland, we would refer to the Report of the Census Commissioners of 1871, at page 6 of which the subjects of configuration, soil, climate, and race are fully treated of.

tion, Soil,

and Race.Area,

The area, houses, and population, as well as the increase or decrease of the population, and number of inhabited houses, &c., in Ireland, at each Census period from 1821 to 1891 are shown in tables 1-3, and 39-43. The Census Tables now submitted to your Excellency have been prepared on the same extended plan as those published in 1871 and 1881.

The reduction of the population recorded in 1851, 1861, 1871, and 1881, is still in progress. Up to and including the latter year the percentage of decrease had been less in each succeeding decade; that for 1851 being 19·85, for 1861, 11·50, for 1871, 6·67, and for 1881, 4·39, but in 1891 it was 9·08, or 2·41 in excess of the decrease shown in 1871, and 4·69 in excess of that shown in 1881.

On the 4th April, 1891, there were 4,704,750 persons in Ireland occupying 870,578 inhabited houses, with an area of 20,198,266 statute acres, exclusive of water, but inclusive of 5,081,231 acres under plantation, roads, fences, bogs, barren mountain, waste, &c.

The average number of persons to an acre in 1891 was '23, in 1881, '25, and in 1871, '26, showing a decrease in the density of the population to each acre of '02 as compared with 1881, and '03 as compared with 1871.

The number of acres to each person in 1891 was 4·3, in 1881, 3·9, and in 1871, 3·7, showing an increase in 1891, of '4 as compared with 1881, and '6 as compared with 1871, in the number of acres to each person.

Omitting from the above area, plantation, bogs, barren mountain, waste, and other uncultivated tracts, we find the arable acreage of Ireland in 1891 to be 15,117,035, and the population to each acre in 1891, '31, and in 1871 and 1881, '34. There were 3·21 acres to each person in 1891, 2·96, and 2·95 in 1871 and 1881 respectively, showing an increase in the number of acres of arable land to each person of '26 as compared with 1881, and '25 as compared with 1871.

The civic area of Ireland—that is, of all towns of not less than 2,000 inhabitants, was in 1891, 124,660 acres; in 1881, 119,792 acres; and in 1871, 100,795 acres.

Persons to an acre.Persons to arable land.

The population of these districts was 1,244,113 in 1891, 1,245,503 in 1881, and 1,301,844 in 1871.

In 1891, the proportion of persons to each acre of civic area was 10·0, in 1881 10·4, and in 1871 11·9.

In 1891 the rural area of Ireland was 20,073,606 acres, with a population of 3,460,637; in 1881, 20,074,810 acres, with a population of 3,929,333; and in 1871, 20,091,891 acres, with a population of 4,211,033. The proportion of inhabitants to each acre of this area in 1891 was 17; in 1881, 20; and in 1871, 21; showing a decrease of area in 1891, as compared with 1881, of 1,204 acres, and with 1871 of 17,785 acres, together with a decrease of population of 0·03 per acre, as compared with 1881, and 0·04 as compared with 1871.

There were 870,578 inhabited houses in Ireland on the night of the Census (1891); and on the corresponding nights in 1881, 1871, 1861, and 1851, 914,108, 961,380, 995,156, and 1,046,223, respectively. It will be perceived that the inhabited houses decreased by 51,067, or 4·9 per cent., between 1851 and 1861; by 33,776, or 3·4 per cent., between 1861 and 1871; by 47,273, or 4·9 per cent., between 1871 and 1881; and by 43,530, or 4·8 per cent., between 1881 and 1891; while, as has been already shown, the decrease of the population between 1881 and 1891 was 0·08 per cent.; between 1871 and 1881, 4·4 per cent.; between 1861 and 1871, 6·7 per cent.; and between 1851 and 1861, 11·5 per cent. Thus the percentage of decrease in inhabited houses in 1891 is not quite equal to that which took place in the decennial period between 1871 and 1881, when the decrease in population was much less. The average number of persons to each house is now 5·4, while there were 5·6 persons to a house in 1881 and 1871, 5·8 in 1861, and 6·2 persons to a house in 1851. There has also been a general improvement in the classes of dwellings throughout the country.—See Table 46.

In 1891, as on previous occasions, the houses were classified in four divisions—1st, according to extent, as shown by the number of rooms; 2nd, according to quality, as shown by the number of windows in front; and 3rd, according to solidity and durability, as shown by the material of the walls and roof. If numbers be adopted to express the position of every house in a scale of each of these elements, and if the numbers thus obtained for every house be added together, a new series of numbers will be produced, giving the position of each house in a scale compounded of all the elements, i.e., their actual state. A reference to Form B 1 (Appendix) will show the principle upon which this has been done.

In the lowest of the four classes are comprised houses built of mud or perishable material, having only one room and window; in the third a better description of house, varying from one to four rooms and windows; in the second, what might be considered a good farm house, having from five to nine rooms and windows; and in the first class all houses of a better description than the preceding.

The accommodation which the houses afford has also been arranged, under four classes, viz :—

First Class accommodation consisting of 1st class houses, occupied by one family.

Second Class accommodation consisting of 2nd class houses, occupied by one family, or of 1st class houses, occupied by two or three families.

Third Class accommodation comprising 3rd class houses, with one family each, or second class houses, with two or three families, or 1st class houses occupied by four or five families.

Fourth Class accommodation includes all 4th class houses, 3rd class houses with more than one family, 2nd class houses with four or more families, and 1st class houses inhabited by six or more families.

As stated in the Report for 1881, the classification adopted on previous occasions was departed from in 1871 to a certain extent, many houses which in former Censuses would have been tabulated in the 3rd class being then included in the 4th, while the latter was sub-divided into two groups, one consisting of 4th class houses built of brick or stone, the other of mud cabins.

The classification followed in 1841, 1851, and 1861 has, as in 1881, been adopted, and the houses now included in the 4th class are exclusively those built of mud or perishable materials.

From Table 46 it will be seen that in the Rural Districts there was, in 1891, an average of 1·07 families to each house of the 1st class, of 1·02 to a house of the 2nd, and of 1·01 to houses of the 3rd and 4th classes. For the Civic Districts the average number of families to each house in 1891 was—1st class 1·71, 2nd class 1·19, 3rd class 1·03, 4th class 1·01; while the average number of families to each house in 1881 was, 1st class 1·82, 2nd class 1·30, 3rd class 1·05, 4th class 1·02; in 1871, the average in the

In 1891 the number of 1st class houses increased by 4,018 as compared with 1881, by 10,357 with 1871, and by 15,324 with 1861. The 2nd class increased at the same time by 44,391 as compared with 1881, by 85,518 as compared with 1871, and by 105,934 as compared with 1861, while the total number of inhabited houses was reduced to 870,578 from 914,108 in 1881, 961,380 in 1871, and 995,156 in 1861. In 1891 the 1st and 2nd class houses were 62 per cent. of the entire number, while in 1881 they were only 53 per cent., in 1871 46 per cent., and in 1861 42 per cent. In 1871 there were in Ireland 519,783 3rd and 4th class houses inhabited by 534,374 families; in 1881 there were 425,140 houses of the same classes inhabited by 431,119 families; while in 1891 there were only 333,306 houses of these classes inhabited by 335,763 families, showing a reduction of 186,577 houses and 198,511 families in 1891, as compared with 1871; and of 91,934 houses and 95,336 families as compared with 1881. In 1861 there were 89,374 mud cabins, inhabited by 93,978 families; in 1881 there were 41,025 families inhabiting 40,665 houses of this class, while in 1891 the number of houses of the lowest class and of families inhabiting them were reduced respectively to 20,617 and 20,729, or about half the number in 1881 and considerably less than one-fourth of the number in 1861.

The total number of inhabited houses in Civic Districts increased during the decade by 11,564 or 6·12 per cent., while the number of 3rd and 4th class houses decreased by 7,011 or 20·62 per cent.

In the rural districts the total number of inhabited houses decreased by 55,094 or 7·60 per cent., and the number of 3rd and 4th class houses by 84,923 or 21·71 per cent. It will thus be perceived that there has been a very substantial increase in the number of 1st and 2nd class houses in both Civic and Rural Districts on the present occasion.

Map III. and Diagram No. 3, following this Report, illustrate the state of the house accommodation and the proportion per cent. of the inhabited houses in each class, according to counties and provinces.

Valuation.

We may here notice that the increase in the rateable valuation of the country referred to in the Reports for 1871 and 1881, still continues, notwithstanding the decrease in the total number of houses returned for each decade since 1851, and although no alteration is made by the Commissioner of Valuation, except in the case of new or improved buildings.

Number and density of Population in each County.
Table 44.

In Table 44, p. 166, the counties of Ireland are arranged, first, according to the actual numbers of the population, and, second, according to the density of the population in 1891. As on previous occasions the largest number of inhabitants, 438,432, is returned for the county of Cork; and the smallest, 40,936 persons, for the county of Carlow, which, with the exception of the county of Louth, is the least in extent of the Irish counties, and contains only a little over 1 per cent. of the entire area of the country.

The county of Antrim has, as in 1881, the second place in order of population, and the number of its inhabitants has increased from 421,943 in 1881 to 428,128 in 1891. Dublin, which with two exceptions, is the smallest county, again takes third place, with a population, which has been increased from 418,910 in 1881 to 419,216 in 1891. The county of Down still takes fourth place, with a population of 267,059 as compared with 272,107 in 1881.

There has been little change in the relative positions of the other counties, but the following alterations have taken place since 1881—Kilkenny and Monaghan, now respectively 20th and 21st, were then 21st and 20th. The King's county, the 27th on the list, takes the place of Queen's county, now the 29th, and Westmeath, now the 28th, was 29th on the list in 1881.

Density of Population
in each County.

Taking the counties in order of density of population, the Metropolitan County of Dublin, as in 1871 and 1881, stands first on the list with an average of 1·85 persons to an acre; Antrim comes next with an average of ·56. Armagh and Down, respectively third and fourth in 1881, with an average of ·50 and ·44 persons to an acre, have now each an average of ·44. As in 1881 the second, third, fourth, sixth, and seventh counties in the list, are in the Province of Ulster, and Louth, still the fifth on the list as regards density of population, is closely connected with Ulster, and may be considered to stand much in the position of a northern county, where the inhabitants are largely engaged in manufacturing industry. Cork, which stands first as regards numbers, is still eighth on the list as regards density of population, with an average of ·24 persons to an acre. Limerick and Cavan, which had each in 1881 an average of ·27 persons, have now ·23, and the other counties, commencing with Tyrone, with an average of ·22, as compared with ·25 in 1881, and with the county of Wicklow, with an average of ·12 persons to each acre, as compared with ·14 in the previous decade.

In Table 45, p. 166, the counties of Ireland are arranged in order of per-centage of increase or decrease of population between 1881 and 1891.

The only counties in which there has been an increase are Antrim and Dublin. The former comes first with an advance of 1.47 per cent., while Dublin shows an increase of .07 per cent. As in 1881 the increase in the county of Antrim is owing mainly to the increase in the population of the part of the city of Belfast in that county.

Kerry and Mayo which increased by 2.27 and .14 per cent. respectively between 1871 and 1881, and were the only counties, except Dublin and Antrim, which showed any increase in that decade, have decreased respectively between 1881 and 1891, by 10.89 and 10.68 per cent.

Notwithstanding the fact of the industrial resources of Ulster, and the employment of its inhabitants to a large extent in manufacturing pursuits, it showed a greater per centage of decrease in the population in 1881, than any of the other provinces. On the present occasion, however, Ulster shows the smallest per-centage of decrease, viz., 7.07 per cent. as compared with 1881. Leinster shows a decrease of 7.13 per cent., Connaught comes next with 11.79 per cent., and Munster shows the greatest per-centage of decrease, viz., 11.92, during the decade.

The per-centage of decrease in the number of inhabited houses was greatest in the province of Connaught, where it amounted to 7.85 per cent. during the decade. The per-centage of decrease in Munster was nearly the same, viz., 7.84, Leinster comes next with 3.98, and, as in 1881, the smallest per-centage of decrease, viz., 1.89 is shown for the province of Ulster.

In Table 47, the total area, houses, and population in 1891, are given for each Poor Law Union, together with the names of the county or counties in which the union is situated.

As in 1871 and 1881, we have given in Table 4 of the book for each county, the area, houses, population, number of constabulary and constabulary barracks for each Petty Sessions District, together with the Quarter Sessions District in which situated. The number of out-offices and farm-steadings, which was published for these divisions in 1871 and 1881, has been omitted on the present occasion, as the information is given by townlands, parishes, baronies, and electoral divisions in the Census County Books.

There were in Ireland on the Census night 606 Petty Sessions Districts, exclusive of the Dublin Metropolitan Police District, for which special information is published in Table 77. Of these, 159 wholly belong to the Province of Leinster, 163 to the Province of Munster, 166 to that of Ulster, 111 to Connaught, and 7 were situated in more than one province.

The average number of Petty Sessions Districts to each county was, in Leinster (exclusive of the Dublin Metropolitan Police District) 13, in Munster 27, in Ulster 19, and in Connaught 22. The average area of Petty Sessions Districts in each of the Provinces was, in Leinster 29,854 acres, in Munster 36,071, in Ulster 31,395 acres, and in Connaught 37,004 acres; the average area of these divisions for Ireland being 33,297 acres.

The average population of Petty Sessions Districts in Leinster was 5,189, in Munster 7,149, in Ulster 9,642, in Connaught 6,414, and in Ireland 7,764.

There were in 1891 an average number of 54.06 constabulary barracks to each county, and of 6.63 constabulary to each barrack. The average number of constabulary to each 1,000 of the population ranged from 1.30 in the county of Down to 4.50 in the county of Westmeath.

In Table 70 are shown the area, houses, and population, together with the number of electors in the Parliamentary Divisions of Counties and Boroughs in Ireland on the Census night.

Under the Redistribution of Seats Act (1885), 48 and 49 Vic., Cap. 23, the several counties in Ireland, with the exception of Carlow, which only returns one member to Parliament, were divided into Parliamentary Divisions, each returning a member. Under the same Act, 22 Boroughs ceased to return members to Parliament, and the number of members returned by the Boroughs of Limerick, Waterford, and Galway was reduced from two to one in each case. The Parliamentary Boroughs of Dublin and Belfast were divided respectively into four Parliamentary Divisions, each returning a member, and the area of the last named Borough was enlarged. There are now in Ireland 9 Boroughs returning collectively 16 members to Parliament, as compared with 31 Boroughs in 1881, with a representation of 37 members, exclusive in each case of the University of Dublin, which returns two members to Parliament.

Of the County Parliamentary Divisions the smallest, as regards area, is that of South Dublin, which contains 21,830 acres. North Mayo, which comprises 508,309 acres, is the largest. The County Division with the greatest population is that of North Dublin, which contains 75,009 persons, with 10,808 Parliamentary electors. The next is South Dublin, with 74,491 persons and 11,680 electors. The County Divisions with the least population are those of North and South Longford, which contain respectively 26,735 and 25,912 persons, with 4,589 and 4,614 Parliamentary electors. The Borough Parliamentary Division with the largest population is that of East Belfast, which contains 85,661 persons, with 10,793 Parliamentary electors, while the Borough of Newry has only a population of 13,691 persons, and 1,875 Parliamentary electors. The Borough of Cork is now the only constituency in Ireland which returns two members to Parliament; it has a population of 97,281 persons, and 10,276 Parliamentary electors.

In 7 of the 9 Parliamentary Boroughs, the Parliamentary and Municipal boundaries differ, considerable districts outside the municipal area being in some instances included in the former. In the cases of Dublin and Cork, there are considerable differences between the population of the Municipal and Parliamentary Boroughs; the former is accounted for by the fact that the populous Pembroke Township lies altogether inside the Parliamentary Borough, as well as a small portion of the Township of Blackrock. As stated at page 34 of the Report of the Census Commissioners for 1871, wherever at the date (1869) of the passing of the Act, 31 and 32 Vic., Cap. 49, the municipal boundary extended beyond the Parliamentary, the latter was made coterminate with the former, but, on the other hand, where the Parliamentary boundary extended beyond the municipal, no alteration took place, and no subsequent changes in municipal areas have affected the Parliamentary Boroughs.

Municipal
and Towns.

The Tables next in order, Nos. 71-75, pp. 327-329, show by Provinces the area, houses, and population of Cities and Towns of not less than 2,000 inhabitants, together with the origin of their local Government, if any, and this information is supplemented by Table 76, where towns, having local government, whose population did not reach 2,000, are given.

The various Irish municipalities are regulated either under ancient charters modified by the Municipal Reform Acts, 3 & 4 Vic., Cap. 108, and 5 & 6 Wm. IV., Cap. 76, or by the Lighting and Cleansing Act, 9 Geo. IV., Cap. 82, the Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 17 & 18 Vic., Cap. 103, and in some instances by special Acts of Parliament. The civic communities are divided in our tables into five classes.

In the first are given, in Table 71, the area, houses, population, &c., of Cities and Towns containing over 50,000 inhabitants, and of this class there are in Ireland 3 only—Dublin, with 245,001 inhabitants, Belfast, with 255,950, and Cork, with 75,345. The population of Dublin and Cork decreased by 4,601 and 4,779 persons respectively, and that of Belfast increased by 47,828 during the decade. Belfast has been formed into a City by Royal Charter since 1881.

Civic Area
and
1881-1891.

In the second class, Table 72, are five Cities or Towns containing 20,000 and not exceeding 50,000 inhabitants. Of these, two are the Townships of Rathmines and Rathgar, and of Pembroke in the vicinity of Dublin; the others, the Cities of Limerick and Waterford, in the Province of Munster, and Londonderry, in Ulster.

There are, in Table 73, 10 towns containing 10,000 and not exceeding 20,000 inhabitants, and of these 5 are in the Province of Leinster, 3 in Ulster, and 2 in Connaught. There are none under this head in Munster.

In Tables 74 and 75 are shown, first, towns containing 5,000 and not exceeding 10,000 inhabitants; and second, towns containing 2,000 and not exceeding 5,000. There were in Ireland, on the Census night, 27 of the former and 65 of the latter. The Province of Leinster contained 9 of the towns returned in Table 74, Munster contained a like number, Ulster 8, and one town (Athlone) is situated partly in Leinster and partly in Connaught. Of the towns returned in Table 75, 18 are in the Province of Leinster, 21 in that of Munster, 19 in Ulster, and 7 in Connaught.

Under the above heads, Tables 71-75, is comprised the Civic Area of Ireland, which in 1891 consisted of 124,660 acres, and contained 1,244,113 inhabitants.

As compared with 1881, the Civic Area of Ireland has increased by 4,968 acres, or 4.06 per cent., and the population has decreased by 1,390 persons, or .11 per cent. Exclusive of the large increase in Belfast, referred to above, the Civic population of Ireland decreased by 4.74 per cent. during the decade. Several towns, however, with and without local government, which were included within the Civic area in 1881, are excluded on the present occasion, as they do not contain 2,000 inhabitants. These towns contained in 1891 an aggregate population of 18,899 persons.

The increase in Civic area, notwithstanding the transfer of the towns last referred to, is owing to the extension of some townships and to the formation of others, under the provisions of the Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 17 & 18 Vic., Cap. 103, but these latter changes have not added much to the number of houses or the population within the township boundaries.

Table 76 exhibits towns with local government but not containing 2,000 inhabitants. Of these there are 18 in Ireland which are not included in the Civic area, although separately returned in Table 5 of the book for each county. They are, with one exception, locally governed under the provisions of the Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 17 and 18 Vic., Cap. 103. Four of these Towns were included in the Civic area in 1881, but have not now the required number of inhabitants.

In Table 77, p. 330, we have given, as in 1871 and 1881, the area, houses, and population of the Dublin Metropolitan Police District, and of the Dublin Registration District. No remarks regarding these districts are necessary, as both embrace the City of Dublin, and are, to a large extent, coincident with it and its Suburban Townships, which have been treated of elsewhere.

SPECIAL INQUIRY AS TO AGRICULTURAL HOLDINGS.

Agricultural Holdings in 1891, classified according to rateable valuation, with the Population, Houses, &c., in each class, also the number of Holdings according to size.— In the Census Report of 1881, Tables were included showing the relation between the Agricultural Population and the Holdings upon which they resided. These Tables threw a great light upon the social condition and means of subsistence of the Occupiers of Agricultural Holdings in Ireland, and served as useful standards of comparisons between the results published by the Registrar-General in the Annual Report on the Agricultural Statistics of Ireland, and the actual condition of the Agricultural Holdings and their Occupiers.

In the Census Report for 1881, the Classification adopted was as follows :—

1st	Class Holdings not exceeding 1 Statute Acre.		5 Statute Acres.
2nd	" above 1 and not exceeding
3rd	" above 5	"	10
4th	" above 10	"	15
5th	" above 15	"	20
6th	" above 20	"	30
7th	" above 30	"	50
8th	" above 50	"	100
9th	" above 100	"	200
11th	" above 500 Statute Acres.

It will be observed that the foregoing grouping was altogether by acreage

During the past decade various inquiries have taken place and many legislative measures have been brought before Parliament which required special and more accurate information regarding the valuation of Agricultural Holdings than had hitherto been available. Great difficulty was experienced in obtaining information of this character. We have therefore determined on the present occasion to classify the Agricultural Holdings not merely by acreage, as was done in 1881, but also by rateable valuation. An attempt has been made in Tables 48-64 to combine as far as practicable the information corresponding to that published in the Report of 1881, with the further information regarding the valuation of Agricultural Holdings.

GENERAL
REPORT.

They have accordingly been grouped, as follows, regarding valuation :—

Special In- quiry as to Agricultural Holdings.	1st	Class Holdings not exceeding £4 in rateable value.	£4 and not exceeding	£10 in rateable value
	2nd	" above	£4	£10
	4th	" above	£15	£20

	11th	" above	£300 in rateable value.

The returns from which these tables were constructed were collected on Forms M 1, M 2, and M 3.

On Form M 1 information, as in 1881, was sought as to the number of agricultural holdings, the area and rateable valuation of each, the number of houses and out-offices, and the resident population on the night of the Census. The valuation referred to is the General Tenement Valuation commenced in 1852 and completed in 1864 (popularly known as Griffith's); on it are based all public and local assessments, as also are the Parliamentary and Municipal Franchises. On Form M 2 was made, by the enumerator, a summary by Electoral Divisions of the particulars contained in Form M 1. Form "M 3" was prepared with a view to provide for those cases where an occupier of land resident within the enumerator's district, held two or more farms, or had a farm which extended into two or more adjoining townlands (the townland having been adopted as the unit of observation with respect to these Returns), and on this Form the enumerator entered the name of the townland where each farm or portion of a farm was situated. Before the general classification of the holdings was begun in this office, the information given on Form "M 3" was utilized for the purpose of combining the several details regarding the different portions of each person's farm, and the complete farm was subsequently classified according to rateable valuation in the same manner as if it were an undivided holding.

Classifica-
Agricultural Holdings
according to area.

The statistical results will be most fully appreciated by classifying the holdings into groups, above and below certain definite standards of rateable valuation and acreage. In the latter, above and below the area of 30 acres as adopted in the Report for 1881, and in the former above and below the corresponding value, i.e., above and below 15 guineas. With regard to acreage, it appears from the Tables that, of the 486,865 agricultural holdings, there are 238,464, or 63 per cent., not exceeding 30 acres. In 1881 such holdings numbered 348,970, or 70 per cent. of the total. Of the holdings in 1891 not exceeding 30 acres in extent, there are 268,530 not exceeding 20 acres, 212,992 not exceeding 15 acres, 150,200 not exceeding 10 acres, 73,797 not exceeding 5 acres, and 18,243 not exceeding 1 acre. It would be unfair to consider all those as bona fide agricultural holdings, having regard to the fact that deduction should be made for villas standing on small plots of land situated sufficiently outside large towns to be excluded from town holdings. Again, certain of those not exceeding 1 acre are merely labourers' holdings. In any case, however, the return shows a vast number of small agricultural holdings in Ireland, the occupiers of which are endeavouring to earn a living by the product of the same.

The holdings above 30 acres number 153,401 (or 32 per cent. of the total against 30 per cent. in 1881), of which 86,432 are over 50 acres, 33,504 over 100 acres, 11,150 over 200 acres, and 2,175 over 500 acres.

Comparing the four Provinces, it will be found that the holdings not exceeding 30 acres constitute in Leinster 63·2 per cent. of the total number, in Munster 50·1, in Ulster 74·9, and in Connaught 80·4. In the county of Mayo the proportion reaches 83·7 per cent., and in Roscommon 82·5. In the county of Armagh, where the per-centage of those not exceeding 30 acres is 88·0, we find the highest proportion of small holdings in any county of Ulster.

Classification according to Rateable
Valuation.

The average rateable valuation of the holdings included in these Tables is about 10s. 6d. per acre, thus the average value of a 30 acre holding would be 15 guineas, the nearest standard of valuation to this in the Tables is £15, therefore the economic condition of the occupiers of the smaller holdings may be illustrated in a similar manner in respect to rateable valuation as has already been done with regard to area. Thus classifying holdings into those of a value not exceeding £15, and those exceeding £15, respectively, we find that of the 496,865 holdings there are 332,556, or 66·3 per cent., not exceeding £15 in valuation, of these there are 271,690 not exceeding £10, and 127,098 not exceeding £4 in rateable value.

Similar deductions (as already remarked) would have to be made for holdings not strictly agricultural, as in the case of the classification by acreage.

A comparison of these results, with the "Valuation Map" (IV), shows a close correspondence between the area of the poorer districts and the greater sub-division of land into holdings of small area and low value.

The holdings valued above £15 amounted to 154,809, or 31·7 per cent., of which 117,301 exceeded £20, 40,783 exceeded £50, 15,210 exceeded £100, 4,756 exceeded £200, and 2,190 exceeded £300 in rateable value.

Comparing the four Provinces, it will be found that the holdings not exceeding £15 in rateable value constitute in Leinster 57·3 per cent. of the total number of holdings in that Province; in Munster 58·3; in Ulster 68·8; and in Connaught 86·6 per cent.

In all the counties in the Province of Connaught, the per-centage of holdings not exceeding £15 in rateable valuation is above 80·0; in the County of Mayo the per-centage being 92·1; in four counties in the Province of Ulster the per-centage exceeds 70·0—that for Donegal being 87·2; in the Province of Munster the per-centage exceeds 70·0 in two counties, viz., Kerry and Clare, in which the per-centages are 75·0 and 70·4 respectively; in four counties in Leinster the per-centage exceeds 60·0—Longford, Louth, King's, and Queen's, viz., 69·0, 64·1, 63·1, and 63·1 respectively.

As stated in the General Report of the Census Commission of 1881, page 12—

"These large proportions of smaller holdings in Connaught and in some portions of Ulster, point to narrow means of subsistence for such small agriculturists. These deficiencies are, however, to some extent compensated for in the case of Mayo and other Connaught counties by the earnings of the agricultural labourers who annually visit Great Britain, as shown by the returns of Migratory Labourers published annually by the Registrar-General. In the case of Armagh and other Ulster counties in the north-east of Ireland, the deficiency is made up by the earnings of handloom weavers in those parts where this industry is still carried on. Again, the small agriculturists along the coast of the west and north-west supplement their earnings from farming operations, by fishing and the manufacture of kelp. The former occupation has been always carried on under great difficulties, and the kelp trade has of late years become unremunerative."

The distribution of the population on the agricultural holdings also points to an excessive struggle for existence in some of the remote agricultural districts of Ireland.

Thus the proportion of the total population living on agricultural holdings not exceeding £15 in rateable value is for Ireland, 34·7 per cent.; for the province of Leinster, 19·7; Munster, 29·3; Ulster, 33·5; and Connaught, 70·6. In the county of Leitrim the per-centage is 78·2; in Mayo, 74·6; and in Donegal, 68·0.

The proportion of the population living on agricultural holdings over £15 in rateable value is for Ireland 28·4 per cent.—for the Province of Leinster, 28·1; Munster, 35·8; Ulster, 28·3; and Connaught, 16·3.

Of the population in Ireland on Census night of 1891—36·9 per cent. did not reside on agricultural holdings; in Leinster the per-centage was 52·2; in Munster, 34·9; in Ulster, 37·7; and in Connaught, 13·1.

Comparing the classes of houses, it will be seen from Table 60 that 60 per cent. of the 4th class houses on agricultural holdings were on holdings not exceeding £15 in rateable value—in Leinster, 47·0 per cent.; in Munster, 49·8; in Ulster, 89·9; and in Connaught, 82·8. The per-centage in the county of Donegal is 87·1; in Mayo, 86·6; in Galway, 84·7; and in Leitrim, 81·5.

AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS.

According to the Agricultural Statistics (Ireland) for last year (1891), presented to Parliament by the Registrar-General, there were 4,818,381 acres, or 23·9 per cent. of the total area, under crops, consisting of 2,738,852 under tillage, and 2,059,529 under meadow and clover; 10,298,654, or 5·10 per cent., under grass; 21,626, or 0·1 per cent., under fallow or uncropped arable land; 311,554, or 1·5 per cent., under woods and plantations; 1,743,223, or 8·6 per cent., under bog and marsh; 2,211,341 or 10·9 per cent., under barren mountain land; and the remaining 792,787 acres, or 3·9 per cent., were stated to be under "Roads, Fences, &c."

In 1881 the proportion per cent. under crops, including meadow and clover, was 25·6; grass, 49·6; fallow, 0·1; woods and plantations, 1·6; and bog and marsh, 8·4; barren mountain land 10·4; and under "Water, Roads, Fences, &c.," 4·3.

GENERAL REPORT.	The five counties having the largest per-centage under crops (1891) in proportion to their total extent were Armagh, Down, Louth, Monaghan, and Wexford,—viz., 47·0, 44·8, 41·5, 39·8, and 34·5, respectively. The following nine counties had less than 20 per cent. of land under crops,—viz., Wicklow, 19·7; Donegal, 19·7; Westmeath, 19·4; Clare, 18·2; Waterford, 17·1; Sligo, 16·4; Kerry, 14·6; Galway, 14·0; Mayo, 11·8.
Agricultural Statistics.	The following five counties had the greatest per-centage of land under grass.—Meath, Westmeath, Limerick, Clare, and Kilkenny,—viz., 70·4, 64·5, 64·2, 60·9, and 60·2, respectively; and the five having the lowest were Donegal, Londonderry, Down, Armagh, and Mayo,—viz., 34·9, 39·6, 39·8, 40·6, and 42·0 per cent., respectively.
Grass.	The counties having the largest per-centage of land under woods and plantations were Waterford, Wicklow, Queen's, and Down,—viz., 4·5, 3·6, 2·3, and 2·3, respectively; and those having the lowest were Donegal, Mayo, Antrim, and Leitrim,—viz., 0·5, 0·8, 0·8, and 0·9 per cent., respectively.
Woods and Plantations.	The following counties have the largest extent of land under bog and marsh :—Mayo, 325,693; Galway, 236,040; Donegal, 160,437; Kerry, 119,969; King's, 112,138 acres, the total extent in these five counties amounting to 954,277 acres, being over 17 per cent. of their entire surface. There is a comparatively small amount of bog and marsh in the counties of Down, Dublin, and Louth.
Bog and Marsh.	The counties of Cork, Donegal, Galway, Kerry, and Mayo have each over 200,000 acres under barren mountain land, and Wicklow, over 100,000 acres, the total extent for these six counties being 1,434,059 acres, or more than 19 per cent. of their entire surface.
Barren Mountain Land.	Taking bog and marsh and barren mountain land together, the following counties have more than 20 per cent. of their total area under this heading :—Donegal, 41·0; Galway, 32·5; Kerry, 31·5; King's, 24·3; Londonderry, 20·1; Mayo, 41·6; Sligo, 24·8; Tyrone, 20·3; Waterford, 21·8; and Wicklow, 28·2.
Tillage.	The extent under tillage in 1881 amounted to 3,194,346 acres, and in 1891 to 2,758,852 acres, showing a decrease of 435,494 acres, or 13·6 per cent.
Cereal Crops.	Cereal Crops. —The acreage under wheat in 1881 was 153,794 acres, and in 1891 it was 80,876 acres, showing a decrease of 72,924 acres, or 47·4 per cent. A decrease of 53·4 per cent. took place in the province of Leinster; 53·9 in Munster; and 42·7 in Ulster; there was an increase of 38·2 per cent. in Connaught.
	In 1881 there were 1,393,312 acres under oats, and in 1891, there were 1,125,396 acres, showing a decrease of 177,916 acres, or 12·8 per cent. The decreases in the Provinces were as follows :—Leinster, 11·2 per cent.; Munster, 13·6; Ulster, 9·8; and Connaught, 24·6 per cent.
	In 1881 barley covered an area of 210,093 acres, and in 1891 an area of 177,966 acres, showing a decrease of 32,127 acres, or 15·3 per cent.; there was a decrease of 13·5 per cent. in the province of Leinster; 9·9 per cent. in Munster; 44·1 per cent. in Ulster; and 50·4 per cent. in Connaught.
	The extent covered by the other cereal crops in 1881 was 19,976 acres, and in 1891 it was 18,431 acres; showing a decrease of 1,445 acres, or 7·2 per cent. A decrease of 51·7 per cent. took place in the province of Leinster; and a decrease of 14·5 per cent. in Ulster. An increase of 30·8 per cent. took place in Munster; and an increase of 69·4 per cent. in Connaught.
Green Crops.	Green Crops. —The extent of land under potatoes in 1881 amounted to 855,293 acres, and in 1891 to 753,332 acres; showing a decrease of 101,961 acres, or 11·9 per cent. In the province of Leinster the decrease was 9·2 per cent.; in Munster, 15·5; in Ulster, 6·2; and in Connaught, 20·6.
	The area under turnips in 1881 amounted to 295,212 acres, and in 1891 to 300,326; showing an increase of 5,114 acres, or 1·7 per cent. An increase of 10·4 per cent. took place in Ulster. The decrease in the province of Leinster was 1·5 per cent.; Munster, 3·5 per cent.; and Connaught, 0·1 per cent.
	In 1881 other green crops covered an area of 119,521 acres, and in 1891, 137,766 acres, being 18,245 acres, or 15·3 per cent. more than in 1881. In the province of Leinster the increase was 5·4 per cent.; in Munster, 25·3 per cent.; in Ulster 3·0 per cent.; and in Connaught 33·0 per cent.
Flax.	The extent under flax in 1881 amounted to 147,145 acres, and in 1891 to 74,665 acres, being 72,480 acres, or 49·3 per cent. less than in 1881. In the provinces the decreases were as follows :—Leinster, 87·6 per cent.; Munster, 89·1 per cent.; Ulster, 48·4 per cent.; and Connaught, 90·3 per cent.
Meadow and Clover.	The acreage under meadow and clover in 1881 amounted to 2,001,029 acres, and in 1891 to 2,059,529 acres, showing an increase of 58,500 acres, or 2·9 per cent. In the province of Munster the increase was 2·1 per cent.; in Ulster, 14·0 per cent.; and in Connaught, 4·8 per cent.; a decrease of 6·0 per cent. took place in Leinster.

In 1881 the average produce of wheat to the statute acre was 14.9 cwt.; and in 1891 it was 17.3. The average rates for the provinces in 1881 were, Leinster, 16.4; Munster, 14.0; Ulster, 14.9; and Connaught, 12.8; in 1891 they were as follows:—Leinster, 18.5; Munster, 17.8; Ulster, 16.4; and Connaught, 14.8 cwt. The rate for the year 1891 was the highest—in 1882, 1883, and 1888, the rates were only 13.6, 13.7, and 13.8 cwt. respectively.

The average produce of oats to the statute acre in 1881 was 14.1 cwt.; in 1891 it was 15.3. In 1881 the average rates for the provinces were, Leinster, 15.7 cwt.; Munster, 15.2; Ulster, 13.2; and Connaught, 13.4 cwt.; for 1891 the rates were, Leinster, 16.4 cwt.; Munster 17.1; Ulster, 14.4; and Connaught, 15.7 cwt. The highest rate in any year of the decade was in the year 1891, whilst the rates for the years 1882 and 1887 were only 13.1 and 11.5 cwt. respectively.

The average produce of barley in 1881 to the statute acre was 15.8 cwt.; in 1891 it was 18.6; the rates for the provinces in 1881, being:—Leinster, 15.9 cwt.; Munster, 16.1; Ulster, 15.2; and Connaught, 12.9 cwt.; and those for 1891 being, Leinster, 18.4; Munster, 19.7; Ulster, 16.3; and Connaught, 15.7 cwt. The highest rate for Ireland during the ten years was in the year 1891, and the lowest rates were in 1882 and 1887, when they were only 14.7 and 12.8 respectively.

In 1881 the average rate of produce of potatoes per statute acre was 4.0 tons; in 1891 also it was 4.0 tons. The produce for the provinces in 1881 was—Leinster, 4.1 tons; Munster, 4.1; Ulster, 4.1, and Connaught 3.6 tons; and in 1891 it was—Leinster, 3.9 tons; Munster, 4.4; Ulster, 3.7; and Connaught 4.4 tons. In the year 1887 the rate was as high as 4.5 tons, while the rates for 1882 and 1890 were only 2.4 and 2.3 tons respectively.

The average produce of turnips to the statute acre in 1881 was 12.9 tons; in 1891 it was 14.5. In the provinces the produce in 1881 was—Leinster, 14.0 tons; Munster, 12.3; Ulster 12.8; and Connaught, 11.8 tons; in 1891 the rates were—Leinster, 15.2 tons; Munster, 14.2, Ulster, 14.2; and Connaught, 14.1 tons. The highest rate of produce of this crop was in the year 1891; in 1887 the rate was as low as 9.1 tons, whilst for the years 1882, 1884, 1885, and 1888 it was 11.5, 11.5, 11.3, and 11.3 tons respectively.

The average produce of flax per statute acre in 1881 was 30.8 stones; in 1891 it was 29.5. The rates of produce for the provinces in 1881 were—Leinster, 31.2 stones; Munster, 31.7; Ulster, 30.8, and Connaught 24.5 stones; and in 1891 the rates were—Leinster, 28.3 stones; Munster, 28.1; Ulster, 29.5, and Connaught 25.9 stones. The rate in the year 1890 was as high as 33.4 stones; while in 1887 the rate was as low as 18.6 stones.

The average produce of hay to the statute acre in 1881 was 2.0 tons; in 1891 it was 2.1 tons. The produce per acre for the provinces in 1881 was—Leinster, 1.9 tons; Munster, 2.0; Ulster, 2.0; and Connaught, 2.1 tons; in 1891 it was—Leinster, 2.1 tons; Munster, 2.0; Ulster, 2.2, and Connaught, 2.3 tons. The rate for Ireland in the year 1888 was as high as 2.3 tons, and for the years 1884 and 1887 it was only 1.9 and 1.7 tons respectively.

From Table 63, it will be seen that the only counties in which, in 1891, as compared with 1881, there was an appreciable increase in the extent of land under crops were Kerry and Fermanagh, viz., 1.8 and 1.4 per cent. respectively; there was an increase of 103 acres in Donegal. In the following counties the decrease in the extent under crops was over 10 per cent., Armagh, 12.1, Dublin, 17.2, Kildare, 11.8, Kilkenny, 10.4, Limerick, 10.6, Louth, 14.2, Mayo, 14.3, Meath, 14.7, Sligo, 17.5, Westmeath, 14.6. There was an increase of population in one of these counties, viz., Dublin, 0.1 per cent. The percentage of decrease in the population of the other counties mentioned were, Armagh, 12.2, Kildare, 7.4, Kilkenny, 12.3, Limerick, 12.0, Louth, 8.6, Mayo, 10.7, Meath, 12.0, Sligo, 12.2, Westmeath, 9.3.

In 1881, the number of horses in the whole of Ireland was 548,354, and in 1891 it amounted to 592,819, showing an increase of 44,465, or 8.1 per cent. There was an increase of 8.0 per cent. in the Province of Leinster; 11.3 per cent. in Munster; 6.6 per cent. in Ulster; and 5.8 per cent. in Connaught.

The number of cattle in Ireland in 1881 being 3,956,595, and in 1891, 4,448,511, an increase is shown of 491,916, or 12.4 per cent. An increase of 10.6 per cent. took place in the province of Leinster; of 12.9 per cent. in Munster, of 14.2 per cent. in Ulster; and of 11.5 per cent. in Connaught.

The number of sheep in Ireland in 1881 amounted to 3,256,185, and in 1891 to 4,722,613, being 1,466,428, or 45.0 per cent. more than in 1881; an increase of 40.2 per cent. took place in the province of Leinster; 48.3 per cent. in Munster; 78.9 per cent. in Ulster; and 35.1 per cent. in Connaught.

GENERAL
Pgs.

In 1881 there were 1,095,830 pigs in Ireland: in 1891 there were 1,367,712, showing an increase of 271,882, or 24·8 per cent. In the provinces the per-centages of increase were as follows:—Leinster, 24·9 per cent.; Munster, 8·0 per cent.; Ulster, 53·7; and Connaught, 22·0 per cent.

We illustrate this portion of our Report by Diagrams Nos. 1 and 2.

SHIPPING.

Shipping and Persons on Board.

We now beg to bring under your Excellency's notice, the general results of the Shipping Census, the statistics of which will be found in Table 11, page 109.

The detailed classification of vessels introduced in 1871, and continued in 1881, has been again adopted on the present occasion. We have distinguished vessels in the Government service and those under local boards or corporations, ships in foreign trade and in home or coasting trade, fishing craft, boats engaged on inland navigation, and pleasure boats. It would appear that the total population on board vessels in Irish harbours, or in Irish waters, whether inland or on the seaboard was 9,038 (7,916 British subjects and 1,142 Foreigners), compared with 11,595 in 1881, and 8,870 in 1871. In 1881 the British subjects numbered 10,348 and the Foreigners 1,247, and in 1871, 7,611 were British subjects and 1,259 Foreigners. The number of persons in foreign or colonial vessels is returned as 909, compared with 1,045 in 1881, and 1,325 in 1871.

There were enumerated in 1891, 2,303 vessels of every dimension, comprising 30 in the Government service, 87 under local boards or corporations, 122 in foreign trade, 689 in home or coasting trade, 995 fishing, 179 on inland navigation, and 221 in pleasure.

It may be added that the enumeration of shipping in Ireland extended over a period of one week from the Census night, and included all vessels arriving in Irish waters during that week, the occupants of which were not enumerated elsewhere.

II.—AGES OF THE PEOPLE.

Ages of the People

The population of Ireland according to sexes, in 1881 and 1891, under 1 year, 1 year and under 5, and in quinquennial periods from 5 years upwards, will be found in Table 78, page 330, together with the actual increase or decrease in 1891, and the proportion per cent. represented by the same.

From this Table it will be seen that the number of children under 15 years of age, shows a marked diminution as compared with the number in 1881:

	1881.	1891.	Decrease or Increase No.	Per Cent.
Under 1 year,	104,963	50,769	14,375	14
1—5,	471,016	379,584	91,434	19
5—10,	621,637	596,772	112,865	18
10—15,	616,370	548,922	68,448	11

There was a decrease of 31 per cent. in children under 1 year, and of 9 per cent. in those of 1-5 years in 1881 as compared with 1871, which would now affect the age-period 10-15, as is shown in the foregoing statement. The diminution in the population from 15 to 20 years in 1891 only amounted to 2 per cent. At the reproductive age-period (20 to 55 years), adopted by the Commissioners in 1871, the decrease was 6 per cent., there being 2,112,909 persons in this age-period in 1881, as compared with 1,952,295 in 1891. Analysing the decrease in this period, we find a fall of 44,725, or 6 per cent., at 20-30; of 46,796, or 8 per cent., at 30-40; and of 47,661, or 15 per cent., at 40-45, with a slight increase, 5,857, or 3 per cent., at 45-50; and an increase of 3,711, or 4 per cent., at 50-55.

At age 55-60 there was an increase of 343 persons, or 2 per cent.; at 60-65 a fall of 33,418, or 15 per cent.; at 65-70 of 11,737, or 12 per cent.; at 70-75 of 10,625, or 9 per cent.; at 75-80 of 363, or 1 per cent.; and at 80 to 85 of 3,104, or 7 per cent. We then find remarkable increases at the next two groups of ages (85-90 and 90-95); there being 11,329 persons enumerated in 1891 in the former, compared with 8,484 in 1881—an increase of 2,845, or 34 per cent.—and 5,771 in 1891, in the latter, compared with 4,024 in 1881, an increase of 1,747, or 43 per cent. We might be inclined to doubt the accuracy of these figures, were it not that in 1881 we find large increases as compared with 1871 in the age-periods 75-80 and 80-85.

From Table 79, page 380, in which the population is reduced to a basis of 100,000, it will be seen that the population of Ireland was proportionately greater at the following ages in 1891 than in 1881:—

Proportion per 100,000 of the Population of IRELAND in 1891 and 1881 at each Quinquennial period, in which there was an increase in 1891:—

	1881	1891.
15 and under 20 years,	11,093	10,807
20 " 25 "	8,451	9,229
25 " 30 "	6,783	6,389
30 " 35 "	5,934	5,854
45 " 50 "	4,312	3,808
50 " 55 "	5,440	4,760
55 " 60 "	3,032	2,491
75 " 80 "	992	909

85 " 90 "	241	164
90 " 95 "	123	77
95 and upwards,	43	40

At the following age-periods it was proportionately less.

	1881	1891.
Under 5 years,	10,062	11,137
5 and under 10 years,	10,818	12,026
10 " 15 "	11,093	11,918
35 " 40 "	4,853	4,858
40 " 45 "	5,586	5,947
60 " 65 "	4,073	4,326
65 " 70 "	2,884	1,940
70 " 75 "	2,181	2,189

On this basis the general features exhibited are as follows:—

	1881.	1891.
Under 20 years,	44,306	45,882
20-55 "	42,289	40,867
55 years and upwards,	13,403	13,261

Thus, in every 100,000 of the population we have a decrease of 1,676 in the number under 20 years as compared with 1881, and an increase of 1,442 in those in the "reproductive period" (20-55), and of 234 in persons aged 55 and upwards.

Under the heading of "ages not specified" there is a decrease of 40 per cent., representing an absolute decrease of 1,210. In 1861 the persons whose ages were unspecified amounted to 3,838, in 1871 to 3,769, in 1881 to 2,996, and 1891 to 1,786. We may take it for granted that so far as regards the domiciled population the enumerators were careful to have all omissions in the returns supplied before transmitting the files to the Census office. The cases of unspecified age, therefore, in nearly every instance, we may safely assume, were those of travellers or other persons of shifting residence, whom the enumerators were unable to trace after their departure from the locality where they were living upon the night of the Census, some being persons on board ships which left port before full information could be obtained.

The centenarians in 1891 numbered 578 (229 males and 349 females); the number for the year 1881 having been 690 (224 males and 466 females); and for 1871, 724 (259 males and 465 females).

Table 82, page 332, corresponding with that given in the Reports for previous Censuses, shows by Provinces in single year periods the number of males and females who were returned at the last Census as having attained the age of 100 years or upwards.

From this Table it appears that Munster supplies the greatest number of instances of extreme longevity, 91 males and 129 females; Ulster comes next with 85 males and 132 females; Connaught next with 30 males and 57 females; and Leinster last, with but 23 males and 31 females. A reference to the succeeding Table (83), which exhibits by Counties and Provinces the conjugal condition and education of persons 100 years old and upwards, shows that 57—18 males and 39 females—were unmarried; 99—89 males and 10 females—were married; and 422—122 males and 300 females—were widowed. Only 79 out of the 578 could read and write; 51 could read only, and 468 could neither read nor write. The greatest actual number of centenarians is to be found in Cork, Kerry, Donegal, Galway, and Tyrone.

GENERAL
REPORT.

III.—CIVIL OR CONJUGAL CONDITION OF THE PEOPLE.

Civil or Conjugal condition.Number and proportion of Unmarried, Married,
and Widowed.

Of the 1,541,287 males aged 15 years and upwards in Ireland, on the Census night, 836,138, or 54.25 per cent., were bachelors, 613,649, or 39.81 per cent., husbands, and 91,500, or 5.94 per cent., widowers; and of the 1,634,896 females of the same ages, 776,361, or 47.50 per cent., were spinsters, 626,031, or 38.30 per cent., wives, and 235,004, or 14.20 per cent., widows. The proportions here set forth compare unfavourably with those for 1881, in which year the unmarried males formed only 50.81 per cent. of the total, as against 54.25 per cent. in 1891, and the unmarried females only 44.79 per cent., against 47.50. While the proportionate number of unmarried persons has thus increased, there has been merely a fractional decrease in the per-centage of the widowed, so that "husbands," who, in 1881, formed the not high proportion of 43.24 per cent. of the males aged 15 years and upwards, do not on this occasion exceed 39.81 per cent., and the relative number of "wives" has fallen from 40.74 per cent. to 38.30. The quinquennial age-period exhibiting the greatest increase in the relative number of unmarried men is that from 40 to 45 years, the table (Table 84, page 353) showing that while, in 1881, bachelors constituted only 22.6 per cent. of the total number of males of that age, in 1891 the proportion had risen to 27.9 in every hundred. As regards spinsters, the greatest proportional increase is in the age-period 25 and under 30—the number in every hundred women having advanced from 53 to 59. The figures last quoted, and the fact disclosed by the returns that 94 in every hundred males aged 20 and under 25 years, and 75 in every hundred males aged from 25 to 30, were unmarried, prove the infrequency of early marriages in Ireland.

Early Marriages not numerous.Conjugal condition of persons aged 20 years and upwards.

We have here given the respective per-centages of the unmarried, married, and widowed, based on the population aged 15 and upwards, it being customary in these countries to regard 15 years as the inferior limit of the marriageable age. In Ireland, at the present time, however, but one in every thousand males aged from 15 to 20, and 9 in every thousand females of that age, are married, and as persons at that period of life constitute nearly 12 per cent. of the population at all ages, we consider it preferable, in glancing at the conjugal condition of the inhabitants of the various portions of the island, to exclude from our survey all persons aged under 20 years.

A reference to Table 85, page 354, which gives the proportion of single, married, and widowed persons in each province and county, and in the cities of Dublin and Belfast, shows that of the males in Ireland, aged 20 and upwards, 44.3 per cent. were bachelors, 48.5 per cent. husbands, and 7.2 per cent. widowers, and that the females were distributed as follows:—Spinsters, 37.1 per cent., wives, 45.8, and widows, 17.1. The large preponderance of widows, as compared with widowers, is in accord with results shown by previous enumerations, and is due, in great part, to the much more frequent instances of re-marriage amongst widowers, the Registrar-General's Report for 1890 showing that the re-marriages of widowers in that year amounted to 2,237, while the number of widows re-married was 1,049 only.

Widows
Widowers.

In the province of Leinster, the proportion of celibate males in the population, aged 20 and upwards, was 48.0 per cent.; in Munster it was 44.7; in Ulster, 42.6; and in Connaught, 40.6. The provinces do not come in the same order with regard to unmarried females, and there is a greater range between the highest and the lowest per-centages, viz.:—In Ulster the spinsters were 40.1 per cent.; in Leinster, 39.7; in Munster, 34.2; and in Connaught, 29.4 only.

Unmarried.

Exclusive of Kildare, in which, owing principally to the large number of unmarried in the military quartered on the Carragh, the per-centage of bachelors reached the abnormal proportion of 58.5, there are four counties (all in Leinster) in which they formed more than one-half of the male population aged 20 years and upwards, namely, the counties of Meath, Westmeath, Queen's, and King's, where the per-centages were respectively 52.7, 51.0, 50.8, and 50.4. The lowest county per-centage of bachelors was 36.7, the proportion for Mayo; and the only other areas dealt with in the Table, in which the proportion was under 40 in 100, are the city of Belfast, where the per-centage of bachelors was 35.9, and the county of Down where the per-centage was 39.5. In ten counties bachelors formed 40 and under 45 per cent. of the total number of males aged 20 and upwards; and in fifteen they were between 45 and 50 per cent. In the metropolis the per-centage was 42.8.

Spinsters, aged 20 years and upwards, were, relatively, most numerous in the county of Dublin, where they amounted to 48.0 per cent. of the total number of females of those ages, and were proportionately fewest in Mayo, in which county the per-centage was 28.0.

In three other counties, also, viz.:—Galway, Kerry, and Leitrim, the per centage was under 30, and in twenty-one it was between 30 and 40. In the counties of Tyrone, Londonderry, Antrim, Down, Wexford, and Meath, the proportion was between 40 and 45. The per-centage for the city of Dublin was 36·7.

The proportion of husbands in every hundred males aged 20 and upwards, ranged from 35·5 in the county of Kildare, and 39·9 in Meath, to 57·9 in the city of Belfast. In twenty-two of the remaining thirty counties married men were less than a moiety, and in eight they were more than 50, but less than 60, per cent. of the males aged 20 and upwards. In the city of Dublin the per-centage was 50·4.

In the county of Dublin 36·6 per cent. only of the females aged 20 and upwards were married persons, while in Mayo the corresponding per-centage was 54·6. Between these extremes we find that there are nineteen counties in which the proportion was between 40 and 45 per cent., six in which it reached 45, but was under 50, and only five in which it exceeded 50. In the Metropolis the per-centage was 44·6, and in Belfast it was 46·5.

The per-centage of widowers among the male population aged 20 and upwards, varied from 6·0 in the counties of Dublin and Kildare, to 8·3 in Kilkenny, and the proportion of widows among the females of the same ages ranged from 13·9 per cent. in Antrim, to 20·0 in the county of Clare.

For the purposes of comparison with the results shown in the Reports on previous Censuses, we have prepared a table (Table 86, page 354), showing for each province the number and proportion per cent. of unmarried, married, and widowed persons among the population 17 years of age and upwards, this being the age limit adopted in 1841. As we have dealt with the respective proportions of unmarried, married, and widowed in the population aged 15 and upwards, and in the population exclusive of those who had not attained their twentieth year, it is unnecessary for us to refer at length to the figures in this Table, but we may point out that the per-centage of unmarried persons in the population aged 17 years and upwards, which rose from 41·2 in 1871, to 43·8 in 1881, has further risen to 47·0.

Table 87, on page 355, gives the number and per-centage of unmarried, married, and widowed in the female population between the ages of 15 and 45 years, which may be regarded as the child-bearing period. By this Table it is found that of 1,067,154 females within the age-limits named, as many as 676,222 or 63·4 per cent. were unmarried, 358,447 or only 33·6 per cent. married, and 31,825 or 3·0 per cent. widowed. The very low proportion of married women, namely 33·6 per cent., shows that the natural increase of the population must, of necessity, be comparatively slow. The table gives details for each Province and County, and for the Cities of Dublin and Belfast, these being the areas for which birth-rates are given in the Registrar-General's Reports. The respective per-centages of married women in the provinces were:—Connacht, 35·5, Leinster, 33·9, Ulster, 33·1, and Munster, 32·9. The highest per-centage was 40·3 for the City of Dublin, and the next 38·3 for the City of Belfast. The only counties in which more than 35 per cent. of the females aged from 15 to 45 years, were married, are—Galway (36·4), Leitrim (36·4), Mayo (36·3), and Kerry (35·6). In the county of Tyrone the per-centage was but 29·0.

A summary table (Table 16) of the ages of husbands and their wives in combination, with columns showing the number and ages of husbands whose wives were absent, and of wives whose husbands were absent, is given on page 111. The quinquennial age-period having the greatest number of husbands is that from 50 to 55—the number being 82,578 out of a total at all ages of 613,649. The greatest number of wives—91,829 out of a total of 626,031—occurs in the age-period from 40 to 45. Setting aside those instances of great disparity between the ages of the married couple which are always to be met with, it will be interesting to note the respective ages of the husband and wife as shown by this table. By way of illustration we select the age-period from 40 to 45, which furnishes the largest absolute number of the married; and we find that of the 80,966 husbands aged 40 and under 45, there were 76,699 resident with their wives on the night of the Census, and that of these, 22,613 were married to wives also aged from 40 to 45 years; 24,889 had wives aged between 35 and 40 years; 16,529 had wives aged 30 and under 35, and in 5,179 instances the wives were between 25 and 30 years of age. In 4,341 cases men aged from 40 to 45 years, were married to women aged 45 and under 50, and in 1,579 the wives were aged between 50 and 55.

Again, of 91,829 wives aged 40 and under 45 years, 85,241 resided with their husbands on the Census night. These latter included 22,613 who, as indicated above, were married to men of their own age; 23,044 who had husbands aged from 45 to 50 years, and 20,895 whose husbands were between 50 and 55 years of age. There were 4,380 wives whose husbands were aged between 35 and 40, but only 1,272 whose husbands were between 30 and 35 years old.

It will be observed that a large number of the married men aged 40 and under 45 years, were husbands whose wives were absent, and that a still larger proportion of the married women were similarly circumstanced. A like condition of things, more or less varied in relative extent, obtains through all the age-periods, with the result that of the total number (613,649) of married men in the country, 34,179 were "husbands whose wives were absent," and of the 626,031 married women, there were 46,561 who came under the category of "wives whose husbands were absent." It must be borne in mind that each person was enumerated in the place in which he or she happened to be on the night of the Census, and it can readily be understood that the ordinary avocations of many individuals, and the various accidental circumstances that inevitably arise, enforce a temporary absence from home and a consequent separation for the time being of husband and wife.

Assuming (which, strictly speaking, we are not entitled to do), that all the "absent" wives of the 34,179 husbands referred to were in Ireland on the Census night, and only temporarily apart from their husbands, there would remain 12,383 as the number of wives whose husbands were not in the country; but it is useless to endeavour to found any conclusions on these figures as it is impossible to raise the subject out of the region of conjecture.

Summary.

We may summarise the general results afforded by the returns in connexion with this branch of our inquiries, by saying that:—The decrease in the proportion of married persons noted in 1881, as compared with 1871, still continues; that early marriages are excessively rare in Ireland; that the relative number of married persons of the reproductive ages is under the low proportion for 1881, which in its turn was lower than in 1871; that contrary, we think, to popular belief, but still in strict accord with the results shown in 1861, 1871, and 1881, the highest proportion of married persons is to be found in the province of Connaught; and that, estimated by the number of married women of the child-bearing ages, the natural increase in population in Ireland is at present very small.

IV.—OCCUPATIONS OF THE PEOPLE.

Occupations
given.
Tables 18-
22; and 28-
31.

The classification of occupations adopted in 1891 is, in all essential points, similar to that used in 1881, being made up of six classes, subdivided into twenty-four orders and eighty sub-orders.

In the preparation of the Abstract Sheets some slight modifications were effected, in order to bring them into closer conformity with the English model sheets, as revised after, and in view of the experience of, the preceding Census. These consisted principally of the removal of some unnecessary headings, and the amalgamation of a few kindred occupations hitherto having separate lines.

The thorough revision of the Index of Occupations and Instructions to Clerks, a task involving considerable labour, having been completed, the registration of the occupations of the people was commenced on the 23rd May, 1891.

We now proceed to lay before your Excellency the following analysis of the results obtained, dealing with each of the various orders, and mentioning where necessary, any factor needful, owing to difference of procedure, for the true comparison of the figures of this, and of the last Census.

Professional Class.

I.—PROFESSIONAL CLASS (Orders 1, 2, 3).—This class comprises 214,243 persons, of whom 75,272 are females, and exhibits an increase of 15,559 persons over the number for 1881. The augmentation of the professional class is mainly owing to the increase in the number of young people under the heading "Student," in Order 3, Sub-order 5 ("Literary and Scientific Persons"), amounting to no less than 13,343.

In the first order are comprised 29,034 persons engaged in the general or local government of the country; in the second the army and navy, numbering 37,674 men; and in the third the clerical, legal, and medical professions, also teachers, literary and scientific persons, engineers, and artists. The Civil servants, or persons engaged in the national government, increased from 8,125 in 1881, to 10,516 in 1891. To this number Roman Catholics contributed 5,260, Protestant Episcopalians 2,470, Presbyterians 609, and Methodists and "all others" 250. There was a large increase amongst the female members. They numbered 1,103 in 1881, and 1,827 in 1891. The members of the local government consist chiefly of the police, who number 13,981 against 16,779 in 1881, but the latter number included pensioners. The several religious communities are represented in the police in nearly the same proportions as 1871 and 1881—Roman Catholics being about three times the number of Protestant Episcopalians, and the latter being five times the number of Presbyterians in the force. The military and naval services are not so largely represented in Ireland in 1891 as at the date of the preceding Census. In 1881 they amounted to 39,873, and in 1891 they have fallen to 37,674. These numbers include pensioners of both branches.

The Third Order comprises the liberal and learned professions, at the head of which are placed in succession the members of the clerical, legal, and medical bodies.

The Roman Catholic Clergy, who in 1881 counted 3,363 members, have during the decade, received an accession to their number of 139. The Protestant Episcopalian Clergy who counted 1,828, have fallen to 1,734. The Presbyterian and Methodist Clergy show a decrease of 57 and 20 respectively; while the religious bodies tabulated under the head of "All other Professions," exhibit an increase of 49.

Barristers and Solicitors decreased by 43, the number in 1881 being 2,123, and in 1891, 2,080. There was an increase of 11 amongst the Roman Catholic members of these professions; and a decrease of 138 amongst the Protestant Episcopalians. Presbyterians show an increase of 59, while Methodists, and "all others" had each small additions to their members.

Physicians and Surgeons have decreased. They fell from 2,470 to 2,293. The Roman Catholic and the Protestant Episcopalian members diminished by 81 and 130 respectively. The Presbyterians, Methodists, and "all others" received each a small accession to their members. The females connected with the Medical Profession have risen from 711 in 1881, to 1,721 in 1891, which may be attributed to the large increases in the ranks of trained nurses, &c.

The number of persons concerned in teaching shows a slight falling off—142, the 21,332 in 1881 becoming 21,190 in 1891. The Protestant Episcopalian members increased 79, Presbyterians, 132, Methodists, 80, and "all others," 103; but the Roman Catholics fell off to the extent of 536. By far the largest number in this sub-order are schoolmasters and schoolmistresses, with their assistants; the remainder are governesses, tutors, lecturers, and professors.

"Literary and Scientific Persons," composed mainly, as already stated, of young persons aged 15 years and upwards, tabulated under the heading, "Student," have increased by 13,618. Of this number, 13,343 belong to the line in question, the remainder of the increase (275) being contributed to by Authors, Journalists, Reporters, and persons engaged in scientific pursuits, &c.

Civil Engineers and Surveyors decreased from 1,430 to 1,318. The Roman Catholic members of the profession have lost 106 of their number since 1881, and the Presbyterians, 26; the Protestant Episcopalians and the Methodists have gained 18 and 3 respectively. Persons tabulated in the sub-order "Artists" have increased from 3,428 to 4,008.

II.—DOMESTIC CLASS (Order 4).—This class comprises 255,144 persons, of whom 220,554 are females. It is divided into two sub-orders—domestic service, and other service. In 1881 there were 8,317 males tabulated as domestic coachmen or grooms, while in 1891 the number was 9,937, of whom 6,444 were Roman Catholics, and 2,432 were Protestant Episcopalians. Domestic gardeners rose from 3,108 in 1881 to 6,945 in 1891—4,181 of these being Roman Catholics, and 1,942 Protestant Episcopalians. It should here be mentioned that gardeners (not domestic)—Order 7, sub-order 3—showed a corresponding decrease. The 17,952 males tabulated in 1881 as domestic indoor servants fell in 1891 to 13,193—this number comprising 10,034 Roman Catholics, and 2,444 Protestant Episcopalians.

Domestic Class.

The great majority of the females included in this class were returned as domestic indoor servants, the number under this head decreasing from 232,429 to 197,902, of whom 164,528 were Roman Catholics, 20,507 Protestant Episcopalians, and 10,917 Presbyterians. In 1881 there were tabulated under the heading of "Others engaged in Service," 159,092 females, almost all of whom—being cases of wives, and other near relatives of the heads of families, returned as "housekeepers"—have on this occasion been placed in Order 24, the Indefinite and Non-productive class.

III.—COMMERCIAL CLASS (Orders 5 and 6).—This Class, engaged in commercial pursuits, descends from the merchant to the messenger; and is numerically the smallest in Ireland. It consists of 83,173 persons, of whom 2,161 are females; and shows, as compared with the year 1881, an increase of 10,928.

The Fifth Order comprises merchants, auctioneers, accountants, commercial travellers, commercial clerks, bank clerks, and persons occupied in insurance. The male commercial clerks, who numbered 11,395 in 1881, have increased to 15,611. Rather less than one-half of their number are Roman Catholics, less than one-third are Protestant Episcopalians, and more than one-sixth are Presbyterians.

Bankers and bank clerks who counted 2,807 in 1881, became 3,351 in 1891. At each Census Protestant Episcopalians were largely in the majority. Persons occupied in insurance numbered 906 in 1891, against 460 in 1881.

The Sixth Order comprises the persons engaged on railways, roads, rivers, and seas, also in storage, in conveying messages, &c., and numbers 53,984 persons, of whom 552 are females. The latter are principally messengers, car-owners, and railway attendants. The men employed on railways increased from 8,250 to 9,525. Cabmen, carmen, and carters number 12,635, being an increase of 61 on the figures for the preceding Census. There were about 1,000 fewer merchant seamen in the country than in 1881; while harbour, dock, &c., service shows an excess of 1,500 over the number for that year.

The persons employed as messengers, porters, and watchmen rose from 7,974 to 11,825 during the ten years, being an increase of 3,851. This increase may be accounted for by the fact that porters (except railway and government) are now included under this heading; whereas in 1881 they were distributed according to the business, &c., in which they were engaged. The proportion of illiterate persons was 3·04 under the per-centage in 1881.

Agricultural Class.

IV.—AGRICULTURAL CLASS (Orders 7 and 8).—This is the largest group specifically occupied. The number of persons returned as dependent upon agriculture, the staple industry of Ireland, was 997,956 in 1881, against 936,739 persons (845,691 males, and 91,068 females) in 1891,* thus showing a total decrease of 61,197 on the whole class.

The Seventh Order comprises the persons employed in fields and pastures—the farmers, graziers, shepherds, agricultural labourers, farm servants, and gardeners. It consists of 915,798 persons, of whom 90,940 are females. To this total Roman Catholics contribute 760,826; Protestant Episcopalians, 69,733; Presbyterians, 73,798; Methodists, 5,515; and "all others," 5,926. The per-centage of illiteracy in this order has declined 4·54 since 1881. Farmers' sons, grand-sons, brothers, and nephews, 15 years of age and upwards, and without a specified occupation, are included; but the corresponding female relatives have, as in 1881, been referred to order 24.

The Eighth Order comprises 20,961 persons (chiefly men engaged about animals, such as horse-dealers, veterinary surgeons, cattle salesmen, drovers, gamekeepers), and shows an increase of 1,229 over 1881. It includes fishermen, who number 11,201 as against 10,839 at the previous Census. In this occupation each religious body showed an increase, except Presbyterians who fell off to the extent of 117. The proportion of this class of men who could neither read nor write shows a decrease of 8·98 as compared with the per-centage in 1881.

Industrial Class.

V.—INDUSTRIAL CLASS (Orders 9 to 23).—In point of numbers this class, which branches off into fifteen orders, comes next to the agricultural. In it are represented the various kinds of artisans and labourers engaged in the several trades and manufactures, the workers in books, machines, houses, carriages, and ships; dealers in food and lodging, and spirituous drinks; persons working in wool, flax, and other fibrous materials. Then follow the workers in dress—the hatter, tailor, milliner, and shoemaker; the workers in various animal, vegetable, and mineral substances: to which are added undeduced dealers, mechanics, and labourers. In 1881 this class numbered 691,509 persons, and in 1891, 656,410.

The Ninth Order comprises the persons working in books and prints. Printers rose from 3,883 to 4,241; to this increase of 358, Roman Catholics contributed about three-fourths, and each of the other denominations show slight additions to their numbers. There were 105 women returned as being employed at printing in 1891, against 53 in 1881. At each Census, Roman Catholics were in proportion to Protestant Episcopalians of the trade as 2 to 1. Bookbinders (639 males and 1,213 females), numbering 1,852 persons, show an increase of 472; the principal augmentation was, as in the preceding instance, among Roman Catholics. Those engaged in prints and maps, the large majority of whom are lithographic printers, increased by about one-third.

* The majority of the persons in rural districts who returned themselves as "labourers," and who are tabulated under the head of "General Labourers," in the Industrial Class, in Order 22, may be assumed to be agricultural labourers, although not having returned themselves as such. The total number entered under "General Labourer" in 1881 was 143,823, and in 1891 it was 118,869.

The Tenth Order comprises 8,259 persons, workers in machines and implements, against 6,458 in 1881. Engine and machine makers, and fitters and turners, account for 1,196 out of the total increase of 1,801. All denominations participated in this advance.

The Eleventh Order contains 51,763 workers in houses, furniture, and decorations. Carpenters, who numbered 25,373 in 1881, fell to 23,668, about four-fifths of the loss on the whole order being in this occupation. The Roman Catholics fell off to the extent of 1,903; the Protestant Episcopalians, Methodists, and "others" received small accessions to their numbers. Masons have declined; but plumbers, painters, and glaziers show an increase. Cabinetmakers and upholsterers are slightly behind the numbers for 1881.

In the Twelfth Order the principal trades are coachmakers and saddlers. Coachmakers rose from 2,214 to 2,496, and saddlers (men) from 3,774 to 2,856. All religions show an increase in these trades. The females connected with the latter trade fell from 38 to 37.

Order Thirteen.—The persons connected with shipbuilding show a large addition to their number, which now reaches the total of 4,284, as compared with 2,786 ten years previously. Protestant Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Methodists, and "all others" have doubled their numbers, while Roman Catholics have declined by 126.

Order Fourteen is principally represented by chemists and druggists, who number 1,459, Protestant Episcopalians and Presbyterians together furnishing nearly two-thirds of the total.

Order Fifteen comprises 1,506 persons working and dealing in tobacco and pipes, of whom 900 are males, and 606 females.

Coming now to Order Sixteen, numbering 70,502 persons working and dealing in food and lodgings, we find that persons returned as publicans or hotel-keepers rose from 8,054 to 2,757. In this trade the Roman Catholic members increased by 1,730, Presbyterians diminished by 116, while the other bodies show a small increase. Maltsters, brewers, and wine and spirit merchants rose from 4,335 to 5,172.

The persons working and dealing in food decreased from 53,549 to 52,810. Amongst these the principal are hutchers, bakers, and grocers. Butchers increased by 324. Bakers lost 128 of their number. Grocers rose from 15,405 to 17,106. Roman Catholics are largely represented in this trade, being more than five times the number of Protestant Episcopalians, and more than three times the number of Presbyterians. To the increase of 1,700 all religions contribute.

The Seventeenth Order comprises the persons employed in textile fabrics. These numbered 139,884 in 1891, which is within 100 of the number at the last Census. The males diminished by about 1,300; and the females, who constitute by far the greater number in these industries—being nearly twice as numerous—increased to a corresponding extent. Comparing the principal textile manufactures, we find that by far the most important in the country, viz. :—the flax and linen industry, has added nearly 10,000 to the number of its workers; while of those employed in the two minor manufactures of woollen and cotton goods, the former exhibit a small reduction, and the latter have diminished by about one-third. Drapers (male and female) rose from 10,296 to 11,834. The males increased by 639, the females by 899. The majority of the persons engaged in this trade are Roman Catholics. The Protestant Episcopalian and Presbyterian communities are about equally represented.

The Eighteenth Order, comprising the workers in dress, embraces a large number of both sexes. The total shows a considerable falling off—from 161,073 to 153,429. The most important trades in this order are tailors, milliners, dressmakers, and boot and shoe makers. The tailors show a small increase on their number in 1881: they amount to 17,950 persons, of whom 3,023 are females. The Roman Catholic members are about four times those of the other religious bodies. All religious persuasions increased except the Roman Catholics, who fell off. The improvement in the education of persons in the tailoring trade is represented by the difference between 7.02 and 9.78 per cent., the latter being the per-centage of illiterate in 1881. Milliners and dressmakers, a large section, numbering 42,899 in 1881, rose to 46,756, showing an increase of 3,857. Persons returned as seamstresses declined from 70,823 to 63,728, giving a decrease of 7,095. Boot and shoe makers declined from 25,550 to 21,468. Roman Catholics, Protestant Episcopalians, and Presbyterians participated in this decrease; but Methodists and "all others" received slight augmentations. The per-centage of illiterate is 1·4 less than in 1881.

The Nineteenth Order consists of 2,728 workers and dealers in animal substances—grass, gut, bone, &c., skins, hair, and feathers. The principal trades are tallow chandlers, tanners and curriers, and brush and broom makers. Each of these trades shows a falling off.

The Twentieth Order consists of 11,659 workers and dealers in vegetable substances; and comprises oil and colour men, basket makers, timber merchants, sawyers, coopers, stationers, and paper makers. Sawyers fell from 1,421 to 1,362. Coopers fell from 4,768 to 4,263. The Roman Catholics in this and the preceding trade far outnumber all other denominations. There are 499 males and 626 females returned as stationers; while paper-box and paper-bag making employs 1,023 females.

The Twenty-first Order consists of 40,676 persons working and dealing in mineral substances. The men engaged in mines of all kinds fell from 2,066 to 1,382. The reduction was principally among copper and lead miners, although those engaged in mining of every other description also declined.

Those employed in gas-making, as well as workers in stone, clay, &c., increased. Railway labourers and platelayers rose from 2,433 to 3,917; stonecutters and quarriers fell from 4,623 to 3,381. The per-centage of illiteracy in this sub-order remains about the same as in 1881; as although most of the occupations included therein show an improvement in education, this is counterbalanced by the large increase in road-labourers, navvies, and platelayers, among whom the proportion of those unable to read or write varies little from that for 1881. Persons employed in the iron manufacture rose from 2,352 to 4,067. Blacksmiths number 13,569 against 14,571, showing a falling off of 1,002. More than three-fourths of those following this calling are Roman Catholics.

The Twenty-second Order contains the persons working and dealing in general or unspecified commodities—such as general shopkeeper, buxister, manager, manufacturer (undefined), general labourer, &c. In 1881, the persons who returned themselves thus vaguely were 196,490, against 165,332 who in 1891 similarly returned themselves. The persons returned as "labourers" show a great diminution. The number in 1881 was 143,823 which has now fallen to 118,980.* This large decrease of 24,843 was participated in by the three principal religious denominations; Roman Catholics diminished by 22,927, Protestant Episcopalians by 876, Presbyterians by 1,332. Methodists and "others" show slight increases. The per-centage of illiterate persons decreased 4·17. During the ten years 1881-90 the number of male emigrants described as "labourers" amounted, according to the Registrar-General's returns, to 282,548, a large proportion of whom, no doubt, belonged to the agricultural class.

Order Twenty-three contains 1,100 persons working and dealing in refuse matters: these are made up chiefly of chimney-sweeps and rag gatherers.

Indefinite and Non-productive
Class.

VI.—INDEFINITE AND NON-PRODUCTIVE CLASS (Order 24).—This class contains 2,559,021 persons, or 54·39 per cent. of the population, as compared with 2,788,281, or 53·86 per cent., in 1881. It embraces persons without a specific occupation, those returned by rank, degree, or property, and includes children (1,479,417 of the whole class being under 15 years of age).

The composition of the class differs from that of 1881, by the addition thereto of inmates of Lunatic Asylums, and of persons retired from business, who were at the last Census tabulated according to their former occupations. It also includes, as already stated (page 23), a large number of females (viz. ~wives, &c., returned as "housekeepers"), from the Domestic Class (II.)

Taking the figures of 1891 and re-adjusting them, in order to bring them into stricter conformity with those of the present Census, by adding to the total above referred to, 8,774 inmates of Lunatic Asylums, together with 139,092 females, tabulated under the heading "Others in Service," we produce a number comparable with that obtained from the latest enumeration, and giving a per-centage of 56·75 of the population. Deducting from this the per-centage (54·39) given above, it follows that the per-centage of unoccupied persons in Ireland in 1891 was 2·36 less than ten years previously.

SOCIAL POSITION OF INHABITANTS OF DUBLIN.—Following the course adopted in 1881, in which year they were first prepared, we have compiled special statistics representing the social position of the inhabitants of Dublin. These Tables (Nos. 89, 90, and 91, pages 360-383) deal with 349,394 persons constituting the population of the Dublin Registration District; and they vary in their structure from the occupation tables published in the County Abstracts, where the figures opposite each trade represent all persons belonging to it, whether masters, apprentices, or workpeople. In the tables now submitted we have endeavoured to distinguish between employers and employed. As the Family Return (Form A) seldom afforded information on this point, we were obliged to judge the social status by taking into consideration the place of residence and the general character of the return.

The inmates of the two workhouses in the city of Dublin are shown on the line "Workhouse inmates" in Table 89; in the tables in the book for Dublin they are dispersed throughout the different orders in which their former occupations entitled them to be classified. On the other hand, inmates of Lunatic Asylums, and persons retired from business have, in these tables, been assigned to their former calling when stated; whereas in the county tables such were treated as persons without specific occupation. Persons who returned themselves as having no occupation, and who, judging as in the case of employer and employé, were evidently in a humble position, we assigned to the line "unspecified." Those, likewise, whom we considered to be in a superior position we assigned to the line "Gentleman, gentlewoman." With regard to students, in Table XIX. of the county tables, all persons over fifteen years of age returned as "student" or "scholar" were tabulated as "student." In the tables now under consideration a different plan has been adopted. In boarding school returns the pupils of all ages up to twenty years were assigned to the column for children, opposite the line "Gentleman, gentlewoman," when the circumstances seemed to warrant it; otherwise they were tabulated as children of persons represented by the word "unspecified." A student or scholar living at home (under twenty years of age), and returned as "scholar" or "student," was placed opposite the parent's occupation; but where there was no clue to social position, he or she was registered as "student." The numbers, therefore, given in Table 89 for the city of Dublin will only approximately compare with those of the corresponding Table, No. XIX., page 181, of the Dublin Book.

In the Dublin Registration District there were 331 instances in which the age column was not filled in the Family Return; of these 275 were in the city. An inspection of the forms, however, enabled us to assign those persons to their probable age-periods.

These tables require scarcely any explanation. On the left hand side are placed the bread-winners; and on the right, on the same line, are placed their dependents having no occupations. When the wife is earning, she is entered on the left hand. The term "gentleman, gentlewoman," comprises persons of rank, property, or respectable position, when the information given was insufficient to warrant their being assigned to some more specific line. Their sons and daughters following no occupation, are, when over 20 years of age, also included. We have further attempted to distinguish more clearly the actual social status of the persons tabulated under the vague headings "gentleman, gentlewoman," and "merchant," by sub-dividing each line, and allocating such cases to either the first or second class according to the locality and surrounding circumstances of each.

It does not follow that the persons represented on the dependent side in the table, are in every case actual relatives of the persons tabulated on the bread-winning side. For example, a person returning herself as "Solicitor's wife," whose husband may have been absent on Census night, would naturally be placed on the dependent side, opposite to "Solicitor," as dependent for support upon that profession.

Table 22, page 129, is presented showing the number of occupiers of land, who combine other pursuits with farming. The number of persons so circumstanced in 1881 amounted to 10,383, which had risen in 1891 to 11,580.

Table 88, pages 356-359, shows the number of males and females in each class, order, and sub-order in 1881 and 1891.

GENERAL
REMARKS.

V.—BIRTHPLACES OF THE PEOPLE.

Birthplaces.

The birthplaces of the inhabitants of Ireland on last Census night are classified in Table 92 as follows:—Those who resided in the county in which they were born; those who were born in Ireland, but did not reside in their native county; those born in England or Wales, in Scotland, abroad, or at sea.

Of the population of the county of Wexford, 98·13 per cent. were born therein; while no more than 65·36 per cent. of the residents in the county of Dublin were natives thereof.

In the province of Munster, the county having the largest per-centage of natives resident therein was Kerry, the per-centage being 95·47; for the county of Waterford the per-centage was but 85·93.

The county in the Province of Ulster having the largest per-centage of natives resident therein on Census night was Donegal, the per-centage being 95·03, and that having the lowest was Antrim, the per-centage being only 70·69.

The county in the Province of Connaught with the largest per-centage of its natives dwelling therein, at the time of the Census was Mayo, the per-centage being as high as 96·10; that having the lowest was Roscommon, the per-centage being 91·74.

Irish born persons.

In 1881, the number of Irish born persons enumerated who did not reside in the county in which they were born amounted to 527,588, or 10·2 per cent. of the total population; in 1891 the number was 509,515 or 10·3 per cent. The number of persons born in Wicklow county who resided in other parts of Ireland in 1891 is equivalent to 43·5 per cent. of the population of the county; the corresponding per-centage for Mayo is only 4·1; the following statement shows the five counties having the greatest, and the five having the smallest per-centages in 1891, and the relative per-centages in 1881:—

County.	1881.	1891.	County.	1881.	1891.
Wicklow,	43·5	41·0	Mayo,	4·1	3·8
Carlow,	37·2	37·5	Cork,	4·4	4·0
Meath,	25·4	25·1	Kerry,	4·8	4·3
Kildare,	24·1	24·1	Galway,	5·9	5·6
Armagh,	19·1	18·2	Dublin,	6·6	6·3

From the foregoing it will be observed that four of the five counties having in proportion to their population the greatest per-centages of natives residing in other parts of Ireland on last Census night, are situate in the province of Leinster and one in Ulster, and that of the five having the smallest per-centages, two are situated in Connaught, two in Munster, and one in Leinster.

Persons
born in
and Wales.

The number of persons born in England or Wales enumerated in Ireland in 1871 amounted to 67,881; in 1881 to 69,382, and in 1891 to 74,523, or 5,141 more than in 1881. Of this increase 4,679 took place in the Province of Ulster; and 1,925 in Leinster—there was a decrease of 1,204 in Connaught; and of 259 in Munster.

Persons
Scotland.

According to the Census returns, the number of Scotch in Ireland in 1871 was 20,318; in 1881, 22,328; and in 1891, 27,323, or 4,995 more than in 1881. There was an increase in the Province of Leinster of 649; and in Ulster of 4,611. There was a decrease in Munster of 152, and in Connaught of 113.

Persons
born abroad.

The number of residents in Ireland who were born abroad was, according to the Census returns, in 1871, 17,010; in 1881, 19,535; and in 1891, 21,330, or 1,795 more than in 1881. This increase is shown in detail in the following statement:—

	1881.	1891.	Increase.	Decrease.

Do. Oceania,	12	1	—	11
Total,	15,535	21,330	1,795	—

Persons

(Table 93.)

In 1881, as shown by the Census returns, 257 of the persons enumerated were born at sea; in 1891, the number of persons so returned was 191.

The per-centage of persons born in England or Wales, in Scotland, or abroad, to the population of each county, will be found in Table 93.

VI.—FOREIGNERS.

The number of Foreigners returned on the Census Forms in 1891 amounted to 12,900; of this number 7,705 persons, or considerably more than one-half, were natives of America; 4,923 were natives of Europe, 149 of Asia, 122 of Africa, and one of Oceania. Table 94 exhibits the occupations in each of which there were more than forty foreigners engaged.

Of the 1,232 persons returned as natives of France, 284 were fishermen, 159 seamen, 67 lecturers, teachers, or professors, 59 domestic servants, 72 nuns, 56 students and scholars, and 40 governesses.

There were 1,111 Russians enumerated, the corresponding number in 1881 being 198. This large increase during the decade is owing to the immigration of Russian Jews. Amongst the natives of Russia were 227 pedlars, 190 students or scholars, 125 drapers, 39 commercial travellers, and 32 general dealers.

Of the 940 persons born in the German Empire 87 were watch and clockmakers, 78 lecturers, teachers, or professors, 68 seamen, 67 governesses, 49 domestic servants, 38 students and scholars, and 32 musicians.

Three hundred and seventy-four natives of Norway were enumerated, of which number 277 were seamen.

Switzerland contributed 278 persons, of whom 46 were governesses, 45 domestic servants, 16 lecturers, teachers, or professors, and 13 ladies' maids.

There were 263 Italians enumerated, of whom 42 were musicians, 18 students or scholars, and 18 seamen.

One hundred and sixty-three natives of Belgium were returned, of whom 21 were students and 12 nuns.

Sweden was represented by 123 persons, 73 of whom were seamen.

Greece furnished 115 persons, 26 of these being seamen.

There were 89 Spaniards; 10 of these were students, and 5 seamen.

There were 64 natives of Denmark, of whom 18 were seamen.

Austria was represented by 50 persons, 6 of whom were seamen.

Of the 7,705 persons born in America, 2,581 were students or scholars, 259 domestic servants, 208 farmers' sons, 203 farmers, 172 dressmakers, 137 farm servants, 126 general labourers, and 115 farm labourers.

There were 149 persons born in Asia, including 52 students and 12 domestic servants.

Of 122 persons born in Africa, 44 were students, and six domestic servants.

VII.—THE SICK AND INFIRM.

Tables 95 to 125 give certain details regarding the Sick in Ireland on the night of the 5th of April, 1891. These tables deal with two great classes of the sick, namely, those suffering from ordinary forms of illness, and those who are permanently disabled. The former are for convenience of classification termed the "temporarily sick," although many were, at the time of the return, suffering from incurable maladies. The other great class includes those afflicted by permanent and usually incurable maladies—such as deafness and dumbness, blindness, insanity, and idiocy.

This division, although wanting in scientific accuracy, must be admitted as useful for practical purposes, and has the additional advantage of having been used in previous Censuses; and the results of the Census of 1891, thus arranged, are in the main comparable with those of former Censuses, where the same division was observed. The nomenclological classification adopted under the head "temporarily diseased," for the Census of 1881 was that known as Farr's, which up to that year had been followed by the Registrar-General of England and of Ireland. In 1881 to meet the advancing requirements of science some modifications were introduced into the classification of the causes of death, as adopted in the English and Irish Registration Reports, and it is according to this revised classification the Tables in this Report have been compiled, it being obviously desirable that statistics of sickness should be comparable with those of mortality.*

* A detailed statement of the changes in the classification of diseases will be found on pages 6-12 of the Eighteenth Annual Report of the Registrar-General of Marriages, Births, and Deaths in Ireland, 1891.

GENERAL
REMARKS.

Following the course indicated in the foregoing remarks, we find that the subject of the Sick may be most conveniently discussed under the following heads:—

The Sick.

I. The temporarily Sick, comprising those suffering from various forms of disease not included under the other head.

(Tables
25-29.)

II. The Permanently Diseased, comprising the deaf and dumb, blind, lunatic, and idiotic. A Diagram (No. 9), has been constructed which presents to view the proportion to every 10,000 of the population labouring under these infirmities.

(Table 25).

The Sick and Infirm of all kinds on the Census night of 1891 numbered 66,738, or 1 in 70 of the whole population, against 71,323 in 1881. Of those in 1891, 35,745 were "temporarily diseased," and 30,993 "permanently diseased;" compared with 40,090 and 31,238 in 1881. Of the temporarily diseased in 1891, 16,466 were at their own homes; 4,490 were in infirmaries and general and special hospitals; and 14,789 in workhouse hospitals; compared with 17,805, 4,170, and 18,115, respectively, in 1881. It will be observed that the number of persons suffering from "temporary" disease or its consequences was less in 1891 than 1881, showing a considerable improvement in the general sanitary condition of the people.

(Table 26).

With a view of ascertaining how many persons were disabled by disease, a special return was obtained on Form C (see Appendix, p. 555) as to whether sick persons at their own homes were or were not able to follow their usual occupations. The results of this inquiry are shown on Table 27, from which it appears that of the 16,466 persons sick at their own homes only 307 were able to carry on their usual employments, thus for all practical purposes all were disabled. It is probable, however, that many persons suffering from trifling ailments were not returned as "sick," the popular test of sickness being inability to follow a person's usual occupation. The sick in hospitals and public institutions are assumed in every case to be debarred from following their usual occupations, and therefore no return of this kind was required from them.

We shall now refer to some of the principal maladies under which those laboured whom we have for convenience sake classified as "temporarily diseased."

In Tables 25 and 26 will be found a general account for each Province, County, and Superintendent Registrar's District or Poor Law Union, of the diseases from which the sick suffered on Census night. An analysis of these tables points to the following conclusions regarding the various diseases.

THE TEMPORARILY DISEASED.

In 1881 the number of persons returned as suffering from diseases classed as Temporary amounted to 40,090, or 7·7 per 1000 of the population. In 1891 the number was 35,745, or 7·6 per 1000—of the latter 11,389, or 9·6 per 1000 of the population of the province were in Leinster; 10,638, or 9·1 per 1000 in Munster; 9,463, or 5·8 per 1000 in Ulster; and 4,235, or 5·9 per 1000 in Connaught.

The following statement shows the counties, arranged according to the ratio of the sick to 1000 of the population, commencing with that having the highest ratio:—

8	Waterford, .	5·6	16	Galway, . .	4·4	24	Wicklow, . .	3·9	32	Londonderry, .	4·2

From the foregoing statement it will be seen that in the Metropolitan county the rate (15·2 per 1000) was higher than in any of the other counties, a circumstance partly attributable to the Hospital accommodation therein; as it will be observed from Table 25 that of the 5,514 persons in Dublin returned as suffering from Temporary Diseases on last Census night, as many as 2,087 were in Hospital. The County of Clare comes next with 11·8 per 1000; followed by Kildare, 10·5; Limerick, 10·1; and Kilkenny, 9·3. The five counties having the lowest rates were—Londonderry, 4·2; Down, 4·4; Roscommon, 5·0; Armagh, 5·2; and Cavan, 5·3.

The following statement shows the Poor Law Unions or Superintendent Registrars' Districts in which the rate was 10 per 1000 or upwards, and those in which the rate did not equal 5 per 1000—

From the foregoing it will be seen that there were 30 Poor Law Unions or Superintendent Registrars' Districts, in which the number of the Temporarily Diseased was 10 or upwards to every 1000 of the population; and 22 in which it did not reach 5 to every 1000.

ZYMOTIC DISEASES.

Small-pox.—In 1881 there were only 39 persons suffering from small-pox on Census night and in 1891 there were but 21. The latter number is composed of 17 in the County of Antrim (including 15 in Belfast Union, one in Ballymena Union, and one in Larne Union), and 4 in Magherafelt Union, Londonderry County. Three cases were at their own homes, and 18 were in workhouses.

Measles.—In 1881 the number of cases of this disease was 213; in 1891 there were but 123, viz.:—13 in the Province of Leinster; 42 in Munster (34 of which were in Dingle Union); 42 in Ulster (including 19 in Newtownards Union), and 26 in Connaught. Of the 123 cases of Measles, 94 were at their own homes, 5 were in hospital, and 24 were in workhouses.

Scarlatina.—In 1881 there were 317 cases of scarlatina on the Census night; in 1891 there were only 257, of which 47 were in Leinster (including 14 in the county of Meath, and 13 in the Queen's County), 42 in Munster (of which 24 were in the county of Tipperary), 120 in Ulster (including 40 in the county of Antrim, 20 in Cavan, 25 in Donegal, and 11 in Down), and 48 in Connaught, 37 of which were in the county of Mayo.

There are 8 Unions or Superintendent Registrars' districts in which there were 10 or more cases of the disease, viz.:—Bawnboy, 13 cases, Belfast 32, Castlebar 27, Cavan 12, Clonmel 27, Danshaughlin 14, Glenties 17, and Larne 10. One hundred and ninety-nine cases were at their own homes, 9 were in hospital, and 49 were in workhouses.

Fever.—In the Table for 1891 the several forms of continued fever were grouped under the general head of "Fever." On this occasion separate columns are given for "Typhus," "Enteric Fever," and "Simple continued and ill-defined Fever." The total number of cases under the three headings is 639, being a decline of 57 per cent. as compared with the number in 1881, and less than one-third of the number in 1871. The 639 cases consist of 111 cases of typhus, 294 of enteric fever, and 234 of simple continued and ill-defined fever. Of the 111 cases of typhus, 30 were in Leinster, 17 in Munster, 20 in Ulster, and 44 in Connaught, the Connaught cases including 20 in Clifden Union, and 5 in other parts of the county of Galway, which is the only county from which 10 or more cases of the disease were reported. Eighty-one of the 111 typhus cases were at their own homes, 7 in hospital, and 23 in Workhouses. The 294 cases of enteric fever consist of 119 in Leinster (including 54 in the county and city of Dublin, 15 in the King's county, and 12 in the county of Louth and the county of the town of Drogheda); 51 in Munster (including 14 in the county and city of Cork, and an equal number in the county and city of Waterford); 100 in Ulster (including 35 in Antrim, 18 in Down, and 14 in Fermanagh); and 24 in Connaught. The only Poor Law Unions in which there were 10 or more cases of enteric fever are:—Belfast, in which there were 38; Dublin North with 33, and Dublin South with 18. Of the total number for Ireland, 158 were at their own homes, 73 were in hospital, and 63 in workhouses. The 234 cases tabulated under the head of simple continued and ill-defined fever were distributed through the provinces as follows:—44 in Leinster, 81 in Munster (including 17 in Clare, 28 in Cork, 12 in Limerick, and 11 in Tipperary); 55 in Ulster (19 of which were in Antrim, including 13 in Ballycastle Union); and 34 in Connaught, of which 13 were in Galway, 11 in Leitrim, and 28 in Mayo, the last number including 15 in Belmullet Union. One hundred and eight cases were at their own homes, 25 in hospital and 101 in workhouses.

Whooping-cough.—In 1881 the number of cases of whooping-cough returned was 197; in 1891 the number amounted to 258, comprised of 61 in Leinster (including 27 in Dublin), 60 in Munster (including 23 in the county and city of Cork), 135 in Ulster (including 34 in Antrim, 43 in Cavan, and 26 in Donegal), and 2, only, in Connaught. Two hundred and twenty-three cases were at their own homes, one in hospital, and 34 in workhouses.

Diphtheria.—There were 29 cases of diphtheria returned in 1891 against 7 in 1881. Twenty-eight cases were at their own homes, and 1 in hospital.

Diarrhoea, Dysentery.—There were 377 cases tabulated under these headings in 1881; but in 1891 there were but 140, of which 33 were in the province of Leinster, 60 in Munster, 35 in Ulster, and 12 in Connaught. Fifty-one cases were at their own homes, 21 were in hospital, and 68 were in workhouses.

Simple Cholera.—No cases of this disease were returned on the Forms in 1891, and there were but 2 in 1881.

Other Zymotic Diseases.—Under this heading there were tabulated in 1891, 1,031 cases—the change in the classification of diseases before referred to prevents a comparison with the number returned for 1881. Of the 1,031 cases in 1891, there were 448 in the province of Leinster, of which number as many as 273 were in Dublin; there were 267 in Munster, of which 133 were in Cork, and 47 in Kerry; in Ulster there were 219 (including 108 in Antrim), and in Connaught, 97. Four hundred and thirty-six cases were at their own homes, 444 were in hospital, and 151 were in workhouses.

CONSTITUTIONAL DISEASES.

Constitutional Diseases.

Phthisis or Pulmonary Consumption.—The number of persons suffering from phthisis or pulmonary consumption according to the Census returns for 1881 was 2,624; the number of cases returned on the present occasion is 2,030, of which 555 were in the Province of Leinster, 540 in Munster, 655 in Ulster, and 280 in Connaught.

2,290 cases were at their own homes, 260 were in hospital, and 480 were in workhouses.

Cancer.—There were 434 cases of cancer returned, of which 112 were in Leinster, 102 in Munster, 139 in Ulster, and 81 in Connaught. Fifty-eight of these cases were in hospital, 107 in workhouses, and the remainder at their own homes.

Hydrocephalus or Water on the Brain.—The number of cases returned under this heading is 60, viz., 14 in Leinster, 7 in Munster, 11 in Ulster, and 28 in Connaught.

Rheumatism.—As many as 3,499 persons were stated to have been suffering from rheumatism, viz., 1,137 in Leinster, 940 in Munster, 964 in Ulster, and 458 in Connaught. Of the 3,499 cases, 2,369 were at their own homes, 227 in hospital, and 903 in workhouses.

Other Constitutional Diseases.—There were 540 cases tabulated under this heading in 1891; of this number 181 were in the Province of Leinster, 903 in Munster, 108 in Ulster, and 49 in Connaught.

Local Diseases.

Diseases of Nervous System.—The total number of cases returned under one or other of the diseases in this group is 2,752, of which 848 (including 426 in Dublin) were in the Province of Leinster, 784 in Munster, 783 in Ulster, and 337 in Connaught.

1,525 cases were at their own homes, 262 were in hospital, and 965 were in workhouses.

Diseases of the Organs of Special Sense.—The number of cases coming under this heading is 717, of which 256 were in Leinster, 297 in Munster, 110 in Ulster, and 52 in Connaught. There were only 37 cases at their own homes; 234 were in hospitals, and 426 in workhouses.

Diseases of the Circulatory System.—Contributed 976 cases, of which 326 were in the Province of Leinster, 271 in Munster, 285 in Ulster, and 94 in Connaught.

Diseases of the Respiratory System.—6,237 persons, or 1 in every 754 of the population, were returned as suffering from these diseases on last Census night; there were 1,774 of them in Leinster, or 1 in every 670 of the population; 1,890, or 1 in every 620, in Munster; 1,693, or 1 in every 957, in Ulster; and 880, or 1 in every 824, in Connaught.

3,764 cases were at their own homes, 509 were in hospital, and 1,964 were in workhouses.

Diseases of the Digestive System.—There were 1,317 cases tabulated under this heading, of which 885 were in the Province of Leinster, 345 in Munster, 410 in Ulster, and 177 in Connaught.

Diseases of the Urinary System.—560 persons suffered from diseases of the urinary organs, distributed according to provinces thus:—188 in Leinster, 126 in Munster, 194 in Ulster, and 52 in Connaught.

310 cases were at their own homes, 115 were in hospital, and 135 were in workhouses.

Organs of Locomotion.—There were 604 cases tabulated under this heading, viz., 275 in the Province of Leinster, 147 in Munster, 124 in Ulster, and 58 in Connaught.

83 cases were at their own homes, 265 were in hospital, and 256 were in workhouses.

Integumentary System.—There were 1,945 cases of diseases of this order returned, distributed as follows according to provinces—in Leinster, 693; in Munster, 576; in Ulster, 506; and in Connaught, 170.

429 cases were at their own homes, 428 were in hospital, and 1,088 were in workhouses.

INJURIES.

The number of persons returned as suffering from injuries is 2,215, or 1 in every 2,124 of the population; 502 were in hospital, 558 were in workhouses, and 1,155 were at their own homes.

THE NUMBER AND CONDITION OF THE SICK IN PUBLIC AND MILITARY HOSPITALS FOR THE TEMPORARY RECEPTION AND TREATMENT OF ACCIDENTS OR DISEASES; AND THE TEMPORARY ACCOMMODATION FOR THE SICK IN PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

In Tables 98 and 128 will be found details regarding the Sick who were inmates of Hospitals. infirmaries, general and special hospitals, the various hospitals attached to barracks, prisons, &c., also the diseases from which the inmates suffered; together with the accommodation provided for the sick poor in the hospitals of Ireland, on the 5th of April, 1891.

The nature of the diseases from which the inmates of Hospitals suffered has been sufficiently discussed under the general heading of the sick. A detailed classification will be found in Table 98.

THE SICK IN WORKHOUSES.

The Sick.
houses.

The "infirm wards" and Hospitals of the workhouses in Ireland must be considered as the principal public accommodation for the sick poor. Thus, while there were 4,690 in the institutions commonly regarded as hospitals, there were 14,789 sick poor persons accommodated in the buildings connected with the 160 poor-law unions of Ireland, so that about three-fourths of the sick in public institutions were provided for by the poor-law authorities. A large proportion of the 14,789 "Sick in Workhouses" should not be classed as "sick paupers," the fact being that in country districts and small towns where no public "medical charities" exist, the sick among the artisan and labouring classes make use of the Union Hospitals in the same manner as similar classes in the great towns use the hospitals supported by voluntary contributions and charitable endowments. In estimating the accommodation for the sick poor in Ireland these great Union Hospitals are too often overlooked by those who take an interest in this important branch of charity.

The diseases from which the Sick in the Workhouses suffered on Census night have already been dealt with under the general head of the sick: they will be found classified in detail in Table 99.

THE PERMANENTLY DISEASED.

THE NUMBER AND CONDITION OF THE BLIND IN IRELAND.

The Permanently Diseased.

The Census Commissioners of 1871, referring to the subject of the Blind in Ireland, stated in their introductory remarks—

The Blind.
Tables 100-
107.

"The first special investigation into the number and condition of the Blind in Ireland was instituted under the Census Commission of 1851; and from it we learn that 7,537 persons, or 1 in every 864 of the population, were then totally deprived of sight. The Commissioners of that period accounted for the largeness of this number, by the fact that 'during the three years preceding December, 1851, no less than 86,959 cases of epidemic ophthalmia were treated in the Irish workhouses.' A similar inquiry was instituted under the Commission of 1861; when it was ascertained that the Blind numbered 8,379, or 1 in every 843 of the population. During the interval that had elapsed between these periods the population of the country had decreased by 753,760, and the number of the Blind by 708. This decrease of the population was mainly owing to the great stream of emigration to America and the colonies, which was then at its height; and as emigrants were prohibited from bringing their Blind relatives with them, the ratio of that class to the remaining population consequently increased."

The result of the present inquiry shows that the number of the totally Blind in Ireland on the Census night of 1891, was 5,341, or 770 less than in 1881, and 1,006 under the number in 1871, and allowing for the decrease of population during the last decade, the returns show that the proportion of Blind to the population of Ireland is somewhat less than in 1881—namely, 1 in 881 in 1891, against 1 in 847 in 1881. (See Table 100).

With the view of ascertaining further particulars regarding the Blind, a course was pursued similar to that followed in connexion with previous Censuses. The fact of blindness having been ascertained on Form A, as regards those who were not in public institutions, Special Circulars containing queries relative to this affliction (see Appendix), were issued, and the enumerators directed to ascertain the particulars required. At the time of the Census similar circulars were supplied to all institutions having Blind inmates. The answers to the queries were carefully compared with the original returns and the results are shown in the Tables.

In order that the true proportion of the Blind properly belonging to the population of each locality may be found in the statistics, the Blind in public institutions have, in constructing the Tables, been distributed according to the localities from whence they came.

Table 100, on page 407, shows, by sexes, the number of the Blind at their own homes and in workhouses, together with the proportion of males to females, and the ratio of the Blind to the population in the provinces and counties of Ireland.

The proportion of the sexes among the Blind on the present occasion shows a slight decrease in the number of females, compared with the Returns of the three preceding Censuses, the proportion being, according to the returns of 1861, 100 males to 118·4 females; according to those of 1871, 100 to 110·0; in 1881, 100 males to 111·5 females; and on the present occasion it is 100 to 107·3. It will be seen by the foregoing that the majority of the Blind, according to the Census returns for the past four decades, were of the female sex, the average proportion for these periods being 100 males to 112·1 females.

As previously stated, the ratio of the Blind to the entire population on the present occasion is 1 in every 881, and if the ratios to the populations of the provinces be compared, it will be found to be highest in Munster, being 1 in every 588, and least in Ulster, being but 1 in every 1,112. There are seven counties in which there has been an absolute increase in the number of the Blind compared with 1881, but the increase in each instance is very small, the greatest being an increase of 13 in the county of Down. The greatest increase in proportion to the population has taken place in Monaghan, Longford, Armagh, Fermanagh, and Wicklow.

The absolute decrease in the number of the Blind has been greatest in the counties of Dublin, Clare, Cork, Waterford, and Limerick; whilst the greatest decrease in proportion to the population has taken place in Dublin, Londonderry, Wexford, Antrim, Waterford, and Fermanagh counties.

Table 101, on page 408, shows the religious professions of the 5,341 persons returned as totally Blind; and from it we learn that 4,318 of them were Roman Catholics, or 1 in every 822 of that persuasion; 575 were Protestant Episcopalians, or 1 in every 1,044; 368 were Presbyterians, or 1 in every 1,209; 42 were Methodists; and 88 were persons belonging to other denominations. Dividing the number of the Blind, according to their religious professions, into two classes, viz.:—those who belong to the Roman Catholic faith, and those who belong to all other persuasions, we find that the proportion is one in every 822 of the former, and 1 in every 1,131 of the latter.

By examining the ages in Table 103 it will be seen that 3,801, or 71 per cent. of the total number, were aged 50 years or upwards; and as many as 865, or 1 in every 6·2 of the entire number, were 80 years old and upwards.

The number of persons under 20 years of age, returned as Blind in 1861 afforded a ratio of 1 in every 9·5 of the total Blind; in 1871, the ratio was 1 in 17·9; in 1881, it was 1 in 17·4; and upon the present occasion it is 1 in 21·3.

Table 103 also shows, by ages and sexes, the state of Education and Marriage among the Blind. We learn from this table that 3,145 of the 5,341 persons were educated either previous or subsequent to having lost their sight; and that 2,176 returned as Blind were totally uneducated. Among the 3,145 persons who were educated the proportion of the sexes was 100 males to 89·3 females; and among the 2,176 uneducated persons, the proportion was 100 males to 141·5 females. It would therefore appear that the greater proportion of the educated blind are males, and of the uneducated, females. In 1861 the educated Blind formed 42·8 per cent. of the total number; in 1871 the per-centage of educated was 48·4; in 1881 it was 52·6; and on the present occasion it is 58·9.

The occupations of the Blind have been tabulated in Table 102. The experience of previous Censuses having shown that the number of Blind persons who followed each class of specified occupations capable of classification was so small, and the number of occupied Blind so insignificant, and that evidence derived from such tables was practically useless, it has been decided in the present case to simply indicate the social position of the Blind members of the community by giving the number engaged in specified occupations respectively in an alphabetical list. From this latter we find that of 2,932 Blind persons whose actual or former occupation was specified—Farmer was given as the occupation of 590 persons, 485 males and 105 females; 377 persons—348 males and 29 females—were returned as labourers; there were 348 knitters—2 males and 346 females; 301 persons—30 males and 271 females—were servants; and 254—216 males and 38 females—were returned as musicians. Basket makers numbered 215—188 males and 27 females. Housekeeper is returned as the previous or present occupation of 122 females; and pensioner as that of 90 males. Next in order we find 79 persons—6 males and 73 females—net-makers. There were 38 mat-makers, 32 dealers, 25 boot and shoe-makers, 21 weavers, and 20 seamstresses or shirt-makers. Exclusive of 8 persons returned under the head of gentlemen and 10 returned as gentlewomen, there were 2,409—321 males and 1,588 females—or nearly one-half of the Blind whose occupation, if any, was unspecified.

In the Institutions for the relief of the Blind set forth in Table 105, which are capable of containing 864 inmates, there were on the Census night last year 464 or 6 under the number in 1881, and 193 over the number in 1871. In 1851 there were only 131 inmates in Institutions for the Blind.

The majority of these Institutions are chiefly supported by the voluntary subscriptions of the public, and by payment for inmates by Poor Law Guardians. We notice among the other means of supporting St. Mary's Catholic Asylum that of giving public concerts, in which the inmates perform. It will be seen, by referring to the notes at foot of Table 105, that the total amount of accommodation shown in it includes that for the Gouty in Simpson's Hospital, and the Deaf and Dumb in the Ulster Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and Blind, those deprived of sight in these Institutions not being returned separately. If, however, we allow for the use of the Blind half of the accommodation afforded by these two institutions, we find that in the nine Institutions there is accommodation for as many as 758 Blind persons. Although the accommodation for inmates afforded by these Institutions is so large, still the number of inmates on the Census night was only 464, or 6 less than in 1881. The number of inmates admitted since the dates on which the several Institutions were founded to the time of the taking of the present Census is 3,047, and since the taking of the last Census, 639. We have given in this Table a list of the different subjects taught in each of these Institutions, and a comparison with the programme afforded by analogous Tables in the Reports of 1871 and 1861 will show a considerable improvement in both the literary and industrial education of this afflicted class.

We stated on page 34 that the inmates of the several Institutions mentioned in Table 105 had been distributed throughout the different counties in which they were born, before the other Tables were compiled, in order that the localities in which the Institutions are situated might not present an undue proportion of the Blind. Table 106 shows, by sexes, the native places of the inmates of the several Institutions.

The proportion of the sexes among the inmates in Institutions for the Blind was as 100 males to 135 females. The greatest number in proportion to the total number of Blind in each county were born in Dublin, Louth, Westmeath, Cork, and Armagh; and the counties in which that proportion is lowest are King's, Donegal, Tyrone, and Galway.

The Blind
houses.

It is shown in Table 100 that there were, at the time of the taking of the present Census, 869 pauper inmates of workhouses—363 males and 506 females—totally deprived of sight; and in order to show the number and state of education of such in each workhouse, Table 104, on page 411 has been constructed. This Table is divided into three sections, the first of which shows by sexes those who were educated, either previous or subsequent to loss of sight, numbering 389 persons—182 males and 207 females; the second, the sexes of the ignorant under 20 years of age and susceptible of education, who number but 3 persons—1 male and 2 females; and the third, the sexes of the uneducated above 20 years of age who amount to 480 persons—175 males and 305 females. Compared with the totals of the analogous table for 1881, which are given at foot of this, there are only very slight alterations in the numbers, except in those of the ignorant over 20 years of age, who have decreased from 719 to their present number, 480; but a comparison with the totals of 1871, also given at foot of this Table, shows that since that year the number of the educated has increased by 58; that the number of the uneducated under 20 years of age was 18 in 1871 and 3 in 1891; that the number of the ignorant over that age has decreased by 61; and that the total number of both educated and ignorant has decreased by 18. Of the educated Blind there were 47 in the South Dublin Union Workhouse, 31 in North Dublin, 19 in Limerick, 17 in Tipperary, and 12 in Belfast; and the ignorant Blind were most numerous in the workhouses of Kanturk 26, Limerick 24, Dublin South 18, and Cork 17. The Union workhouses in which the greatest number of Blind, both educated and ignorant, were located, were Dublin South with 65, Limerick 43, Dublin North 39, Kanturk 28, Cork 27, and Belfast 22. The proportion of the educated to the ignorant among the Blind inmates of workhouses is 1 of the former to every 1·2 of the latter; whilst among the entire Blind of the country the number of the educated exceeds that of the ignorant, as shown in Table 103.

On page 34 we described the manner in which the secondary inquiry, relative to the 6,663 persons returned on the original Census Forms as Blind, was conducted; in the Appendix will be found copies of the nine questions asked regarding each of these persons. The replies have been tabulated, as far as possible, and the results thereof given in this report.

Secondary Inquiry.

As stated above there were 6,663 persons returned as Blind upon the original Census Forms, but from the replies to question 2—"Whether totally or partially deprived of sight?"—(asked on the circular used in prosecuting the secondary inquiry)—we ascertained that as many as 1,322 of these—585 males and 737 females—were only partially Blind; excluding those cases from the Tables, the number of those totally Blind is reduced to 5,341, or 1 in every 831 of the population. In 1881 the number of Blind originally returned was 7,689; but an inquiry similar to that made on the present occasion showed that the number of those totally deprived of sight was 6,111, and the proportion to the population to 1 in every 847. The foregoing results show the necessity for special investigations into the subject of Vital Statistics, and how cautiously statements made on original Census Forms should be received when they regard any particular class of the community. These remarks are equally applicable to the inquiry into the number and condition of the Deaf and Dumb, and the Dumb not Deaf.

In reply to the first question of the secondary inquiry as to "whether the person was born Blind, or became so afterwards," we ascertained that the total loss of vision was said to have been congenital in 280 instances—136 males and 144 females; but in only six of these was the precise cause specified, viz., 4 cases of ophthalmia, 1 of amaurosis, and 1 of entropion. The remaining 5,061 persons were said to have been totally deprived of sight at the ages and from the causes set forth in Table 107, pages 414 and 416. In 1881 there were 311 cases of congenital Blindness returned—147 males and 164 females; but with 14 exceptions, no cause was assigned. The proportion of congenital to acquired cases is 1 of the former to every 18.1 of the latter, on the present occasion; and in 1881, it was 1 to every 18.6.

The third question of the secondary inquiry asked, "To what cause the loss of sight was attributed?" and the replies thereto have been classified and exhibited in Table 107, on pages 414 and 415; the remarks contained in the Report of 1881 on the difficulties of obtaining and classifying this information, and the amount of dependence to be placed on it are most applicable to the present inquiry:—

"The information upon which we have had to rely for the majority of the returns as to the cause of Blindness having been derived from non-medical sources, and in the great majority of instances, from the opinions or surmises of the unhappy, and too frequently ignorant persons who were the subjects of the inquiry, or their friends—should of necessity be received with caution. And when it is known that with all the aids of modern science in the hands of skilled practitioners, and with the assistance of delicate instruments, it is not always possible to arrive at a perfectly accurate diagnosis of the pathology of Blindness, either presbyopia or myopia, it is manifest that anything like distinct and minute information could not be expected from an inquiry, the answers to which were, in most instances, received through the Constabulary or Police, from the Masters of Workhouses, or from the non-medical officials of public institutions. Moreover, Blindness is not always the result of any one disease, but often of different diseases affecting each eye; thus, one eye may have been destroyed by accident from some mechanical or chemical injury, and subsequently, by what is termed 'sympathetic inflammation,' the vision of the other eye may have been lost, without any disintegration of parts, or much apparent disorganization. In such cases the cause of Blindness is properly attributed to the original and remote cause, although the pathological conditions of each eye, when the examination was made, may have been totally different. Still it is hoped that in the following analysis of the answers returned to this third query, we have approximated the truth as nearly as under the circumstances it was possible, and have opened up a field which future experience may elucidate. The results of such inquiries, when properly tabulated, afford a certain amount of information, the value to be attached to which must depend upon the manner in which it is put forward to the public; at the same time it must be allowed that inquiries of this nature, even though defective, are productive of good by familiarizing both the enumerators and the enumerated with questions connected with the social well-being of the latter, and even if the result is, for the present, inconclusive, it affords a future means of comparison, and shows the public what might be obtained if a greater amount of information existed on these topics. Last, however, it might be supposed that more value was attached to these returns than they intrinsically possess, we have, under each head, appended a list of those synonymous and analogous diseases of the organs of sight from which the table has been compiled. Filled up as these documents were by the class of persons alluded to, and from information derived from those rather less free from the effects of ignorance and popular superstition than their social position, it required some special knowledge on the subject of the diseases of the eye, as well as an acquaintance with the habits, feelings, and popular superstitions of the lower order of Irish, to tabulate all the returns received to this third query."

We shall now refer to some of the principal causes to which loss of sight has been attributed.

Small-pox.—A large number of cases of blindness have been attributed to small-pox in the returns for each successive census period. In 1881 the number so stated was less by 167 than in 1871. We have to record a further diminution, the number returned in 1891 being 231, against 355 in 1881, showing a decrease of 124. The diminution of destructive eye affections in small-pox is to be attributed to two causes. In the first place, the modifying influence of vaccination has diminished not only the frequency of small-pox, but also the virulence of the disease, and, other things being equal, loss of sight from small-pox should be less frequent than formerly. The other important element, however, is the fact that ophthalmia—to be referred to further on—has also diminished. It is a peculiarity of the small-pox eruption to attack most severely the more vascular parts; hence, an eye inflamed by ophthalmia is much more liable to the attack of the small-pox eruption than a healthy eye.

Measles.—The ophthalmic inflammations accompanying this disease, although severe in many cases, are seldom dangerous to sight; and, accordingly, we find that although measles is one of the commonest of infective diseases, only 29 cases of blindness were attributed thereto in 1891 and only 52 in 1881.

Scarlatina.—This very prevalent disease is but seldom accompanied by serious ophthalmic troubles, but when they do occur they are generally of a formidable character.

Blindness.

We find that 32 cases of blindness are ascribed to this disease, being 2 under the number in 1881.

Fever.—The returns state that 51 cases of blindness were caused by fever; in 1881 the number returned was 98. Although continued fevers are, unfortunately, still common in Ireland, yet, as ophthalmic complication in this class of affections is certainly rare, it cannot be a plentiful source of blindness.*

Ophthalmia and External Inflammations.—Ophthalmia has been one of the great pests of Ireland for many years. In the report of the Census Commissioners for 1871 on the Status of Disease (p. 53), will be found an interesting account of this terrible scourge, by Sir W. R. Wilde, extracted from a paper by him laid before the council of the Société des Bienfaisances. This paper contains an historical summary of the prevalence of this disease in Ireland, from time to time, from the year 1701 up to 1852.

The number of cases of blindness in Ireland attributed to ophthalmia, was in 1871, 1,642, or 1 in every 3,296 of the population; in 1881, 523, or 1 in every 9,894 of the population, in 1891, 378, or 1 in every 12,446 of the population. It would thus appear that this disease has been reduced to a comparatively low figure. The disease chiefly prevailed among those who were located under the extreme unsanitary conditions usually associated with poverty. As a matter of course, considerable numbers of these became inmates of workhouses, the consequence being that a continuous flow of cases of ophthalmia were admitted to the workhouses, and the disease being of an infective character, great difficulty was experienced in preventing it spreading among the workhouse inmates.

This difficulty has now been to a large extent overcome, and the number of workhouse inmates affected with ophthalmia is now very limited. In fact, the Local Government Board have ceased to collect the special statistics connected with this disease, which were formerly deemed necessary.

Rheumatic Affections.—Twenty-five cases of blindness were ascribed to rheumatic affections in 1891. In 1881 the number so returned was 26. The returns under this head cannot be considered of a very reliable character, as the term rheumatism, when popularly used, includes many painful affections which would not be so classed by scientific nosologists.

Amaurosis.—This affection, known by the name gutta serena, is really more of a symptom than a disease, but was formerly looked upon as a specific form of disease; as knowledge increases the number of persons described as suffering from amaurosis will necessarily diminish, and the disease will be returned under some more correct head. Thus we find the number of cases ascribed to amaurosis is only 19 in 1891, and 20 in 1881, against 65 in 1871, and 110 in 1861.

Diseases of the Brain and Nervous System.—Under this head have been registered all cases assigned to paralysis, apoplexy, epilepsy, convulsions, disease of the brain and optic nerve, neuralgia, insanity, nervous affections, sunstroke, and also those ascribed to grief, fright, pain in the head, &c., and those that became blind suddenly. The number returned from these causes is 138, being 18 under the number in 1881.

Scrofula.—Last year, as in 1881, there were only 14 cases of blindness attributed to scrofula and scrofulous affections.

Cataract.—In this disease loss of sight is produced by the crystalline lens or its capsule becoming opaque, and obstructing the entrance of the rays of light. It is often hereditary, and very frequently results from injuries, and also from internal inflammation. It is also a common cause of impaired vision after 50 years of age. Cataract is very frequently confounded by the public with cases of opacity of the cornea, and even staphyloma, but medical practitioners can easily recognise it. There are 439 cases attributed to it, against 403 in 1881. Of the 439 persons who were blind from cataract, 46 became so under 20 years of age; 115 when they were between 20 and 50 years of age, and 271 when past the latter age; in the remaining 7 cases the age at which blindness occurred was not stated.

Consequence of Child-birth.—Cases attributed to "Weed," "Nursing," "Childbirth," etc., have been tabulated under this head. There are but 7 such cases on this occasion, and there were only 9 in 1881.

In 18 instances blindness is returned as having been caused by erysipelas, in 2 by whooping-cough, in 5 by otitis, in 2 by cancer, and in 2 by dropsy.

Mechanical Injuries.—It has not been found practicable to separate special injuries of the eye itself, from the more general injuries to the head which might have undoubtedly produced blindness; accordingly the mechanical injuries have been classed as follows—

* The Registrar-General, who had, when physician to Cork street Fever Hospital, a large experience in the treatment of fever, informs the Commissioners that he has never, in his own practice, met with a case of blindness as a sequela of any form of continued fever.

Gunpowder Explosion.—Under this head there are registered 24 cases—22 males and 2 females. They chiefly occurred from blasting rocks. In 1881 there were 60 cases registered under this head, and in 1871 there were 89.

Gunshot Wounds.—15 cases of blindness—12 males and 3 females—were returned as caused by explosions of fire-arms, etc. In 1881 the cases registered under this head numbered 19.

Unsuccessful Operations.—There were 7 cases of blindness attributed to "Unsuccessful Operations."

Injury by Animals.—In 1881, 22 persons were returned as having become blind on account of "Injuries by Animals." On the present occasion 13 are so returned.

Injury by Lightning.—There are 7 cases—4 males and 3 females—attributed to this cause. In 1881 there were 12 similar cases.

Injury Unspecified.—Under this head have been registered all cases in which the nature of the accident or injury was not specified. They amount to 548—385 males and 163 females. In 1881 there were 570 cases so returned.

Cause Unspecified.—Under this head are included 8,334 cases. They consist chiefly of cases in which it was stated in reply to the secondary inquiry that the cause of blindness was "unknown," "will of Providence," "natural causes," "gradually," "effects of whirlwind," and, in fact, all cases which could not be included under any of the foregoing heads. Some of the 278 cases of congenital blindness included under this head were attributed to frights received by the mothers during pregnancy.

Included in this Table, for the purpose of comparison, is a column showing the causes to which blindness was attributed in 1881.

The ages at which loss of vision occurred (so far as this information was obtained), are given for 1871, 1881, and 1891. Of the cases on the present occasion, 289 were congenital; 1,143 occurred before twenty years of age; 1,057 between twenty and forty years; 1,122 between the latter and sixty years of age; and 1,501 after sixty; in 238 instances the age was unspecified. The quinquennial period at which the greatest number of cases occurred was, in 1881, "65 and under 70," 439 cases—190 males and 249 females—and in 1891, "60 and under 65," 364 cases—166 males and 198 females.

From the replies to Queries 6 and 7, the former asking "Whether the person could read and write before becoming Blind?" and the latter "Whether the person received any special literary education, such as reading on raised letters, &c., since becoming Blind, and if so, to what extent?" we have obtained the following results:—

Ages.	Educated previous to Blindness, but not further educated subsequently.			Uneducated previous to Blindness, but educated subsequently.			Educated previous to Blindness, and received special literary education subsequently.
	M.	F.	T.	M.	F.	T.	M.	F.	T.

Thus it will be seen that of the 3,145 Blind persons shown in Table 103 to have been educated, 2,792—1,503 males and 1,289 females—had received a literary education previous to loss of vision, but none since specially adapted to their state; that 184—67 males and 117 females—were illiterate previous to Blindness, but had received special literary education since; and that the remaining 169 had been educated previously, and had also received a special literary education subsequently. This latter education consisted chiefly of reading on raised letters, &c., but some were instructed in classics and modern languages. The negative replies to these Questions and the cases in which no replies were given to them are included under the head "Uneducated" in Table 103.

Question 8, "What industrial occupation is the person acquainted with, such as basket-making, weaving, netting, music, &c.?" The replies to this Question are tabulated in Table 102, together with the occupations returned on Form A, and have been reported on in connexion with that Table on page 35.

THE DEAF AND DUMB, AND DUMB NOT DEAF.

In continuation of the decennial reports commencing in the year 1851, we submit the following remarks regarding the Deaf and Dumb in Ireland as shown in Tables 108 to 120. It has been pointed out in the reports of successive Census Commissions that the information collected regarding the Deaf and Dumb in Ireland at each Census since 1851, has been unique in its comprehensiveness and minuteness of detail. Modifications have, from time to time, been made in the tables concerning the Deaf and Dumb as presented at each successive period, but all those particulars which relate to constant conditions have been retained throughout, and will again be found in the tables referred to in this report. Some details have been omitted, which experience has shown to be of little practical value, but all tables inviting comparisons with former Censuses are strictly comparable with those published at each Census.

The plan pursued for obtaining the necessary information has been the same as that followed in 1881.

The "primary inquiry" as to the Deaf and Dumb was, as on former occasions, carried out through Form A (Family return). The primary fact of deafness and dumbness having been thus ascertained, special queries were issued with the view of obtaining the information necessary for constructing the detailed tables. The form of these queries is found in the Appendix.

As in 1851, in 1861, in 1871, and in 1881, so also on the present occasion, we have, in the following tables, distributed throughout their respective homes the pupils in Public Institutions for the "Deaf and Dumb," otherwise the Counties of Dublin and Antrim, in which such institutions are situated, would present an undue proportion of this class.

Table 108, on page 416, shows by Provinces the total number of Mutes from all causes in the different Counties in Ireland; and is divided into two sections, the "Deaf and Dumb" and the "Dumb not Deaf"—the former numbering 3,365, and the latter 1,099. To facilitate comparisons with the returns of 1861, 1871, and 1881, the general totals of those years have been added at foot of this and other Tables.

The true Deaf and Dumb, born with impairment of the organ of hearing, and without other defect, are included in the first compartment of this Table. This class may be taken as most faithfully representing the actual amount of Deaf-dumbness in any country. Upon the inquiry instituted on the 5th of April, 1891—2,370 were returned as belonging to this class, being 522 less than those registered in 1881. The sexes in this class, according to the present returns, are 1,379 males, and 1,191 females.

In the second compartment of Table 108 have been arranged, by sexes and localities, those who were stated to have become 'Deaf and Dumb' from "disease or accident acquired after birth"; they amount to 742 persons—395 males, and 347 females; or 11 less than those returned as such from like causes in 1881.

The third compartment of this Table includes those persons returned as "Deaf and Dumb" on the original enumeration forms, but respecting the cause of whose muteism, whether congenital or acquired, it was not possible to obtain satisfactory information at the time of making the secondary inquiry. Many of these persons were mendicants or travellers, who had left the locality in which they were originally enumerated upon the night of the 5th April, 1891, prior to the time the secondary inquiry was instituted. In 1861 this class numbered 186; in 1871, 103; in 1881, 68; while upon the present occasion they amount to 53.

The total Deaf and Dumb from all causes has decreased from 4,930 in 1861, 4,467 in 1871, and 3,993 in 1881, to 3,365 on the present occasion.

In none of the counties has there been an absolute increase in the number of the Deaf and Dumb, compared with the returns of 1881.

The greatest absolute decrease in the number of the Deaf and Dumb from all causes, compared with the Returns of 1881, has taken place in the counties of Cork, Dublin, Clare, Down, Tipperary, Sligo, Tyrone, and Donegal.

The second compartment of this Table contains 742 cases of "acquired Deaf-dumbness," and adding to this number half of the 53 "uncertain or unknown" cases already mentioned it will be increased to 768. The total number of known acquired cases in 1881 was 763, and with the addition of a proportion of the "uncertain or unknown," they amounted to 796. The causes of acquired Deaf-dumbness are tabulated in Table 117.

The second section of Table 108, on page 416, includes the "Dumb not Deaf," who amounted at the taking of the present Census to 1,099 persons—678 males and 421 females. In 1861, this class numbered 1,143; in 1871, 1,087; in 1861, 723; and 1851, 433 only.

The total number of Mutes returned upon this Table, both "Deaf and Dumb," and "Dumb not Deaf," is 4,464, being 1 in every 1,034 of the entire population; and the proportion of the sexes among them is 100 males to 79.9 females. The provincial distribution is as follows:—In Leinster there are 995, or 1 in every 1,194 of its population; in Munster, 1,209, or 1 in every 970; in Ulster, 1,387, or 1 in every 1,168; and in Connaught, 795, or 1 in every 912. In 1851, the total number of Mutes from all causes returned was 5,180; in 1861, it was 5,653; in 1871, 5,554; and in 1881, 5,136.

Table 111, on page 418, is explanatory of the first section of Table 108; showing the number of the Deaf and Dumb, and giving the proportion which the Deaf Mutes, both congenital and acquired cases, bear to the population of the different Counties and Provinces in Ireland.

The first section of it treats of congenital, and the second of acquired Deaf-dumbness. An examination of the general total of the first column of Table 111, shows a greater proportion of congenitally Deaf and Dumb females than in 1861, 1871, or 1881. In proportion to their population we find that congenital Deaf-dumbness is greatest in the counties of Clare, Limerick, Mayo, Wicklow, and Galway, the average proportion among them being 1 in every 1,454; and that it is least in the counties of Kildare, Waterford, Antrim, Dublin, and Down, the average proportion among them being 1 in every 2,561 of the population. In 1861 the proportion of congenital Deaf-mutes to the population was 1 in 1,379; in 1871 it was 1 in 1,520; in 1881, 1 in 1,502; and upon the present occasion it is 1 in every 1,833, thus showing a satisfactory decrease in this class of afflicted persons.

The proportionate number of males to females among persons who became Deaf and Dumb from disease or accident subsequent to birth is 100 to 87.8. In 1861 the number of females for every 100 males was 88.6; in 1871 it was 82.1; and 1861 it amounted to 102.3. The proportion of both sexes to the population is 1 in every 6,341, being somewhat greater than in 1861, when the proportion was 1 in 6,791; slightly less than in 1871, for which year the proportion was 1 in 6,232, and much greater than in 1861, when the proportion was 1 in 8,307. Acquired Deaf-dumbness is greatest in proportion to the population in the counties of Wicklow, Limerick, King's County, Dublin, and Kilkenny, the average proportion among them being 1 in every 4,456. The counties in which it is least are Carlow, Westmeath, Fermanagh, Donegal, and Leitrim, the average proportion among them being 1 in 12,699. The proportion of the Deaf and Dumb, both congenital and acquired, to the population of Ireland is 1 in every 1,398; in 1861 it was 1 in 1,296; in 1871, 1 in 1,222; and in 1861, 1 in every 1,176 of the population, showing a continuous decline since the last mentioned year. The counties in which the proportion of Deaf-dumbness, both congenital and acquired, to the population is greatest, are Wicklow, Limerick, Clare, Roscommon, and Kilkenny; and the counties in which it is least are Kildare, Fermanagh, Westmeath, Louth, and Antrim.

Table 109, on pages 416 and 417, shows, by sexes, the ages of all the individuals specified in Table 108. The ages of the greatest number of Mutes returned for any quinquennial age-period, in 1861, 1871, 1881, and 1891, were from 10 to 15 years.

Table 110, on page 417, shows, by sexes and localities, the Religious Professions of the 4,464 Mutes specified in Table 108. From this it would appear that 3,474 were Roman Catholics, or 1 in every 1,021 of that persuasion; 540, or 1 in every 1,111, were Protestant Episcopalians; 396, or 1 in every 1,124 were Presbyterians; 29, or 1 in every 1,914 were Methodists; and 25 were classified under the head of "All other Denominations."

Dividing the Religious Professions in Ireland into two classes, those who belong to the Roman Catholic Church, and those who do not, the proportionate number of Mutes is 1 in 1,021 in the former, and 1 in 1,169 in the latter.

Table 112, on pages 419 and 420, shows the Occupations or Social Condition of the 3,365 Deaf and Dumb persons included in the first section of Table 108. In it the occupations, trades, and handicrafts are shown in alphabetical order. By reference to the Table we find that the occupation most followed by the Deaf and Dumb is that of servant, there being 177 males and 211 females so returned. There are 303 persons returned as labourers—297 males and 6 females, while we have 251 Deaf-mutes given as farmers. Seamstress or shirtmaker is returned as the occupation of 106 Deaf and Dumb females; 103 persons are given as boot and shoe makers. Next, in numerical order, we find that 82 persons follow the trade of tailor or tailoress, and 59 that of milliners; 44 Deaf-mutes are returned as housekeepers, and 32 as carpenters.

There were 30 Deaf and Dumb laundresses, 27 factory workers, 26 weavers, 20 saddlers and harness makers, 15 printers, 13 bakers, and 10 charwomen.

Of the Deaf and Dumb children having no stated occupations, 185 were children of farmers, 63 of labourers, and 10 of carpenters.—See Table 112, pp. 419-20.

In the number of Deaf-mutes in a family, as given in Table 115, page 422, and in Tables 118 and 114, the absent and the dead Mute members, as well as those enumerated in the Census Returns on the night of the 5th April, 1891, have been included.

Following up the inquiry commenced in 1851, and repeated in 1861, 1871, and 1881, we have shown in Table 115 the number (so far as could be ascertained) of congenital Deaf-mutes in each family, born of the same parents. Information on the point was obtained as regards 2,328 families, and it will be seen from the Table that one mute in a family occurred in 1,807 instances. There were 297 cases of two mutes born in a family, and 155 instances of three mutes. We have 41 cases of 4 mutes born in a family, 14 of five, 8 of six, 3 of seven, and 2 of eight mutes born of the same parents. There is one case of no less than 11 Deaf-mutes in a family.

Where one mute occurred in a family, 995 were males and 812 females. In the case of two mutes in a family, in 75 instances they were both males, in 57 instances they were females; and in 165 instances they were one of each sex. Of the 165 cases of three mutes in a family, we find that in 14 all three mutes were males; there were three females in 17 instances; 2 males and 1 female in 66; and 1 male and 2 females in 58 instances. In the 41 instances of four mutes in a family, all four were males in 3 cases and females in 2, there were 3 males and 1 female in 6, 2 of each sex in 21, and 1 male and 3 females in 9 instances. Of the cases of five mutes in a family, we find that in no instance were all the mutes of the same sex; in 5 cases the sexes were 4 males and 1 female, in 2 cases 3 males and 2 females, in 6 there were 2 males and 3 females, and in 1 case, 1 male and 4 females. In the cases of six mutes, there were 5 males and 1 female in 1 instance, 4 males and 2 females in 1 instance, and three of each sex in the 6 remaining cases. The 3 cases in which there were 7 mutes consist of one in which there were 7 females, and 2 where there were 3 males and 4 females. In each of the 2 cases of 8 mutes, 5 were males and 3 females. In the one instance of 11 mutes in a family, 8 were males and 3 females.

Position in family of congenital

Table 113, on page 421, has been constructed for the purpose of determining the position that congenital Deaf-mutes have generally held in their respective families. It shows the position of 2,121 of the 2,570 congenital Deaf-mutes included in the first compartment of Table 108, in combination with the number of children born in each family. The position of the remaining 449 could not be ascertained. From an examination of this Table it will be noticed that the position in the family occupied in the greatest number of instances by the Deaf-mute was that of first child; and at the same time we find, from the results afforded by Table 114, that the families that contained the greatest number of instances of one or more Deaf-mutes consisted of 6 members. On the present occasion the Deaf-mute occupied the position of last born in the family in 481 instances; and that of first born in 530 cases. It should, however, be borne in mind that 86 instances of only one child born in the family, are included with the last as well as the first born. In 1881 the Deaf-mute occupied the position of last born in 832 instances, and next to that in 694 instances the position of first born.

Numbers of Deaf-mutes
born in each family.

Table 114 shows, as regards 1,942 families, the number of children in the families in which Deaf-mutes were born, and also the number so afflicted in each family. From an examination of Table 113 we perceive that, so far as the returns afford information on the subject, the families containing the greatest number of Deaf-mutes consisted of six, four, five, and seven members.

Causes of congenital
ness.

Too close consanguinity, or the intermarriage of relatives, and also hereditary predisposition, have long been supposed to be causes of congenital mutism. On the present occasion (as in 1861, 1871, and 1881) these subjects were specially investigated, and the results tend to establish these suppositions as ascertained facts.

Consanguinity of Parents

Table 116, on page 422, gives the results of the special inquiry into cases of mutism where consanguinity of the parents existed. An examination of this Table will show that there were 185 instances where the parents of mutes were related previous to marriage; and that the result of the intermarriage was 105 cases of one mute in the family—90 congenital and 6 acquired; 44 of two mutes—42 congenital and 2 acquired; 20 of three, 9 of four, 1 of five, 3 of six, 1 of seven, and 2 of eight mutes in the family; all the cases of more than two mutes were congenital.

acquired Mutism.

We now come to inquire into the causes of mutism acquired after birth. For this purpose we have compiled Table 117, on page 423; which shows the causes of acquired Deaf-dumbness and dumbness, and the ages at which the former occurred. The total number of persons returned in Table 108 as "Deaf and Dumb" is 3,365, and of that number 742 had become so since birth. In 1861, this class of mutes numbered 648, in 1871 they had increased to 861, and in 1881 they had fallen to 762. The "Dumb not Deaf" set forth in Table 108, amounted to 1,099, and of this number as many as 219 were acquired cases. This shows a slight increase of acquired dumbness compared with the returns of 1881, when the number was 202.

From an examination of the ages in this Table, it will be seen that the chances of acquiring Deaf-dumbness decrease as life advances. Thus of the 742 cases—462 occurred under five years of age; 156 between the ages of five and ten years; 83 between ten and fifteen years; and only 35 after that period. In 26 instances the age at which Deaf-dumbness was acquired was not stated. It must, however, be recollected that children who have lost their sense of hearing at an early age by accident or disease, also lose the faculty of speech either partially or totally; whilst it seldom happens that those who become deaf at a more advanced age lose it altogether. The diseases and accidents included in this Table which produced muteism are classified similarly to those in 1881 and 1871, under three heads. The first includes those diseases, chiefly epidemic, which act locally on the organs of hearing. They are for the most part small-pox, measles, scarlatina, &c., diseases which impair the functions of hearing by inducing topical affections of the auditory apparatus, such as suppuration of the cavity of the tympanum, rupture of the membrana tympani, disarticulation of the ossicula, destruction of the membranes of the fenestra ovalis and the fenestra rotunda, thereby causing impairment of the auditory nerve by the escape of the fluids of the internal ear. The total number in this section is 208 cases of deaf-dumbness, and 15 of "dumbness," of which scarlatina was the cause in 149, or more than two-thirds; measles produced muteism in 49, and small-pox in 3 cases.

The second section includes those diseases and accidents which affect the brain and nervous system either directly or indirectly. The total number of cases in this section is 319, exclusive of 145 persons who were dumb only. Paralysis caused Deaf-dumbness in 14 cases, and dumbness in 32, the former number being 13 under the corresponding number for 1881, and the latter 17 in excess of the cases of "dumbness" then returned as caused by paralysis. From "Fright" there were 71 cases of deaf-dumbness recorded; and from falls affecting the brain and spinal cord 47. Convulsions was assigned as the cause in 25 cases, and water on the brain in 34.

The third section includes those diseases and accidents which cannot be classified under either of the foregoing sections. It includes 97 cases of deaf-dumbness, of which "Cold and Exposure" is assigned as the cause in 52, and "Sleeping in the open air" in 9. In 123 instances the disease or accident which caused deaf-dumbness was not specified.

One of the objects of inquiring into this afflicted class of the community, is to ascertain their exact condition in order that some provision may be made to relieve them of the social disabilities they labour under from want of proper education; and surely there is no class whose happiness is so dependent on the education afforded them. When instituting the secondary inquiry the subject of the literary and industrial education of the deaf and dumb was minutely investigated, and the results of such investigation are exhibited in Table 118. This investigation having been undertaken chiefly for the benefit of the uneducated, the ages of the educated were comparatively so unimportant that we have only shown in this Table their number in each locality.

In treating of the uneducated in this Table, there have been excluded from it all those who, from mental or physical disabilities, might be rendered unuseful to the literary or industrial education afforded by the institutions for the instruction of the deaf and dumb.

From Table 118 we learn that there were in Ireland on the 5th April, 1891, as many as 2,462 uneducated mutes—1,432 males and 1,030 females—who were not suffering from any infirmity which would render them unsuited to the instruction imparted to this class of the community; that there were 1,904 mutes—995 males and 909 females—either already educated or undergoing a course of instruction in the institutions for that purpose; and that the number of the educated were in the proportion of 1 to every 1·3 uneducated. This shows a considerable proportional increase in the number of the educated compared with the returns of 1881 when they were in the proportion of 1 to every 1·7 of the uneducated, and with those of 1871, when the proportion was 1 educated to every 2 uneducated. The proportion of the sexes among the ignorant mutes is as 100 males to 71·9 females; and among the educated as 100 males to 91·4 females.

Education.

The uneducated are classified according to their ages into those "under 5 years"; those of "school age," from 5 to 15 years, at which period, according to the most eminent authorities, this afflicted class are most susceptible of education; and those 15 years and upwards, or "above school age." There has been an absolute decrease in the number of the uneducated, aged 5 years old and upwards, compared with the returns of 1861 and 1871, as will be seen from the following summary:—

Those "under 5 years" numbered 132 in 1871; in 1881 they were 58; and upon the present occasion 70; those of "school age" in 1871 numbered 712, in 1881 they were 720, and in 1891, 659; and those "above school age" numbered 2,354 in 1871, 2,339 in 1881, and 1,733 upon the present occasion. This decrease in the number of the ignorant is accompanied with a corresponding increase in that of the educated, from 1,536 in 1871, and 1,746 in 1881, to 1,904 in 1891.

The last column of this table shows the proportion which the educated bear to the ignorant, which is in the Provinces as follows:—In Leinster there is 1 educated to every 0·8 ignorant; in Munster 1 to every 1·4; in Ulster 1 to every 1·2; and in Connaught 1 to every 2·2. The counties in which such ignorance prevails to the greatest extent are Fermanagh, Donegal, Sligo, Galway, and Mayo; and those in which the educated of this class are proportionally greatest are the counties of Dublin, Louth, Kilkenny, Queen's, Limerick, Antrim, Armagh, Down, and Monaghan.

Institutions
and Dumb.

In the Report on the "Status of Disease" for 1881, is given an account of the systems of instruction of the Deaf and Dumb adopted in the different countries of Europe and America, and the number, &c., of the institutions for such in each. It also gives the history of seven institutions in this country then existing, and of others which had been discontinued previous to that year. The same institutions were in existence in 1861; but between the latter period and the taking of the Census in 1871, Miss Wright's School at Moneymore, in the county Londonderry, which was supported by the benevolence of the proprietress, and the Dublin Day School, in connection with the Dorset Institution, were closed; the former in the year 1863, owing to a "deficiency of funds," and the latter in the year 1866. The last mentioned school was established in the year 1826, by the family of the late Archbishop Magee of Dublin, and was merely intended as a preparatory school for those waiting to be admitted into Claremont; in 1861 there was only one pupil attending it. The Derry and Raphoe Diocesan School for the Deaf and Dumb was closed on 1st October, 1871, the pupils who were old enough having been previously apprenticed to trades, and the others transferred to the National Institution at Claremont. Table 120 shows the particulars regarding the four institutions in existence at the taking of the present Census. They afford accommodation for 540 males and 410 females, including that for the Blind in the Ulster Institution, there being no separate accommodation in it for each class. A comparison with the returns of the three previous decades shows that there has been a continuous increase in the number of pupils in institutions. In 1861 they amounted to 399, in 1871 to 478, in 1881 to 507, and on the present occasion to 533. The total number educated in these four institutions since their erection is 4,411—2,447 males and 1,964 females.

On page 40 of this Report it is stated that in order that the Counties of Dublin and Antrim, in which institutions for the instruction of the Deaf and Dumb are situated, should not present an undue proportion of nativeism, the pupils in such have been distributed through the different counties in which they were born; and to show the number allotted to each, Table 120 has been constructed. The total number returned as resident in the four institutions, given in Table 119, was 533, and of this number 11 were natives of other countries—8 of England, and 3 of Scotland. The counties that supplied the greatest absolute number of pupils were Dublin, Antrim, Cork, Mayo, Limerick, Galway, and Kerry; the greatest number in proportion to the total amount of nativeism in each locality were from the counties of Dublin, Westmeath, Cavan, Meath, and Limerick; and the smallest from Leitrim, Donegal, Queen's, King's, and Fermanagh counties.

NUMBER AND CONDITION OF LUNATICS AND IDIOTS IN IRELAND.

As stated in the "Status of Disease," 1871, "the first investigation into the number and condition of the Lunatics and Idiots in Ireland was made under the Census Commission of 1841, but at that time the number of those located in asylums, workhouses, gaols, and hospitals only was ascertained; it amounted to 2,925 lunatics and 333 idiots. In 1851 the investigation was prosecuted further, and an inquiry made as regards the number of lunatics and idiots, either at large or in the custody of their friends. The result of that investigation was the return of 5,074 lunatics and 4,906 idiots. The investigation was repeated under the Census of 1861, when 7,065 lunatics and 7,033 idiots were returned. A similar course was pursued in 1871 as in 1861, and it was found that at the time of that Census there were in Ireland 9,763 lunatics and 6,742 idiots, and again in 1881 when 9,774 lunatics and 8,539 idiots were returned. On the present occasion, the number of lunatics enumerated on Census night was 14,945 (7,463 males and 7,482 females)—893 were at large, 11,265 in asylums, and 2,787 in workhouses; and the number of idiots 6,243 (3,501 males and 2,742 females), of whom 4,077 were at large, 996 in asylums, and 1,170 in workhouses.

At the taking of the Census of 1851, there were 273 lunatics and 13 idiots in prisons, in 1861 there were 273 lunatics and 21 idiots, in 1871 there were 5 lunatics and 2 idiots, but neither in 1881 nor 1891 were there any lunatics or idiots confined in prisons.

The returns of lunatics and idiots were procured on Forms D and I (see Appendix), of which the former was constructed for the purpose of obtaining information relative to the numbers of this afflicted class of the community who were not in institutions, and the latter for those who were in institutions. In the instructions which were issued to the enumerators, it was observed that in seeking the information necessary to fill Form D, the enumerators were to make the inquiries with the greatest delicacy. On Form I besides the inquiry as to the social condition of the lunatics and idiots in institutions, further information was sought in each case as to the particular form of insanity and the presumed cause thereof.

The following statement shows the number of lunatics and idiots in Ireland in 1851, 1861, 1871, 1881, and 1891 at large, in asylums, in prisons, and in workhouses, as returned in the Census Forms:—

YEARS.	Lunatics					Idiots					Total Lunatics and Idiots
	At Large	In Asylums	In Prisons	In Workhouses	Total	At Large	In Asylums	In Prisons	In Workhouses	Total
1851.	1,072	3,294	273	494	5,034	5,502	202	13	1,129	4,906	9,940
1861.	1,902	4,638	273	277	7,065	5,675	403	21	994	7,033	14,998
1871.	1,345	7,141	5	1,274	9,763	5,117	418	2	1,382	6,712	16,505
1881.	915	7,347	—	1,784	9,774	4,618	1,294	—	2,195	8,539	18,413
1891.	893	11,265	—	2,787	14,945	4,077	996	—	1,170	6,243	21,188

From the foregoing it will be observed that the number of lunatics returned in 1891 was nearly treble the number in 1851, and that the increase between 1881 and 1891 was from 9,774 to 14,945, there having been an increase of 3,718 in the number of lunatics in asylums, and of 1,503 in the number of those in workhouses whilst there was a decrease of 50 in the number at large. There was a decrease 2,396 in the number of idiots returned in 1891, compared with the number in 1851; a decrease of 900 appears to have occurred in the number in asylums, a decrease of 1,025 in the number in workhouses; and of 471 in the number at large.

The total number of lunatics and idiots returned on the Census Forms in 1851, amounted to 9,980; in 1861, to 14,998; in 1871, to 16,505; in 1881, to 18,413; and in 1891, to 21,188.

In order that the localities in which asylums were situated might not present an undue proportion of lunatics and idiots, the inmates of such have been distributed, each inmate having been tabulated in his or her native locality, where such was specified in the returns.

According to the Census Returns for 1851 the ratio of lunatics to the population was 1 in every 1,291; in 1861 it was 1 in 821; in 1871, it was 1 in every 554; in 1881, 1 in 529; and in 1891, 1 in 315—the ratio in the province of Leinster in 1891 being 1 in 280; Munster, 1 in 285; Ulster, 1 in 267; and Connaught, 1 in 400.

The following counties had the highest ratios, viz.:—Meath, 1 in 177; Kilkenny, 1 in 193; Carlow, 1 in 194; Waterford, 1 in 222; Westmeath, 1 in 227; Tipperary, GENERAL REPORT. 1 in 244; and Wexford, 1 in 245. The following counties had the lowest ratios—Kerry, 1 in 482; Down, 1 in 480; Mayo, 1 in 474; Louth and County of the Town of Drogheda, 1 in 452; and Galway, 1 in 408.

The Presumably Demented, Lunatics and Idiots. (Tables 131-135). Idiots. In 1851 the number of idiots returned on the Census Forms was equal to a ratio of 1 in every 1,336 of the population; in 1861 the ratio was 1 in 825; in 1871 it was 1 in 802; and in 1881 it equalled 1 in 598; but in 1891 it fell back to 1 in 734, the ratio in the Province of Leinster being 1 in 726; in Munster, 1 in 641; in Ulster, 1 in 805; and in Connaught, 1 in 729. The counties having the highest ratios in 1891 were—Clare, 1 in 407; Meath, 1 in 438; Westmeath, 1 in 509; Wicklow, 1 in 555; King's, 1 in 556; Louth and County of the Town of Drogheda, 1 in 564; and Waterford, 1 in 574. The counties having the lowest ratios were—Antrim, 1 in 1,513; Dublin, 1 in 1,124; Down, 1 in 1,086; Armagh, 1 in 1,061; Longford, 1 in 940; and Londonderry, 1 in 910.

Lunatics and Idiots. The total number of lunatics and idiots returned in 1851 was equal to a ratio of 1 in 657 of the population; in 1861, to 1 in 411; in 1871, to 1 in 328; in 1881, to 1 in 281; and on the present occasion, to 1 in 222, the ratio in the Province of Leinster being 1 in 202; in Munster, 1 in 197; in Ulster, 1 in 264; and in Connaught, 1 in 258. The counties having the highest ratios were—Meath, 1 in 126; Carlow and Kilkenny, each 1 in 149; Westmeath, 1 in 157; Waterford, 1 in 160; Clare, 1 in 163; and King's, 1 in 173. The following counties had the lowest ratios—Down, 1 in 333; Antrim, 1 in 310; Dublin, 1 in 284; Mayo, 1 in 282; Kerry, 1 in 270; Galway, 1 in 269; Donegal, 1 in 257; and Louth and County of the Town of Drogheda, 1 in 251.

Occupations. Table 125 shows the occupations of lunatics and idiots as returned on the Census Forms.

The occupation most largely represented by lunatics and idiots in 1891 was that of "labourer," under which heading 3,516 were tabulated, of whom 3,108 were males and 408 females—in 387 cases of the former and 78 of the latter the affliction was stated to have been hereditary. Next in numerical order were "servants," amounting to 1,910—259 males and 1,651 females—36 of the former and 153 of the latter were hereditarily affected. There were 1,433 persons tabulated under the head of farmers and their families—1,213 males and 220 females; in 241 of the former and 109 of the latter the disease was stated to have been hereditary.

Religious Professions. Of the 21,188 lunatics and idiots returned on the Census Forms in 1891 there were 17,244 Roman Catholics, in 1881 the number was 14,723, in 1871 it was 12,885, and in 1861, 10,741; 2,238 were Protestant Episcopalians—in 1881 the number was 2,288; in 1871 it was 2,231; and in 1861, 2,167; there were 1,519 Presbyterians—in 1881 the number was 1,257, in 1871 it was 1,207, and in 1861, 1,028; Methodists numbered 88—in 1881 the number was 81, in 1871 it was 55, and in 1861, 61. Under the head of "All other Denominations" there were 99 persons tabulated—in 1881 the number was 64, in 1871 it was 127, and in 1861 it was 101.

Description of Lunacy or Idiocy and cause thereof. The number of cases of lunacy and idiocy returned in 1881 in which the description of disease with which the persons were affected was stated, amounted to 18,198; in 1891 the number was 20,812—10,778 males and 10,034 females.

Table 123 shows the description of lunacy or idiocy in combination with the presumed cause thereof. As before stated the total number of cases was 21,188, and the table shows that the number in which the cause was stated is 6,565, of which 1,834 were attributed to moral or mental causes, 2,099 to physical causes, and 2,632 were returned as hereditary. Of the moral or mental causes the largest numbers were attributed to grief (446); terror, 297; religious excitement, 286; anxiety, 228; reverse of fortune, 224; and love and jealousy, 122; none of the other items in this class reached 100. Of the physical causes the highest numbers were—intemperance, 671; epilepsy, 320; injury to the head, 234; sunstroke, 220; cerebral disease, 163, and disease of nervous system, 126; there were not 100 cases attributed to any other cause in this division of the table: as already stated, 2,632 cases were returned as hereditary.

Mania.—There were 8,091 persons returned in 1881 as suffering from this form of disease. Last year the number so returned amounted to 9,533, and the presumed cause was given in 3,879 instances. Of these 1,087 cases were stated to have been caused by moral or mental causes, including 258 attributed to grief, and 198 to religious excitement. In 1,313 cases the presumed cause was physical, of which 503 were attributed to intemperance, 144 to sunstroke, 142 to epilepsy, and 131 to injury of head. In 1,479 instances mania was stated to have been hereditary.

Melancholia.—In 1881, 1,206 persons were returned as suffering from melancholia. In 1891 the number of cases amounted to 1,788, of which 303 were attributed to moral or mental, and 190 to physical causes, and 321 were returned as hereditary.

Monomania.—In 1881 there were 265 cases of this disease returned. In 1891 the number was 175, of which 20 were referred to moral or mental, and 19 to physical causes; 35 cases were stated to be hereditary and in 101 cases the cause was not specified.

Idiocy.—The number of cases tabulated in 1881 under the head of idiocy was 5,652; in 1891 it was 5,423—3,000 males and 2,423 females—of which 200 were attributed to moral or mental causes (including 80 ascribed to terror and 46 to grief); and 189 to physical causes, including 24 attributed to sunstroke; 223 cases were stated to be hereditary.

Idiocy with Epilepsy.—The number of these cases returned in 1881 amounted to 202. In 1891 the number returned was 156.

Dementia.—The persons returned in 1881 as suffering from this disease numbered 2,184; in 1891 the number of cases amounted to 3,108—1,491 males and 1,617 females—of which 201 were included under the head of moral and mental causes (including 46 from grief and 35 from reverse of fortune); 224 under physical causes (including 72 from intemperance); 408 cases were returned as hereditary.

Dementia with Epilepsy.—The number of cases in 1881 was 186; in 1891 the number returned was 167.

Epilepsy uncomplicated.—In 1881 there were 312 instances of persons returned as suffering from this disease; in 1891 the number so returned amounted to 462.

Of the lunatics and idiots returned in 1891, 16,875 or 79·6 per cent. were unmarried; 3,124 or 14·8 per cent. were married; and 1,189 or 5·6 per cent. were widowed.

8,700 or 41·1 per cent. of the lunatics and idiots returned in 1891 could read and write; 2,419 or 11·4 per cent. could read only; and 10,069 or 47·5 per cent. could neither read nor write. In 1881, according to the returns, 33·8 per cent. could read and write; 12·3 per cent. could read only; and 53·9 could neither read nor write.

It has not been deemed necessary to give a table showing the locality, &c., of the various asylums, as this information is afforded in the reports of the Inspectors of Lunatic Asylums.

VIII.—PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

Under this designation are comprised all those institutions in which considerable numbers of persons are supported either at the public charge through the medium of taxation, Imperial or local, or by the subscriptions of the charitable, or out of funds derived from both these sources. The principal of such institutions are workhouses, hospitals, public lunatic asylums, prisons, reformatories, orphan asylums, and industrial schools; military barracks, also, are included.

Table 9, on page 109, contains a summary of the number of persons in each class of institution, and from it we learn that, exclusive of military barracks and the Royal Irish Constabulary Depot, the total number of institutions at the date of the Census, was 592, inhabited by 86,499 persons, of whom 9,207 consisted of officers of the establishments and their families, and 77,292 were inmates for whom the institutions were primarily intended. Amongst the institutions are 163* workhouses, with 42,348 inmates; 117 hospitals, with 8,544 inmates; 26 public lunatic asylums, with 11,842 inmates; 48 prisons and bridewells, with 2,748 inmates; 7 reformatories, with 750 inmates; 53 orphan asylums, with 2,068 inmates, and 74 certificated industrial schools with 8,447 inmates.

Table 126, on page 434, shows, by Provinces, Counties, &c., the number of inmates of each class of the principal Institutions, and Table 147, on page 435, shows the proportion of the inmates to every 10,000 of the population.

The number of paupers in workhouses is equal to 90·0 in every 10,000 of the population, against 107·9 in 1881; patients in hospitals are equivalent to 7·5 per 10,000, against 6·4; inmates of public lunatic asylums to 25·2, against 17·5; prisoners in prisons and bridewells to 5·9, against 6·3; and the inmates of other public institutions (exclusive of barracks) to 35·7, against 28·2. The greater part of the increase in the last-named group of institutions is owing to the extension of the industrial school system, the number of these establishments having increased from 57 to 74, and the number of pupils now amounting to 8,447, against 6,160 in 1881.

As was also the case in 1881, there were absolutely and relatively more paupers in the workhouses of Munster than in those of any of the other provinces, the proportion being 127·3 in every 10,000 of the population; the respective proportions for the other provinces are—Leinster, 119·7; Ulster, 55·0; and Connaught 59·4.

Patients in hospitals were most numerous in Leinster, a fact to be expected from the number and celebrity of the metropolitan institutions of this nature. The respective proportions are—Leinster, 17·8 patients in every 10,000 of the population; Munster, 4·8; Ulster, 4·6; and Connaught, 1·9.

In Leinster, inmates of public lunatic asylums are equivalent to 31·8 in every 10,000 of the population; in Munster to 27·7; in Ulster to 19·9; and in Connaught to 21·9.

Prisoners in prisons and bridewells represent 11·6 in every 10,000 of the population in Leinster; 5·0 in Munster; 3·8 in Ulster; and 2·3 only in Connaught. The large convict prisons in Dublin account for some of the excesses in Leinster, as compared with the other provinces.

The inmates of other principal institutions (excluding barracks) amount to 72·6 per 10,000 of the population in Leinster; in Munster we find the proportion falling to 37·4; in Connaught to 22·9; and in Ulster to 13·2. The high proportion for Leinster is, we need scarcely say, mainly owing to the number and extent of the charitable institutions for which Dublin is remarkable.

The military quartered in Ireland on the Census night in 1891 numbered 25,926, or 55·1 to every 10,000 of the population. In the province of Leinster the proportion was 103·2 to every 10,000 persons; in Munster, 73·5; in Ulster, 21·9; and in Connaught, 20·6. In the year 1881 the military amounted to 24,079, or 47·7 to every 10,000 of the population in that year.

The patients of these institutions, on last Census night, April 5th, 1891, have already been reported upon regarding the Diseases or Accidents from which they suffered on that occasion. The amount of accommodation afforded in them has also been referred to. Table 128 shows the locality of these institutions, the date of erection or opening, amount of accommodation, and the number of inmates, and Table 98 shows the diseases or accidents from which the patients suffered.

Poor Law
Relief.

INMATES OF WORKHOUSES AND PERSONS IN RECEIPT OF OUT-DOOR RELIEF.

The sick in Workhouse Hospitals on last Census night have been already dealt with in Section VII., "The Sick and Infirm," page 30.

Of the 42,348 (19,998 males and 22,350 females) inmates of workhouses in Ireland on the night of the 5th of April, 1891:—37,345, or 88·2 per cent., were Roman Catholics; 3,252, or 7·7 per cent., Protestant Episcopalians; 1,671, or 3·9 per cent., Presbyterians; 39 Methodists, and 41 members of "All other Denominations."

Of the inmates of workhouses 27,369, or 64·6 per cent., were unmarried; 4,879, or 11·5 per cent., were married, and 10,100, or 23·9 per cent., were widowed.

The number of workhouse inmates returned as able to read and write was 16,357, or 38·6 per cent.; 5,491, or 12·9 per cent., could read only; and 20,500, or 48·5 per cent., could neither read nor write. In 1881, 47 per cent. of the inmates of workhouses were uneducated.

The largest number tabulated under any heading in the Occupation Table is under that of "Servants," of whom there were 10,075—523 males and 9,552 females—in workhouses on Census night; the next occupation in numerical order is labourer, represented by 8,952—8,386 males and 566 females; there were 1,253 housekeepers registered; 844 factory workers; 536 shoemakers; 390 dealers; 373 weavers; 387 farmers; 408 seamstresses; 291 tailors; 237 carpenters; 253 milliners and dress-makers; and 225 clerks.

Of the 42,348 inmates, the occupations were unspecified in 13,629 instances—males 5,947 and females 7,682.

It will be seen from the following statement that comparing 1891 with 1881 there has been a slight decrease in the absolute number of persons receiving out-door relief in Ireland, under the poor law system, but that the relative number in proportion to the population was somewhat greater in the later year.

The number of persons on out-door relief during the week ending Saturday, April 2nd, 1891, was 64,233; during the week ending April 4th, 1891, it was 62,988, being a decrease of 1,245; the ratio in 1881 was 1 in every 81 of the population, in 1891 it was 1 in 75.

In the Province of Leinster the average ratio was 1 in 54 in 1881, and 1 in 61 in 1891; in Munster 1 in 54 in 1881, and 1 in 43 in 1891; in Ulster, 1 in 257 in 1881, and 1 in 224 in 1891; in Connaught 1 in 88 in 1881, and 1 in 80 in 1891.

The following Counties had the highest ratios in 1891:—Meath, 1 in 33; Limerick, 1 in 36; Kilkenny, Westmeath, and Cork, 1 in 41; Louth and Wexford, 1 in 43; and Tipperary, 1 in 45.

The counties having the lowest ratios were—Fermanagh, 1 in 628; Londonderry, 1 in 455; Tyrone, 1 in 342; Donegal, 1 in 316; and Armagh, 1 in 232.

IX.—RELIGIOUS PROFESSIONS OF THE PEOPLE.

An inquiry into the religious professions of the people has been made at each Decennial Census of Ireland since 1861.

Religious
Professions.

Previous to that date estimates of the numbers of the various religious bodies were made by, amongst others, Sir William Petty in 1691, the Hearth Money Commissioners in 1732-3, and the Commissioners of Public Instruction in 1834.

Previous
putations.

In 1861 an exhaustive inquiry was made into the subject, the results of which are contained in Part IV. of the Publications of that Census, and in 1871 and in 1881 the enumeration was conducted on the same lines.

On the present occasion we propose to confine our observations to the principal facts as set forth in the various Tables and to a comparison of the results ascertained with those shown by the Census of 1881.

The Tables afford information with regard to the principal religions for each of the civil provinces, the counties, cities, parliamentary divisions and boroughs, towns with a population of 1,500 and upwards, dioceses and ecclesiastical provinces in Ireland.

The religions shown separately in the Tables are as follows:—"Roman Catholics," "Protestant Episcopalians," "Presbyterians," "Methodists," with a fifth column for "All other Denominations," in which are included persons of stated religious professions not coming under any of the foregoing designations, persons whose religion was unascertained, and those who refused to give information on the subject. It has been found convenient to limit the information afforded by the Tables to the four principal denominations, except in Table 159, as the total under the head of "All other Denominations" constitutes but 1·2 per cent. of the population. While various small denominations have thus been grouped together each person will be found accounted for in the analysis attached to Table XXVIII., pages 142 and 143, according to the description of his religious profession given in the original returns.

view of Religious Professions
for 1861,
and 1891.

The following statement gives for the years 1861, 1871, 1881 and 1891, according to the classification referred to, the number of persons belonging to each of the principal religious denominations, with the proportion which they bear to the total population at each Census period:—

CENSUS PERIOD	Roman Catholics.		Protestant Episco- palians.		Presbyterians.		Methodists.		All other Denominations.		Total Population.

This statement shows that the variation in the proportion of members of some of the principal denominations was greater in 1891, as compared with 1881, than in either of the two previous decades.

Roman Catholics formed 77·69 per cent. of the population in 1861; in 1871 the proportion was 76·69; in 1881 it was 76·54; and on this occasion the per-centage is 1·14 less, namely 75·40, the actual number amounting to 3,547,307 in a total population of 4,704,730. Protestant Episcopalians constituted 11·96 per cent. of the population in 1861; in 1871 their per-centage had increased to 12·34; in 1881 it was 12·36; and in 1891 with their absolute number reduced to 600,103, their relative proportion has advanced to 12·75 per cent. Presbyterians, although receding in numbers, advanced in relative strength from 9·02 per cent. in 1861 to 9·20 in 1871, but declined to 9·10 in 1881; while their total number has further declined on the present occasion to 368,974, their proportion has advanced to 9·46 per cent. Methodists formed 0·79 per cent. of the total in 1861; 0·80 in 1871; 0·94 in 1881; and 1·18 in 1891, when their number (55,500) showed a considerable increase as compared with either 1871 or 1881; and "All other Denominations" comprised 0·54 per cent. of the population in 1861; 0·57 in 1871; 1·06 in 1881; and 1·21 in 1891.

The details regarding the religious profession of the persons entered under the head of "All other Denominations" for 1891 will be found in the note to Table 28, on pages 142 and 143; we subjoin, however, a list of all these denominations—nineteen in number—whose adherents reached the proportion of 1 in 10,000 of the population of Ireland:—

Information
refused.

Under the Act providing for the taking of the Census it was not made compulsory on persons to answer questions with regard to their religious profession. - 871 persons—availing themselves of the privilege—declined to give information, of whom 202 were in the province of Leinster, 99 in Munster, 540 in Ulster, and 30 in Connaught.

We proceed to notice the position, absolutely and comparatively, of the principal religious bodies in the chief territorial divisions, beginning with the civil Provinces (see Table 28, pages 142-3, Table 29, pages 146-7, and Table 132, pages 446-7).

In Leinster, in a population of 1,187,760, there were 1,012,007, or 85·2 per cent. Roman Catholics, showing, when compared with 1881, a decrease of 82,818 in number, and of 0·4 in the per-centage; 147,520, or 12·4 per cent., Protestant Episcopalians, the ratio to the general population being 0·1 per cent. higher than in 1881, but the numerical strength exhibiting a falling off of 10,002; 12,460 or 1·0 per cent., Presbyterians, the per-centage being 0·1 above that for 1881, and the number showing an increase of 401; and 7,770, or 0·7 per cent., Methodists, showing an advance of 764 in number, and of 0·1 in the per-centage as compared with 1881. The number included under "All other Denominations" is 8,003, or 0·7 per cent. of the total; in 1881, the number was 7,577, or 0·6 per cent. of the total.

Of 1,172,402 inhabitants of the province of Munster, 1,098,072, or 93·7 per cent. were Roman Catholics; 62,722, or 5·4 per cent., Protestant Episcopalians; 3,546, or 0·3 per cent., Presbyterians; 5,321, or 0·4 per cent., Methodists, and 2,741, or 0·2 per cent., come under the head of "All other Denominations." Comparing these figures with those for 1881, we find that Roman Catholics declined in relative strength from 93·8 to 93·7 per cent. of the total; that the Protestant Episcopalians advanced from 5·3 per cent. to 5·4; and that the respective proportions for Presbyterians, Methodists, and "All Others," were the same in both years. In numbers there was a decrease of 151,312 Roman Catholics, 7,406 Protestant Episcopalians, and 341 Presbyterians, and an increase of 462 Methodists; "All Others" fell from 2,847 to 2,741.

In Ulster, the total population of which is 1,619,814, Roman Catholics number 744,859, or 46·0 per cent., being a decline of 88,707 in number, and of 1·8 in the per-centage when compared with 1881; the number of Protestant Episcopalians is 362,791, being 16,611 less than in 1881, but the comparative proportion has advanced from 21·8 to 22·4 per cent.; Presbyterians amount to 426,245, and this number is 25,384 under that for 1881, but the per-centage has advanced from 25·9 to 26·3; Methodists number 40,528, against 34,825 in 1881, the per-centage represented by this body advancing from 2·0 to 2·5; and under "All other Denominations" 45,391 persons are comprised, being 1,738 over the number for 1881, and equal to a per-centage of 2·8 against 2·5 in 1881.

In the year 1881, Roman Catholics constituted 95·3 per cent. of the population of Connaught; the corresponding proportion for last year shows a slight advance, it being 95·5, although there was a decrease in the absolute number of Roman Catholics from 783,116 to 592,369; the number of Protestant Episcopalians in this province fell from 32,522 in 1881 to 27,070 in 1891, and the relative proportion declined from 3·9 per cent. of the population to 3·7; the relative proportion of Presbyterians is the same as in 1881, viz., 0·4 per cent., but the absolute number has decreased from 3,059 to 2,633; there were 2,239 Methodists in the province in 1881, and 1,951 in 1891, the number in each case being equivalent to 0·3 per cent. of the population; and 731 persons, or 0·1 per cent. of last year's population of 724,774, come under the head of "All other Denominations," in which category 721 persons were tabulated in 1881.

Arranging the provinces in the order of the absolute strength of the Roman Catholics, it will be found that, with the exception of Connaught, they will follow the same order when placed according to the proportion which the Roman Catholics bear to the total population. Thus in Munster there are 1,098,072 Roman Catholics, forming 93·7 per cent. of the population of the province; Leinster comes next with an absolute number of 1,012,007 Roman Catholics, and a proportion of 85·2 per cent.; Ulster has 744,859 Roman Catholics, who constitute 46·0 per cent. of the population; while in Connaught, where the Roman Catholics are 95·5 per cent. of the population, they number only 592,369 of the 8,547,307 Roman Catholics in Ireland.

With regard to the absolute and proportionate strength of the Protestant Episcopalians, the provinces are arranged in the following order:—Ulster comes first where Protestant Episcopalians number 362,791, yielding a percentage of 22·4 of the population; in Leinster 147,520 Protestant Episcopalians form 12·4 per cent. of the population; in Munster they are 5·4 per cent., their number amounting to 62,722; and in Connaught, their percentage of the population is only 3·7, and their number 27,070.

GENERAL
REPORT.Religious Professions.

Provinces.

Ninety-six per cent. of the total number of Presbyterians in Ireland, 73 in every hundred Methodists, and 80 per cent. of the persons tabulated under the head of "All other Denominations" were inhabitants of the Province of Ulster. In almost every instance the persons coming under these several designations in the other provinces rank in the same order as regards both number and relative strength.

Roman Catholics form the vast majority of the inhabitants of each province except Ulster, and in Ulster they largely exceed in number the members of any other denomination; the population of that province reduced to a basis of 1,000, being composed as follows:—460 Roman Catholics, 224 Protestant Episcopalians, 263 Presbyterians, 25 Methodists, and 28 members of "All other Denominations."

The proportions here given for Protestant Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Methodists, and "All other Denominations" in Ulster are the highest shown under these headings in any of the provinces.

Comparing the figures for last year with those for 1881, as to the relative strength of any religious denomination in the total population of a province, the greatest variation is in the proportion for Roman Catholics in Ulster, which has declined from 47·8 per cent. in 1881 to 46·0 in 1891. In Leinster and Munster, also, the percentage of Roman Catholics has declined (0·4 and 0·1 per cent. respectively), but it has increased 0·2 in Connaught.

Roman Catholics in Counties,
&c.

In Table 132, pages 446-7, dealing with the Religious Profession of the inhabitants of the counties, we have separated certain cities, counties of towns, &c., from what we may for the present call the rural portions of the counties, so that the country is divided into 41 districts. In each of 31 of these districts Roman Catholics constituted more than 75 per cent. of the population in 1891, there being 2, namely Donegal and Wicklow counties, in which the proportion was between 75 and 80 per cent.; 3—the city of Dublin, and the counties of Caran and Kildare—in which it was between 80 and 85 per cent.; 6—Cork City, Limerick City, Queen's County, Carlow County, Kilkenny City, and King's County—where it was between 85 and 90 per cent.; 12 in which it reached from 90 to 95 per cent., namely:—Leitrim County, Waterford City, Sligo County, the County of the Town of Galway, Longford County, Wexford County, Louth County, Cork County, the County of the Town of Drogheda, and the counties of Westmeath, Meath, and Tipperary; and 8 in which it exceeded 95 per cent., viz.:—the counties of Kilkenny, Waterford, Roscommon, Kerry, Limerick, Mayo, Galway, and Clare, in the last named of which the per-centage of Roman Catholics was 98·04, the number being 123,047 in a total population of 124,483. In four counties the proportion of Roman Catholics ranged from 50 to 75 per cent., namely, Tyrone, 54·6; Fermanagh, 55·4; Dublin (exclusive of the city), 69·7; and Monaghan, 73·3; and in the remaining six districts named in the table, Roman Catholics were less than one-half of the population: these districts and the respective per-centages are—Armagh County, 46·1; Londonderry County and City, 44·6; Down County, 29·8; Belfast City, 26·3; Antrim County, 21·8; and the small County of the Town of Carrickfergus, 9·2.

In six instances only do the proportions here set forth differ to the extent of a whole number from the corresponding per-centages in 1881: these cases are Dublin City, in which the per-centage of Roman Catholics is 82·2 against 80·4 in 1881, and the Counties of Dublin, Down, and Kildare, the City of Belfast, and the County of the Town of Carrickfergus, where the per-centages have fallen from 70·7, 30·9, 87·0, 28·8, and 11·7, to 69·7, 29·8, 84·1, 26·3, and 9·2 respectively.

Protestant
palians in Counties,
&c.

In 1891, as in 1881 and 1871, the counties having respectively the highest and the lowest proportion of Protestant Episcopalians in their population, were Fermanagh and Clare, the per-centage for the former county in 1881, being 36·2, and for the latter 1·8. Exclusive of Fermanagh, there were only two of the 41 districts into which the provinces are sub-divided in Table 132, in which, in 1891, the proportion of Protestant Episcopalians exceeded one-fourth of the population, viz.:—Armagh County, in which the per-centage was 32·2, and Belfast City, in which it was 29·5; in five, viz., the counties of Antrim, Dublin, Down, and Tyrone, and the county of the town of Carrickfergus, the per-centage was 20 and under 25; in two it was between 15 and 20, namely, the County of Wicklow and the City and County of Londonderry; in eight, viz.:—Carlow, Kildare, Queen's, Cavan, Donegal, and Monaghan counties, and the Cities of Dublin (in which it was 14·4) and Cork, it ranged between 10 and 15; in fifteen it was over 5, but under 10: these are, King's, Longford, Louth, Meath, Westmeath, Wexford, Cork, Tipperary, Leitrim, and Sligo Counties, the Cities of Kilkenny, Limerick, and Waterford, the County of the Town of Drogheda, and the County of the Town of Galway; and in the following eight it was under 5, viz. :—the Counties of Kilkenny, Clare, Kerry, Limerick, Waterford, Galway, Mayo, and Roscommon.

The only cases in which there is more than a fractional difference between the proportion of Protestant Episcopalians, in the population in 1891, and the corresponding per-centage in 1881, are—the City of Dublin, in which the per-centage has fallen from 15.9 to 14.4; the City of Belfast, where it has advanced from 28.1 to 29.5; the County of the Town of Carrickfergus, where the per-centage has risen to 29.0 from 17.4 in 1881; and the County of Kildare, in which the proportion has increased from 11.2 to 12.9.

As has been already indicated, almost the whole strength of the Presbyterian body is found in the province of Ulster, but it is not evenly distributed throughout the several districts in the province, for we find that the proportion of Presbyterians in the population ranges from 1.8 per cent. in the County of Fermanagh, to 51.0 per cent. in Antrim, and 53.4 per cent. in the small County of the Town of Carrickfergus, and that in the other districts the per-centage varies as follows:—Cavan County, 3.4; Donegal, 9.7; Monaghan, 12.6; Armagh, 16.0; Tyrone, 19.6; Londonderry (County and City), 32.2; Belfast City, 34.1; and Down, 39.9.

The only districts outside of Ulster in which Presbyterians constitute one per cent. of the population are the counties of Dublin, Kildare, and Louth, the cities of Dublin and Cork, the county of the town of Drogheda, and the county of the town of Galway; the highest per-centage for any of these is 2.4, the proportion for the county of Dublin.

There are only two districts in which there is any appreciable difference between the relative strength of Presbyterians in 1891, and the proportion in 1881, viz. —The city and county of Londonderry, where the per-centage has declined from 33.2 in 1881 to 32.2 in 1891, and the small county of the town of Carrickfergus in which their comparative strength has declined from 55.2 per cent. of the population in 1881 to 53.4 in 1891.

The following are the counties, &c., in which the proportion of Methodists equals or exceeds one in every 100 of the population, with the per-centage represented in each case:—Leitrim, 1.0; Wicklow, 1.0; Donegal, 1.1; Cork city, 1.2; Dublin (county), 1.4; Antrim, 1.8; Tyrone, 2.0; Down, 2.1; Armagh, 3.7; Carrickfergus, county of the town, 4.5; Belfast city, 5.4; and Fermanagh, 6.4. The only noteworthy variation in the relative proportion of Methodists in the population of any of the districts is in the City of Belfast, where they have advanced from 4.4 per cent. of the population in 1881 to 5.4 in 1891. The total population of the City is 23 per cent. over that enumerated in 1881, but Methodists have increased during the decade by 50 per cent.—their number having advanced from 9,141 in 1881 to 13,747 in 1891.

There are only nine districts in which the persons included under the head of "All other Denominations" constitute 1 per cent. of the population. These districts, and the respective per-centages, are as follow:—Tyrone county, 1.0; Waterford city, 1.3; Dublin city, 1.3; Dublin county, 1.9; Armagh county, 2.0; Londonderry county and city, 3.0; Belfast city, 4.7; Antrim county, 5.0; Down county, 5.0; and the county of the town of Carrickfergus, 12.9. The corresponding proportions for the four last-named districts in 1881, were—Belfast, 4.3 per cent. of the population; Antrim, 4.7 per cent.; Down, 4.7; and Carrickfergus, 11.3; showing that in these cases there has been a more or less tangible increase since that year.

It will be observed that in Table 132 it has been thought necessary to give the absolute number of persons belonging to each denomination as well as their proportion to the total population. For purposes of comparison the per-centage is more convenient, but it is evident that on account of the differences in extent and population of the areas dealt with, a small per-centage may represent a greater number of persons in one case than a large per-centage in another. We will close our references to that Table by mentioning the respective districts which contain the greatest aggregation of the members of each of the principal denominations. Roman Catholics are most numerous in the extensive County of Cork, where they amount to 331,613, forming 91.3 per cent. of a total population of 363,087; the largest number of Protestant Episcopalians in any one district is 75,522, the number for Belfast City, where, with two exceptions (Fermanagh and Armagh), Protestant Episcopalians attain their highest proportion, being equivalent to 29.5 per cent. of the population; Presbyterians are absolutely, and, with one exception (the small County of the Town of Carrickfergus) relatively, most numerous in Antrim County (exclusive of Belfast), where they amount to 105,299, or 51·0 per cent. of the population; and the City of Belfast contains the largest number of Methodists, viz.:—13,747, which number is equal to 5·4 per cent. of the population, this being the highest per-centage afforded by the number of Methodists in any of the districts except Fermanagh.

Poor Law Unions.

The religious professions of the population in each Poor Law Union are given in Table 132, pages 448 to 453.

Parliamentary Divisions of Counties
and Boroughs.

Table 134, on pages 454 to 457, shows the religious professions of the inhabitants of the County Parliamentary Divisions in Ireland in 1891, and Table 135 gives similar information for Parliamentary Boroughs in Ireland in 1871, 1881, and 1891, respectively. The number of these boroughs is nine, and their united population amounts to 791,531 against 742,952 in 1881, and 697,597 in 1871. Twenty-two other Parliamentary Boroughs ceased to be such under the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885," which at the same time extended the boundaries of the Parliamentary Borough of Belfast, and divided both it and the Parliamentary Borough of Dublin, each into four Parliamentary Divisions. The figures we give in the Table are those for the nine boroughs as they appear in the Reports on the respective Censuses.

Of the 791,531 inhabitants of these boroughs in 1891, 491,846, or 62·1 per cent., were Roman Catholics; 151,517, or 19·2 per cent., Protestant Episcopalians; 109,849, or 13·9 per cent., Presbyterians; 19,222, or 2·4 per cent., Methodists; and 19,097, or 2·4 per cent., come under the head of "All other Denominations." The corresponding per-centages in 1881 were, Roman Catholics, 66·3; Protestant Episcopalians, 18·2; Presbyterians, 11·7; Methodists, 1·8; and "All other Denominations," 2·0.

In eight of the nine boroughs, Roman Catholics constitute more than 50 per cent. of the population, greatly preponderating in seven. In the ninth (Belfast) the strength of none of the religious bodies approaches one-half of the total, but Presbyterians form 34·6 per cent., Protestant Episcopalians 29·7 per cent., and Roman Catholics, 25·7 per cent.

Towns.

In Table 136, on pages 459 to 461, every town in Ireland having, in 1891, not fewer than 1,500 inhabitants (the minimum civic limit fixed in the Towns Improvement Act, 17 and 18 Vic., cap. 103), is separately accounted for, and the population shown according to religious professions. The number of such towns was 140, with a total population of 1,296,401, of whom 840,441, or 64·8 per cent., were Roman Catholics; 246,623, or 19·0 per cent., Protestant Episcopalians; 151,338, or 11·7 per cent., Presbyterians; 30,030, or 2·3 per cent., Methodists; and 27,969, or 2·2 per cent., members of other religious denominations.

In 1881, there were 150 towns which came within this category, but in thirteen of these towns the population has since fallen below the 1,500 limit, and on the other hand the Table for 1891 comprises three districts which did not appear in the corresponding Table for 1881. The total number of inhabitants in the town districts in that year was 1,297,260, of whom 870,996, or 67·2 per cent., were Roman Catholics; 240,490, or 18·5 per cent., Protestant Episcopalians; 136,457, or 10·5 per cent., Presbyterians, 24,231, or 1·9 per cent., Methodists; and 24,824, or 1·9 per cent., were tabulated under the head of "All other Denominations."

These figures show that viewed with regard to the proportionate number of members of the several religious denominations in the total population of the towns, there has been a decrease of 2·4 in the per-centage of Roman Catholics, and an increase of 0·5 in the per-centage of Protestant Episcopalians, of 1·2 in the per-centage of Presbyterians, of 0·4 in the per-centage of Methodists, and of 0·3 in the per-centage of members of "All other Denominations."

The town population of Ireland in 1891, as compared with 1881, shows a net decrease of 859, although Belfast alone increased by 47,328, but on this occasion the number of towns is reduced by ten.

In 116 of the 140 towns having, in 1891, a population of 1,500 or upwards, Roman Catholics constitute an absolute majority of the inhabitants, and in 5 others, viz., Bessbrook, Cookstown, Downpatrick, Limavady, and Rathfriland, and Rathgar, although not one half of the population, they are the largest section. In six, viz., Banbridge, Dromore, Lisburn, Lurgan, Portadown, and Portrush, Protestant Episcopalians outnumber any other element, although they do not form 50 per cent. of the population; and in 13, viz., Ballymena, Bangor, Carrickfergus, Comber, Newtownards, Ballymoney, Belfast, Coleraine, Donaghadee, Holywood, Killyleagh, Larne, and Legoniel, the Presbyterian element dominates, forming more than one-half of the population in the first five.

In all of the 140 towns except 15, Protestant Episcopalians are more numerous than Presbyterians; the exceptions (all of which are in the province of Ulster), are Ballymena, Ballymoney, Bangor, Belfast, Carrickfergus, Castleblayney, Coleraine, Comber, Donaghadee, Holywood, Killyleagh, Larne, Legoniel, Londonderry, and Newtownards.

Deducting the inhabitants of the towns having a population of 1,500 or upwards, from the total population of Ireland, in 1891, we find that the inhabitants of the rural districts of the country numbered 3,408,349, of whom 2,706,866, or 79·4 per cent., were Roman Catholics; 353,480, or 10·4 per cent., Protestant Episcopalians; 293,636, or 8·6 per cent., Presbyterians; 25,470, or 0·7 per cent., Methodists; and 28,897, or 0·9 per cent., came under the head of "All other Denominations." The corresponding proportions for 1881 were 1—Roman Catholics, 79·7 per cent.; Protestant Episcopalians, 10·3; Presbyterians, 8·6; Methodists, 0·6, and "All others," 0·8, showing that in the rural parts of the country, the relative strength of the principal Churches has not varied to such an extent as in the towns, for we find that the per-centage for Roman Catholics, which has receded in the towns by 2·4, has fallen in the rural districts also, but only by 0·3, while Protestant Episcopalians whose proportion in the towns has advanced by 0·5, have increased their per-centage by 0·1 only in the rural districts, and the proportion of Presbyterians in the rural districts has not varied in the interval between 1881 and 1891, although it has increased by 1·2 in the towns. Methodists and "All other Denominations" have each increased by 0·1 only in their proportion to the total population in rural districts in 1891, as compared with 1881, while the increase in the per-centage in town districts has been for Methodists 0·4 and for "All other Denominations" 0·3.

Tables 137 to 141 relate to dioceses and ecclesiastical provinces—the diocesan boundaries followed being those legally recognized prior to the passing of "The Irish Church Act, 1869."

The first of these tables (pages 462-467) gives the religious professions of the inhabitants in 1891, and the territory comprised in each diocese. Table 138 contains the dioceses arranged alphabetically for facility of reference. In Table 139 the dioceses are grouped according to the ancient ecclesiastical provinces; and the number of persons belonging to each religious denomination, with their per-centage to the total population, is shown for each Census period from 1861 inclusive. Tables 140 and 141 set forth the dioceses arranged according to the usage of the Roman Catholic Church and the Church of Ireland respectively.

With respect to the subject of the constitution of ecclesiastical divisions in Ireland, the following paragraphs appear in the General Report of the Census Commissioners of 1871:—

"Fortunately in both Churches the ancient landmarks, so far at least as regards the dioceses have been preserved, and according to popular usage, if any one speak of the Diocese of Cork, Caidel, Tuam, Clagher, Fema, or Clonfert, he will be understood to refer no less to the Roman Catholic than to the Protestant Diocese. In some few instances there have been changes, but changes always of clearly determinable effect, or where in the Roman Catholic Church, the Wardens of Galway retaining its old boundary line, was formed into the Diocese of Galway, while upon the other hand there is a Diocese (Glendalough) of the Protestant Episcopal Church, long obsolete according to Roman Catholic usage, but which is so circumstanced that the Roman Catholic Diocese of Dublin is simply the Protestant Diocese, plus the Diocese of Glendalough. There are one or two other divergences between diocesan boundaries in the Roman Catholic and Protestant Episcopal Churches, but they are of the smallest possible importance, and such as to disturb in no respect the harmony that fact and tradition have established between diocesan boundaries in the Roman Catholic and Protestant Episcopal Churches.

"As regards the provinces the case is slightly different. Prior to the year 1834, the then Established Church equally with the Roman Catholic Church had four provinces; and these provinces were for each Church exactly coterminous, save in so far as the small Diocese of Kiltiernan was attached in the Established Church to the province of Caidel, while in the Roman Catholic Church it is annexed to the province of Tuam. In the year 1834, pursuant to the provisions of the Church Temporalities Act, 5 and 4 William IV., cap. 37, the four pre-existing provinces as recognised by law were reduced to two, viz., Armagh and Dublin; the province of Armagh comprising roughly the ancient provinces of Armagh and Tuam, while to the province of Dublin was annexed under the one provincial title, the ancient province of Caidel together with the Sees of Clonfert and Kilmacdragh. These, in a certain sense, may be treated as having been detached from the province of Tuam, which, saving those exceptions, had been incorporated with the province of Armagh.

"Upon the whole, however, the boundaries of the several dioceses may be regarded as unchanged from a period long antecedent to the English invasion; and we feel assured that—minute divergences apart—our statistics will be found equally interesting, and equally profitable to the members of the Roman Catholic and Protestant Episcopal Churches."

Present arrange-
Dioceses.

On communicating with the Archbishops of the respective Churches, we learned that the only change in Roman Catholic Dioceses since 1881 was an exchange of districts between the Dioceses of Galway and Tuam. In the Church of Ireland the following changes have been made, viz.:—Province of Armagh, the Townlands of Larkhill, Knockacullen, and Mullinashen, in the Parish of Ballysodare, and Diocese of Achonry, have been transferred to Dromard Parish in the Diocese of Killala; Maghera Parish in the Diocese of Down, has been transferred to the Diocese of Dromore; and Clogher Diocese has been taken from Armagh and formed into a separate Bishopric Province of Dáilín—the union of Rathmore with the exception of the Townlands of Newtown Park, Newtown Little, Crosscoble, Hampatown, and Pipers Hall, has been transferred from the Diocese of Glendalough to the Diocese of Kildare; and the union of Inchigeelagh and Kilmichael in the Diocese of Cork has been transferred to the Diocese of Cloyne. It must not be supposed that each diocese corresponds to the jurisdiction of a bishop, as alterations have been made at various times and in different ways. At present the episcopal government of one (the Roman Catholic Church) is vested in four Archbishops and twenty-three Bishops, and of the other in two Archbishops and eleven Bishops.

We think it unnecessary to examine each diocesan table in detail, but with regard to Table 139 we beg to offer some observations as regards the results as they appear contrasted with those of the previous Census.

Absolute and relative
each Denomination in the Dioceses.

As has been already stated, the per-centage of Roman Catholics in the total population of Ireland in 1891 was 75·4. We find from Table 139 that in 26 of the 32 dioceses the relative strength of the Roman Catholic body is in excess of the average for Ireland, and that in 20 of these 26 dioceses the proportion exceeds 90 per cent. the highest per-centage being 98·8 for the diocese of Kilfenora. The six dioceses in which the proportion of Roman Catholics is under the average for the whole country, are situated in the ecclesiastical Province of Armagh. They comprise three in which Roman Catholics exceed 50 per cent. of the population, and three in which they are less than one-half of the total—viz., Clogher, 64·6 per cent.; Armagh, 59·3; Derry, 56·0; Dromore, 37·2; Connor, 24·3; and Down, 23·1.

There are five dioceses in which the per-centage of Protestant Episcopalians is above 20, and twelve in which it is below 5; the highest per-centage is 27·7, in the diocese of Dromore, and the lowest is 1·1, in the diocese of Kilfenora; the mean for Ireland being 12·7.

Presbyterians form 43·8 per cent. of the population of Down diocese, 42·3 per cent. of the population of Connor, 23·1 per cent. of the population of Dromore, and 24·8 per cent. of the population of Derry diocese; but in only one of the other dioceses (Armagh) does the per-centage exceed 10, and in twenty-two it is below 1. The average for Ireland is 9·5 per cent.

The highest per-centage for Methodists is 3·7, in the diocese of Down; and the highest for "All other denominations" is 5·6, in the diocese of Down.

The most populous of the dioceses is Dublin, with 493,690 inhabitants in 1891, and the least so is Kilfenora, with a population of 17,108. There are only two dioceses in which the population has increased since 1881, viz., Connor (comprising nearly all of the City of Belfast), where the number of inhabitants has risen from 438,477 in 1881, to 448,729 in 1891; and Down, the population of which has increased from 154,950 in 1881, to 166,364 in 1891.

Roman Catholics are most numerous in the diocese of Dublin, where they amount to 384,566; Protestant Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Methodists, and "All other Denominations" attain their greatest numerical strength in the diocese of Connor, the respective numbers being—Protestant Episcopalians, 112,227; Presbyterians, 187,493; Methodists, 15,169, and "All other Denominations," 20,924.

There are only four dioceses in which the per-centage afforded by the number of members of any of the principal denominations in the population differs to the extent of 1·0 from the corresponding per-centage in 1881. These dioceses are—Connor, in which Protestant Episcopalians increased from 23·9 per cent. to 25·3, and Presbyterians fell from 43·7 per cent. to 42·3; Down, in which Roman Catholics declined from 25·6 per cent. to 23.1, Protestant Episcopalians increased from 22.2 per cent. to 23.8, and Methodists from 2.4 per cent. to 3.7; Kildare, in which Roman Catholics formed 85.9 per cent. of the population in 1861, and 83.5 in 1891, and Protestant Episcopalians increased from 12.5 per cent. to 13.7; and Down where the percentage of Presbyterians declined from 29.7 to 28.1.

Diagram 4 shows the proportion per cent. of the population of each county and civil province belonging to each Religious Profession.

X.—RELIGIOUS PROFESSIONS AND EDUCATION OF THE PEOPLE.

Tables 30 to 37 inclusive, 80, 81, and 142 to 156 inclusive, relate to the religious profession and education of the people. They may be divided into two sections—one dealing with the state of elementary knowledge as shown by the number of persons who are able to "read and write," those who can "read only," and those who are illiterate; and the other with the condition of education as indicated by returns from educational establishments throughout the country.

The results of our investigations as regards both of these sections are most satisfactory, and the general advance in education, Primary and Superior, in Ireland during the past decade may be considered the most gratifying fact elicited by the great social inquiry of 1891.

At the outset it affords us much pleasure to be in a position to report to your Excellency that the decline in illiteracy shown by the results of each previous Census still continues.

The following statement shows for Ireland, and by provinces, the proportion per cent. of the population, five years old and upwards, in each Census year since 1841, who could (1) read and write; (2) read only; and (3) neither read nor write:—

Decline of Illiteracy.

Per-centage of illiterate persons at several
periods.

It appears from the above that in 1841, 53 per cent. of the population of Ireland, exclusive of children under five years old, were wholly illiterate; in 1851 the percentage had fallen to 47; in 1861 to 39; in 1871 to 33; in 1881 to 29; and in 1891 to 18, or, in other words, in the year 1841 persons who were unable to read constituted more than one-half of the population five years old and upwards, but in 1881 the proportion wholly illiterate was only one-fourth, and in 1891 it was less than one-fifth. That there are eighteen persons in every hundred, five years old and upwards, who are unable to read, shows that there is still considerable scope for the work of the educationist, and this is especially true as regards the Province of Connaught where twenty-seven persons in every hundred are illiterate.

The per-centage of illiterate persons in the population five years old and upwards in the Province of Leinster in 1841 was 44; in 1881 it had fallen to 20, and in 1891 it was only 15; in Munster the respective per-centages for the three years were—61, 28, 20; in Ulster they were 40, 20, 15; and in Connaught, 72, 38, 27. We have here the results of the inquiry of last year contrasted with those of the preceding Census, and also with those of the first occasion on which information on the subject was collected. It may be observed that in Leinster and Munster the number of illiterate persons in one hundred of the population is about one-third of the number for the year 1841, and that in Ulster and Connaught the proportion is a little more than one-third. There has been in one sense a greater improvement in Connaught than in the other provinces, as, it is found that there are now in every 100 persons in that province 45 more raised out of the state of total illiteracy than there were in 1841; in Munster there are 41 more; in Leinster, 29; and in Ulster, 25. The improvement effected since 1881 is very gratifying, the statement showing that the number of illiterate persons in 100 of the population of Leinster aged 5 years and upwards was last year 5 less than in 1881; in Munster the number was 8 less; in Ulster 5; and in Connaught 11; the mean reduction for Ireland was 7.

Proportion
read only.

The per-centage of the population of Ireland 5 years old and upwards in 1891 who could "read only" was 11; in Leinster the per-centage coming under this head was 10; in Munster it was 8; in Ulster, 14; and in Connaught, 11. Compared with the corresponding proportions for 1881, there has been a decline from 15 to 10 in Leinster, from 12 to 8 in Munster, from 20 to 14 in Ulster, from 15 to 11 in Connaught, and from 16 to 11 in the total of Ireland. In each case there has been a decline in the proportionate number coming under "read only" in 1891 as compared with 1841; in Leinster and Ulster the decrease is very considerable.

Proportion
who could read and write.

Coming now to persons able to read and write, we find that in 1841 these formed only 28 per cent. of the population of Ireland five years old and upwards, but in 1881 they amounted to 59, and in 1891 to 71 in every 100. In Leinster in 1841, only 34 persons in 100 could read and write, but in 1881 the per-centage had risen to 65, and in 1891 it was 75; in Munster, in 1841, not more than 26 persons in one hundred could read and write, whereas in 1881 there were 60 who could do so, and in 1891 there were 72; in Ulster, persons who could read and write formed 30 per cent. of the population five years old and upwards in 1841, 60 per cent. in 1881, and 71 per cent. in 1891; and in Connaught 16 per cent. only could read and write in 1841, but the per-centage in 1881 was 47, and in 1891 it was 62, or nearly four-fold the proportion in 1841.

Illiterate
persons in
and cities.

From Table 142 we learn that the lowest per-centage of absolutely illiterate persons in the population (5 years old and upwards) of the Counties and Cities of Leinster, was 10·1 in Dublin County, and the highest 21·4 in the County of Louth (the per-centage for the City of Dublin was 14·5); in Munster the lowest per-centage was 15·1 for the County of Tipperary, and the highest 28·1 for Waterford County; in Ulster the proportion of illiterate ranges from 6·5 per cent. in the small county of the town of Carrickfergus, and 8·7 in the City of Belfast (the two lowest per-centages in the country) to 31·1 in the county of Donegal; and in Connaught, the per-centages range from 16·4 in the county of Leitrim to 34·1 in the county of Galway, the last-named being the highest proportion of illiterate in any county in Ireland.

With regard to the four counties named above, as having the highest proportion of illiterate persons in their respective provinces, it should be added that there has been a great improvement in each during the last thirty years: thus, the per-centage of illiterate persons in the county of Louth in the year 1861 was 45·0; in 1871 it was 38·7; in 1881 it was 30·0; and in 1891, as before stated, it was 21·4; in Waterford County the four corresponding per-centages were 58·8, 50·7, 39·2, and 28·1; in Donegal they were 52·1, 48·5, 39·8, and 31·1; and in Galway County they were 63·6, 56·9, 46·3, and 34·1. It will be noticed that in the Counties of Louth, Waterford and Donegal, the diminution in the proportion of illiterate persons in the last decade was about equal to that during the ten years ending with 1881, but greater than that between 1861 and 1871, and a similar decline of illiteracy, more or less marked, is observable in the per-centages for all the other counties in Ireland. In the county of Galway the greatest decline in the per-centage of illiteracy was between 1881 and 1891.

Persons
who could read only.

The lowest per-centage of the population, 5 years old and upwards, entered under the head of "Read only" in any county is 6·7, the proportion for the county of Dublin; and the highest is 16·0 for the county of Tyrone.

Persons who could
write.

Eighty-four persons in the County of the Town of Carrickfergus and 83 in the county of Dublin in every hundred of those aged 5 years and upwards were able to read and write; in the county of Donegal there were only 55: these are the extreme county proportions. The highest per-centage in the province of Leinster is that for the county of Dublin (83·2), and the lowest, 66·1 for Louth (in the metropolis the per-centage was 77·7); in Munster the extreme proportions are 75·3 in the county of Limerick, and 62·8 in Waterford County; in Ulster they are 84·2 in the County of the Town of Carrick-terguis, and 55·5 in Donagall, (the proportion for Belfast City is 81·1); and in Coonsnought the highest per-centage is 71·1 for Leitrim, and the lowest 56·2 for Galway County.

GENERAL
REPORT.

In twenty-six of the forty-one counties, cities, &c., into which the country is divided in Table 142, persons who could read and write formed more than 70 per cent. of the population five years old and upwards; in three (the counties of Mayo, Galway, and Donagall), they did not reach sixty per cent.

Religious Professions
and Education.

So far, we have considered the educational status of the inhabitants of the several districts irrespective of Religious Profession. Table 142 also shows the present condition of the members of each of the principal religious bodies, with regard to elementary education, and affords the means of comparison with the Censuses of 1861, 1871, and 1881. From it we learn that last year 22·0 per cent. of the Roman Catholic population of Ireland aged 5 years and upwards, 8·6 per cent. of Protestant Episcopalians, 5·6 per cent. of Presbyterians, 4·4 per cent. of Methodists, and 5·0 per cent. of the members of "All other Denominations" could neither read nor write, the mean per-centage for the entire population being 18·4.

Per-centage
body.

Roman Catholics constitute 75 per cent. of the population, and must necessarily include a very large proportion of the humbler classes. It would consequently be useless to institute any comparison, as regards the condition of education, between the Roman Catholic body and other religious denominations.

Comparing the per-centage of illiterate persons amongst members of each Church or denomination with the corresponding proportions for 1881, 1871, and 1861, we find matter for congratulation in every instance. In 1861 the per-centage of Roman Catholics, 5 years old and upwards in Ireland, who could neither read nor write, was 45·8; in 1871 it was 39·9; in 1881 it was 30·1; and in 1891 it had fallen to 22·0; the corresponding per-centages for Protestant Episcopalians are 16·0, 14·2, 10·9, and 8·6; for Presbyterians, 11·1, 9·6, 7·1, and 5·6; for Methodists, 9·0, 6·7, 5·5, and 4·4; and for "All other Denominations," 9·6, 8·1, 5·3, and 5·0.

illiteracy in each Church
nation

Taking the figures for the provinces in 1891, the highest per-centage of Roman Catholics (aged 5 years and upwards) unable to read or write, is 28·5 in Connaught, and the lowest 17·3 in Leinster. The highest per-centage of illiterate for each of the other denominations is found in Ulster, where these bodies attain their greatest strength, absolutely and relatively; these per-centages are—Protestant Episcopalians, 11·4; Presbyterians, 5·7; and Methodists, 4·9. The lowest provincial per-centage of illiterate Protestant Episcopalians is 4·2 in Leinster and Munster; that of Presbyterians is 2·6 in Munster; of Methodists 2·2 in Connaught.

Illiterate
persons in each reli-
in 1891.

The lowest proportion of illiterate Roman Catholics in the counties, cities, &c., as given in Table 142, is 13·2 for the County of Dublin, and the highest is 37·3 for Donegal; in the year 1861 the corresponding per-centage for Donegal was 62·7, in 1871 it was 38·6, and in 1881 it was 47·8. In 23 of the 41 counties, cities, &c., the proportion of persons unable to read or write in the Roman Catholic population, 5 years old and upwards in 1891, was under 20 per cent.; in 14 it was between 20 and 30; and in 4 it was over 30 per cent.

The lowest per-centage of illiterate persons in the Protestant Episcopal population, 5 years old and upwards, was 2·3 in the county of the town of Galway; and the highest was 15·3 in the county of Armagh. In twenty-two counties, &c., the per-centage was under 5; in twelve it was between 5 and 10, and in seven (all in the province of Ulster), it was over 10.

In 30 of the 41 districts the per-centage of illiterate persons in the Presbyterian community was under 5; in three it was 5·0; and in 8 it was over 5 (those in the last group, with two exceptions, being in the province of Ulster); there were no illiterate persons in the Presbyterian population 5 years old and upwards in the City of Kilkenny, and the highest per-centage, 7·7, was in Donegal.

The highest per-centage of illiterate persons in the Methodist body is 6·7 for the county of Armagh, and the highest under the head of "All other Denominations," is 12·8 in the City of Limerick.

The proportion of Roman Catholics, 5 years old and upwards in Ireland, able to "read only" in 1861 was 19·1 per cent.; in 1871 it was 16·9; in 1881, 15·8; and in 1891, 11·3; the corresponding per-centages for Protestant Episcopalians are 20·2, 16·8, 14·2, and

GENERAL
REPORT.

9.9; for Presbyterians, 28.6, 22.0, 16.7, and 11.0; for Methodists, 17.9, 12.4, 9.9, and 7.2; and for "All other Denominations," 16.7, 12.9, 10.2, and 7.4.

Religious Professions
and Education.

In each of the religious denominations the proportion of persons who can "read only," is highest in the province of Ulster, and in most cases lowest in Munster; the respective extremes of the per-centages being—Roman Catholics, 15.8 in Ulster, and 8.5 in Munster; Protestant Episcopalians, 14.2 in Ulster, and 3.1 in Munster; Presbyterians, 11.4 in Ulster, and 2.4 in Leinster and in Munster; Methodists, 8.9 in Ulster, and 1.9 in Leinster; and "All other Denominations," 8.8 in Ulster, and 1.7 in Munster.

Persons
who could
write.

In 1861 the per-centage of Roman Catholics, 5 years old and upwards in Ireland, able to read and write, was 35.1; in 1871 it was 43.2, in 1881, 54.1, and in 1891, 66.7; the corresponding per-centages for Protestant Episcopalians are 63.8, 69.0, 74.9, and 81.5; for Presbyterians, 60.1, 68.4, 76.2, and 83.4; for Methodists, 73.1, 80.9, 84.6, and 88.4; and for "All other Denominations," 73.7, 79.0, 84.5, and 87.6.

Leinster ranks first of the provinces as regards the proportion of Roman Catholics, 5 years old and upwards, who can read and write, the per-centage being 71.4; Munster follows with a per-centage of 70.5; Connaught is next with 60.5; and Ulster last with 60.2.

The province having the highest per-centage of Protestant Episcopalians who can read and write is Munster, with 92.7 per cent.; in Leinster the per-centage is 92.5; in Connaught, 89.2; and in Ulster, 74.4.

The highest per-centage of Presbyterians able to read and write is 95.0 for Munster; the next is 94.7 for Leinster; the third is 93.4 for Connaught; and the lowest is 82.9 for Ulster.

The highest proportion of Methodists able to read and write is 95.2 for Leinster; this is followed by Connaught, with 94.5 per cent.; Munster, with 93.4; and Ulster with 86.2 per cent.

Under the head of "All other Denominations," the provinces come in the following order—Connaught 92.8 per cent., able to "read and write"; Munster 91.4; Leinster 90.5; and Ulster 86.7.

The proportions under the head of "Read and Write" for the several counties, cities, &c., do not differ from the averages for the respective provinces, to such an extent as to call for an analysis of the various per-centages.

Map II., and Diagrams 5 and 6, illustrate the subject of Education for each County.

Advance of
since 1871.

Table 81 gives the population of each county and province by Ages, Sexes, and Degrees of Elementary Education. Under the head "Ages" we give the population under one year, and by single years from 1 to 20 inclusive. Considering it desirable to show the number of persons in Ireland, under and over 21 years, we divided the age-period 20-25 into two—"20" and "21-5." The ages are given in quinquennial periods, from 25 years upwards. Limiting our notice of this table to the figures respecting persons under 20 years of age, we learn that in 1891, 41.4 per cent. of children aged 5 and under 10 years; 87.4 per cent. of those aged 10 and under 15 years, and 89.0 per cent. of persons aged 15 and under 20, could read and write. In 1881 the corresponding per-centages were 28.6 of children aged 5 and under 10 years; 73.3 of those aged 10 and under 15 and 77.9 of persons aged 15 and under 20. In 1871 only 19.8 per cent. of children aged 5 and under 10 years; 59.3 per cent. of those aged 10 and under 15, and 68.0 per cent. of persons aged 15 and under 20 could read and write, showing a marked improvement in 1891 over 1881, the figures for which year also exhibit a material advance when compared with those for 1871. There has been a marked advance, as above stated, since 1871 in the elementary education of children of the ages of 5 to 10 years, viz:—from 19.8 per cent. to 41.4 who could read and write. An analysis of each age for 1891, is here given to show the progression year by year:—

Proportion per cent. of the population in 1891 } who could read and write,	1 year	5 years	10 years	15 years	20 years

PRIMARY AND SUPERIOR INSTRUCTION.

GENERAL
REPORT.

Proceeding to consider the Tables which deal with attendance at Schools and Colleges, we find the advance of education, evidenced by the decline of illiteracy, still further and even more strongly attested by the fact that, decade by decade, notwithstanding the decrease in the population, an increased number of persons have been brought under instruction.

Primary
and Superior
Instruction.

From Table 37, page 162, it will be seen that 466,818 persons, or 8.05 per cent. of the population, were under instruction in schools and colleges in 1861 (on the 17th day of May); that 639,955, or 11.82 per cent. were similarly circumstanced in 1871 (week ended 17th June); that in 1881 (week ended 14th May) the number was 699,729 (355,084 males, and 344,645 females), or 13.52 per cent. of the population; and in 1891 (week ended 30th May), 712,843 (360,304 males, and 352,539 females), or 15.15 per cent. of the population, distributed numerically as follows:—

Dealing with the instruction in Primary Schools according to religious professions, we find that in 1861 the per-centage of pupils to the Roman Catholic population was 7.27; in 1871, 11.19; in 1881, 13.15; and in 1891, 14.74. Protestant Episcopalians increased from 9.73 per cent. in 1861, to 12.38 in 1871, to 12.69 in 1881, and to 13.56 in 1891; and Presbyterians and all others from 8.04 per cent. in 1861, to 11.58 in 1871, to 12.74 in 1881, and to 13.10 in 1891—13.73 per cent. of the Presbyterians in 1881, and 15.63 in 1891; 10.49 of the Methodists in 1881, and 12.39 in 1891, and 6.07 in 1881, and 7.91 in 1891 of "All other Denominations," being under instruction in primary schools.

Primary instruction—
Religious
Professions.

Under the head of Superior Establishments, we find of Roman Catholics, in 1861, .27 per cent. of the Roman Catholic population, in 1871 as also in 1881 .30 per cent., and in 1891 .43 per cent.; of Protestant Episcopalians, 1.14 per cent. in 1861 and 1871, 1.23 per cent. in 1881, and 1.21 per cent. in 1891; and of Presbyterians and all others .59 per cent. in 1861, .72 in 1871, .83 in 1881, and .91 in 1891. The Presbyterians under instruction in superior establishments in 1881 equalled .65, Methodists 1.58, and "All other Denominations" 1.75 per cent., and in 1891, .75, 1.42, and 1.64 per cent. respectively of the population tabulated under each of these headings.

Superior instruction—
Religious
Professions.

It may here be added that the designation "Primary" has been applied in Irish Census Publications since 1841 to schools where the instruction is, generally speaking, exclusively English, while those schools in which a foreign language is taught, at least to an appreciable extent, have been classed as "Superior," upon the assumed likelihood that the presence of a foreign language in the school course argues a higher standard of general instruction than is to be found where such an element is wanting.

Superior Establishments have been divided, as in 1871 and 1881, into (1.) Colleges of Universities and other Colleges, and (2.) Superior, or Intermediate, Schools.

GENERAL
REPORT.

Colleges have been taken to be institutions which administer a complete course of professional instruction.

In order, however, to ascertain the exact truth we have, as in 1881, not only classified the educational institutions according to the instruction given in them, but we have analyzed the instruction itself by specially tabulating each pupil receiving superior instruction in the primary schools, and by eliminating from the superior establishments those pupils who were only receiving primary instruction. The result of our inquiries in this respect leads us to the conclusion that the instruction in what are essentially primary schools—schools which could not properly be classified otherwise—is of a higher standard than in 1881, embracing many more pupils studying foreign languages.

Dealing generally with the numbers under instruction in Irish schools (Primary and Superior), we find that the percentage to the population was for Roman Catholics, in 1861, 7·54; in 1871, 11·48; in 1881, 13·45; and in 1891, 15·17; for Protestant Episcopalians, 10·87 per cent. in 1861, 13·52 in 1871, 13·92 in 1881, and 14·77 in 1891; and for Presbyterians and all others, the percentage amounted to 8·63 in 1861, to 12·30 in 1871, to 13·58 in 1881, and to 15·43 in 1891.

A Table (No. 146) classifying the several establishments in which instruction, whether primary or superior, was administered at the Census dates of 1871, 1881, and 1891, is given at page 492, and the pupils and students in attendance are classified according to their ages and religious professions, the residents and non-residents are also separately distinguished.

Schools
affording primary instruction,
in 1871,
1881, and
1891.

From this Table it appears that the primary schools in 1871 numbered 9,495, with 615,785 pupils; in 1881, 9,151, with an attendance of 675,036 pupils; and in 1891, 9,177, with 685,074 pupils.

Their distribution according to religions is as follows:—

	Roman Catholics.	Protestant Episcopalians.	Presbyterians.	Methodists.	All other Denominations.
1871, . . .	522,793	81,360	69,345	4,876	4,500
1881, . . .	530,318	81,188	64,639	5,125	3,243
1871, . . .	464,363	82,673		68,730

Establishments

in 1871,
1881, and
1891.

In 1871, 587 establishments with 24,170 students; in 1881, 504 with 24,693 students; and in 1891, 490 with 27,769 students, were tabulated under the head of superior schools and colleges.

The following is their distribution according to religions:—

	Roman Catholics.	Protestant Episcopalians.	Presbyterians.	Methodists.	All other Denominations.
1871, . . .	15,430	7,380	3,343	787	930

National schools, and attendance
thereat.

Distributing the primary schools into their several groups, those under the National Board come first in importance, and of these there were in 1871, 6,834 schools, with 490,603 pupils; in 1881, 7,668 schools, with 596,531 pupils, and in 1891, 8,301 schools, with 636,696 pupils, distributed as follows according to their Religious Professions:—

	Roman Catholics.	Protestant Episcopalians.	Presbyterians.	Methodists.	All other Denominations.
1871, . . .	490,533	68,007	67,679	4,403	4,066
1881, . . .	474,140	86,079	60,346	4,247	2,719
1871, . . .	397,854	35,754		56,305

The large increase in 1881 over 1871, amounting to no less than 54 per cent. of Protestant Episcopalian children attending National schools is very remarkable, and this increase has now advanced to no less than 90 per cent. This fact must be borne in mind in considering the second of our groups.

GENERAL
REPORT.

The schools of the Church Education Society, combined with Protestant parochial schools not in connexion with the National Board, come second on our list. In point of numbers, however, this class of schools stands fourth. In 1871 the number of these schools was 1,141, and the pupils 38,159; in 1881 the schools numbered 500, attended by 14,970 pupils, and in 1891 we find only 260 schools with 6,494 pupils. In 1871 these schools were attended by 3,033 Roman Catholics, 29,123 Protestant Episcopalians, and 6,003 Presbyterians and others. In 1881 there were 492 Roman Catholics, 12,221 Protestant Episcopalians, 1,886 Presbyterians, 243 Methodists, and 128 children belonging to "All other Denominations," and in 1891, 75 Roman Catholics, 5,512 Protestant Episcopalians, 748 Presbyterians, 103 Methodists, and 56 children belonging to "All other Denominations."

Preserving the order of 1871 and 1881, we have next to deal with the schools of the Christian Brothers, and of other Roman Catholic communities, not in connexion with the Board of National Education. The number of these schools in 1871 was 170, attended by 36,562 pupils, including 36,548 Roman Catholics and 14 Protestant Episcopalians. In 1881 these schools again numbered 170, but were attended by 31,614 pupils only, of whom 31,596 were Roman Catholics, and 18 Protestant Episcopalians and others. In 1891 the number of primary schools in this class fell to 133 and the pupils to 21,638, of whom all but 39 were Roman Catholics. It may be added, however, that the great majority of the "Monastic and Convent" primary schools formerly returned in this group are now connected with the National Board, and furthermore that many of the Christian Brothers' schools are now classed as "Superior Schools." By here bringing into view both the primary and the superior schools of the Christian Brothers we obtain the following results:—

Schools under "Other Societies or Boards" form our fourth group, and include all primary establishments under corporate government other than that of the National Board, the Church Education Society, or the Christian Brothers.

In 1871 the number of these schools was 702, and the number of pupils in attendance was 30,234, 9,661 Roman Catholics, 15,891 Protestant Episcopalians, and 4,682 Presbyterians and all others. In 1881 there were only 507 of these schools, and 23,155 pupils, of whom 9,633 were Roman Catholics, 11,269 Protestant Episcopalians, 1,580 Presbyterians, 428 Methodists, and 245 were members of "All other Denominations."

In 1891 there was a further decrease to 335 schools, and 16,327 pupils, of whom 9,001 were Roman Catholics, 6,131 Protestant Episcopalians, 785 Presbyterians 181 Methodists, and 229 persons of "All other Denominations."

The number of primary schools classified under the group "Other Societies or Boards," in 1871, 1881, and 1891, is as follows:—

In 1871 the number of schools returned as Orphanages was 36, with 1,385 pupils, of whom 893 were Roman Catholics, 480 Protestant Episcopalians, and 10 Presbyterians and all Others. In 1881 the number of schools fell to 30, while the number of pupils increased to 1,430, of whom 1,029 were Roman Catholics, 379 Protestant Episcopalians, 2 Presbyterians, 10 Methodists, and 10 were children belonging to "All other Denominations." In 1891 these institutions numbered 30 as in 1881, but the number of pupils fell to 1,016, of these 494 were Roman Catholics, 465 Protestant Episcopalians, 31 Presbyterians, 6 Methodists, and 20 belonged to "All other Denominations." It may be added that the children of many of the Roman Catholic Orphanages now attend schools connected with the National Board.

Orphanages.

GENERAL
REPORT.

Private schools—
thereat.

In 1871 Private Elementary Schools numbered 612, attended by 18,842 pupils—16,371 Roman Catholics, 1,411 Protestant Episcopalians, and 1,060 Presbyterians and all Others. In 1881 these schools fell so low as 276, attended by 7,336 pupils, of whom 3,928 were Roman Catholics, 2,225 Protestant Episcopalians, 844 Presbyterians, 193 Methodists, and 146 were persons belonging to "All other Denominations." In 1891 they numbered 118 only and were attended by 2,903 pupils, 1,089 Roman Catholics, 1,218 Protestant Episcopalians, 298 Presbyterians, 169 Methodists, and 129 classed as "All other Denominations."

The contrast between 1861 and 1891 in this class of schools is so marked that we give the number of schools and of scholars so returned in each of the two decades:—

	Private Schools (Elementary)	No. of Scholars.

Colleges.

Superior establishments have been divided, as in 1871 and 1881, into two broad classes (1) Colleges of Universities and other Colleges, and (2) Superior schools. Colleges have as before stated been taken to be institutions which administer a complete course of professional instruction of which there were 15 in 1891. The aggregate number of students in 1871 was 2,945—1,306 Roman Catholics, 1,065 Protestant Episcopalians, and 574 Presbyterians and all Others. In 1881 the total number of students was 4,268—1,919 Roman Catholics, 1,864 Protestant Episcopalians, 706 Presbyterians, 186 Methodists, and 113 members of "All other Denominations," but in 1891 they fell to 3,498—1,658 Roman Catholics, 1,046 Protestant Episcopalians, 605 Presbyterians, 86 Methodists, and 103 of "All other Denominations." This diminution is in part due to the fact that there were no students returned in 1891 in the Faculties in Rockwell College, Cash, and the Methodist College, Belfast, with an aggregate of 470 students, which are consequently omitted: University College, Blackrock, with 44 students, was added since 1881.

Superior
schools.

In the second of our classes—"Superior Schools"—we include many high class establishments, popularly known as Colleges, together with all schools, both public and private, in which a fair per-centage of the pupils were engaged in the study of foreign languages.

In 1871 there were 574 establishments of this class with 21,223 pupils and students, in 1881 the number of schools fell to 488, with 20,405 pupils and students, and in 1891 to 474, while the pupils and students increased to 24,371. It will thus be seen that while there was a slight decrease (14) in the number of "Superior Schools" between 1881 and 1891, there was a decided increase (3,866) in the number of students; their religious professions in 1871, 1881, and 1891 are shown in the following summary:—

Religious Professions of Students.	Roman Catholics.	Protestant Episcopalians.	Presby- terians.	Method- ists.	All other Denominations.	Total.
1891,	13,772	6,234	2,737	701	897	24,371
1881,	10,145	6,490	2,357	589	824	20,405

Colleges.

The 15 Colleges, already alluded to, are Trinity College, Dublin, the three Queen's Colleges (Belfast, Cork, and Galway), the University College (Stephen's Green, Dublin), St. Patrick's (Maynooth), All Hallows (Drumcondra), Holycross (Clonliffe), the University College (Blackrock), St. Patrick's (Carlow), St. Kieran's (Kilkenny), St. Stanislaus' (Tallamore), St. Patrick's (Thurles), the General Assembly's College (Belfast), and the Magee College (Londonderry). We may here remark that we issued a special form (L 4) for Universities and Colleges, so as to embrace all students in attendance during any portion of the period from October, 1890, to July, 1891, the numbers for 1881 and 1871 being also for the session; this form contained columns for the students under the several Faculties of Arts, Divinity, Law, Medicine, and Engineering.

From the statistics furnished to us the number of students upon the books of Trinity College in 1891 was 1,162, compared with 1,338 in 1881 and 991 in 1871.

The religious professions of the students were given as follows:—

	Roman Catholics.	Protestant Episcopals.	Presbyterians.	Methodists.	All other Denominations.	Total.
1891, . . .	76	903	90	44	59	1,162
1881, . . .	115	1,043	89	31	49	1,338
1871, . . .	74	816		101		991

Of the 1,162 students in 1891, all were returned under the Faculty of Arts, 137 Divinity, 107 Law, 153 Medicine, and 40 Engineering, and of the 1,338 students in 1881, 1,389 were returned under the Faculty of Arts, 72 Divinity, 63 Law, 294 Medicine, and 20 Engineering.

In the three Queen's Colleges the aggregate attendance of students was 802, compared with 1,043 in 1881, and 742 in 1871, viz. :—

	Belfast.	Cork.	Galweg.
1891, . . .	450	245	107
1881, . . .	508	327	208
1871, . . .	377	241	124

Eight of the students in Cork in 1891 were females.

The students arranged according to their religious professions were as follows:—

	Roman Catholics.	Protestant Episcopals.	Presbyterians.	Methodists.	All other Denominations.	Total.
1891, . . .	317	140	263	41	42	802
1881, . . .	387	237	400	43	56	1,043
1871, . . .	143	249		330		742

Classified by Faculties, 294 in 1891, and 289 in 1881, were students in Arts; 44 in 1891, and 33 in 1881, in Law; 446 in 1891, and 704 in 1881, in Medicine; and 49 in 1891, and 44 in 1881, in Engineering. It will be observed that while the students in the other Faculties show little variation between the decades the number of Medical Students had fallen from 704 to 446.

The University College, Stephen's Green, Dublin, had 192 students in 1891, and 210 in 1881; of the 192 in 1891 all except 7 were Roman Catholics, and 130 were students in Arts, 58 in Medicine, and 3 in Engineering.

The Royal College of St. Patrick, Maynooth, returned 498 students in 1891, 466 in 1881, and 475 in 1871, all Roman Catholics; 281 in 1891, as against 248 in 1881, being returned under the Faculty of Divinity.

The seven Roman Catholic Colleges of All Hallows, Blackrock, Clonliffe, Carlow, Kilkenny, Tullamore, and Thurles, had an aggregate roll of 682 students, all Roman Catholics. Of these 144 were returned under the Faculty of Arts, and 230 Divinity. In the case of Tullamore (St. Stanislaus) owing to the removal of the younger students to Clongowes Wood College, Clane, the number has fallen from 162 in 1881 to 27 in 1891.

The General Assembly's College in Belfast is an exclusively Presbyterian Institution, and contained 65 Divinity students in 1891, and 54 in 1881. The Magee College, Londonderry, had in 1891 a roll of 97 (including 16 females), as against 48 in 1881, 68 were students in Arts in 1891 and 37 in 1881, while 34 were Divinity students in 1891 and 16 in 1881.

Of the above, University College, Stephen's Green, University College, Blackrock, St. Patrick's, Maynooth, Holyrossa, Clonliffe, and St. Patrick's, Carlow, are Colleges of the Catholic University of Ireland.

We have omitted, as above stated, Rockwell College, Caher, with 94 students, and the Methodist College, Belfast, with 376 students, owing to the fact that none of the students were returned to us under the Faculties on the present occasion, though a few were in 1881.

It may here be added that the Governing Body of the Royal University of Ireland, which held its first Matriculation Examination in December, 1881, was not asked for a return of its students owing to the fact that, with the exception of those engaged in private study, they would necessarily be included in the returns furnished to us by the various Collegiate institutions throughout the country.

In analysing our second class of Superior Establishments, we find 26 Ecclesiastical or Diocesan schools under Roman Catholic government, compared with 31 in 1881, and 19 in 1871. In these, the students (all males) numbered 1,537 in 1891, 1,935 in 1881, and 1,335 in 1871.

Of schools and colleges under Religious Orders of Men, such as Jesuits, Dominicans, Vincentians, Augustinians, Carmelites, Marists, Oblates, Fathers of the Holy Ghost, &c., there were 26 with 2,176 pupils, compared with 28 and 1896 pupils in 1881, and 24 with 1,916 pupils in 1871. In these establishments we found a few students returned under the Faculties of both Arts and Divinity—such, for instance, as St. Patrick's, Tullow; Milltown Park; St. Augustine's, Orlagh; St. Paul's, Mount Argus; Mount Carmel, Terenure; St. Joseph's, Clondalkin; St. Mary's of the Rosary, Tallaght; and Clongowes Wood College, Clane.

Of Monastic and Convent schools, only 5 of which are essentially male schools, there were 92 in 1891, with 5,731 pupils (578 males and 5,153 females), all Roman Catholics with the exception of 50. In 1881 there were 90 schools, with 4,779 pupils (485 males and 4,294 females), all Roman Catholics, with the exception of 17. In 1871 these schools numbered 75, with an attendance of 4,208 pupils (111 males and 4,097 females), and also including 17 persons who were not Roman Catholics.

We now pass on to the consideration of those Intermediate Schools that may be said to be almost exclusively Protestant in their government, and, of these, Endowed Schools are the most important. Under this heading we have included Royal and Diocesan schools, schools upon the foundation of Erasmus Smith, and such like.

There were 69 superior establishments of this class in 1871, with an attendance of 2,617 pupils (2,414 males and 203 females); of whom 1,869 were Protestant Episcopalians, 540 "Presbyterians and All Others," and 108 Roman Catholics. In 1881 we find that the number of schools had fallen to 67, while the pupils increased to 3,501 (2,873 males and 628 females). Of these 2,304 were Protestant Episcopalians; 560 Presbyterians; 122 Roman Catholics; 101 Methodists; and 414 members of "All other Denominations"; while in 1891 the schools had fallen to 52, and the pupils to 3,149, (2,396 males and 753 females). Of these 2,224 were Protestant Episcopalians; 425 schools.

Private Establishments in 1871 numbered 371, with 10,383 pupils—4,275 Protestant Episcopalians, 3,270 Roman Catholics, and 2,838 "Presbyterians and All Others." In 1881 the number of schools, like the primary schools of the same class, decreased to 249, while the attendance fell to 7,194 pupils—3,564 Protestant Episcopalians, 1,685 Presbyterians, 1,261 Roman Catholics, 360 Methodists, and 324 members of "All other Denominations." In 1891 these schools numbered 226 only, and the pupils 6,812—3,265 Protestant Episcopalians, 1,964 Presbyterians, 841 Roman Catholics, 365 Methodists, and 377 of "All other Denominations."

The Methodist College, Belfast, referred to on page 66, had an attendance of 112 Protestant Episcopalians, 125 Presbyterians, 119 Methodists, and 20 of "All other Denominations"—total 376 (including 88 females). The number of students in 1881 was 293 (including 97 females), of whom 64 were Protestant Episcopalians, 109 Presbyterians, 107 Methodists, and 8 of "All other Denominations."

In our list of superior schools we have five training establishments,* four connected with the Board of National Education, and 1 belonging to the Christian Brothers, with 495 students (171 males and 324 females), 270 of whom were Roman Catholics, 41 Protestant Episcopalians, 74 Presbyterians, 8 Methodists, and 2 members of "All other Denominations."

Training establishments.

In addition to the foregoing, which are all situated in the City or County of Dublin, there is the "De La Salle Training College" in the City of Waterford with 40 male students, all Roman Catholics.

We may here notice that a few schools which are ordinarily found administering primary instruction have, by our Census test, been classed as superior—thus we have two National schools with 145 pupils, also 3 Church Education Society schools with 84 pupils.

The remaining establishments affording superior instruction, including the 27 Christian Brothers' schools with 2,837 pupils referred to at page 63, numbered 41 with an aggregate attendance of 3,726 pupils (3,165 Roman Catholics, 269 Protestant Episcopalians, 93 Presbyterians, 88 Methodists, and 111 members of "All Other Denominations").

In classifying the schools we may repeat that we followed the rule laid down by our predecessors since 1841, that schools in which the instruction was exclusively English were to be considered as "Primary," and that those establishments in which a foreign language was taught were to be classed as "Superior." In the latter class we did not include essentially primary schools in which a few scholars were learning languages, but only those in which these subjects of study entered appreciably (say as regards 20 to 25 per cent. of the number of pupils) into the school course.

To obtain a return, however, of all those pupils and students who were engaged in the higher studies, whether in superior or in primary schools, we have prepared statistics according to religious professions by Counties and Provinces on this important subject (Tables 147 and 152), and in addition to the information given in the General Report for 1871, we considered it desirable to obtain on our school returns, as in 1881, the number of students throughout Ireland engaged in the study of Celtic.

The highest course of instruction dealt with by us, in other words our most advanced class, namely that which combines the studies of Latin, Greek, Modern Languages, and Mathematics, is limited almost exclusively to males. It comprises 2,880 individuals—2,867 males and 13 females—and contrasts as follows with the numbers following a similar course of study in the two previous decades.

The second class includes three groups. The first in point of numbers combines Latin, Modern Languages, and Mathematics. Our returns under this head show that 3,834 males and 844 females were engaged in the study of these subjects in 1891 compared with 1,488 males and 259 females in 1881, and 807 males and 26 females in 1871; of whom there were in—

Next follows that in which Latin and Greek are found combined with Mathematics. It includes only 416 persons (414 males and 2 females) in 1891, compared with 979 persons (958 males and 11 females) in 1881, and 2,051 males and 2 females) in 1871; of the 416 persons in 1891, 154 were Roman Catholics, 159 Protestant Episcopalians, 61 Presbyterians, 19 Methodists and 23 members of "All other Denominations." The third group includes Latin, Greek, and one or more modern languages. It comprised 283 persons (265 males and 18 females) in 1891, against 223 (216 males and 6 females) in 1881, and 430 (423 males and 7 females) in 1871. In 1891 Roman Catholics numbered 241, Protestant Episcopalians 30, Presbyterians 7, Methodists 3, and "All other Denominations" 2.

The next class includes four groups. In the first, in which Latin is associated with Greek, there were only 136 students (117 males and 19 females) in 1891, while in 1881 there were 227 (161 males and 66 females), and in 1871, 444 (418 males and 26 females). Of the students in 1891, 77 were Roman Catholics, 25 Protestant Episcopalians, 21 Presbyterians, 10 Methodists, and 3 members of "All other Denominations." In the second group, which represents the union of Latin with some modern language, 874 are included, in 1891, a number considerably over those for the two previous decades—782 in 1881 and 773 in 1871. It is interesting, however, to observe the variation as regards the sexes:—

	Males	Females
1891,	473	401
1881,	519	264
1871,	637	138

In 1891, 366 of these were Roman Catholics; 311 Protestant Episcopalians; 142 Presbyterians; 25 Methodists, and 30 members of "All other Denominations." The third group, which represents the combination of Latin and Mathematics, comprised 905 pupils, of whom 835 were males and 70 females; of these there were of Roman Catholics, 249; Protestant Episcopalians, 334; Presbyterians, 207; Methodists, 60, and of "All other Denominations," 55. The fourth and last group, modern languages and mathematics, shows a very decided advance, more particularly in the decade from 1881 to 1891.

		Roman Catholics.	Protestant Episcopalians.	Presby- terians.	Method- ists.	All other Denominations.	Total.
1891	{ Males, . . .	3,360	273	137	30	53	3,853

	{ Females, . . .	241	120	82			463

In the last class there are but two groups. In the first of these, Latin is the only study (exclusive of English branches), and in the second, one or more modern languages. The first division affords a return of 325 persons (276 males and 49 females) in 1891, compared with 523 (458 males and 64 females) in 1881, and 568 (492 males and 76 females) in 1871. In 1891, 123 of these were Roman Catholics, 110 Protestant Episcopalians, 54 Presbyterians, 15 Methodists, and 14 members of "All other Denominations."

In the second group we find enumerated 946 males and 6,865 females in 1891, compared with 751 males and 6,514 females in 1881, and 759 males and 5,362 females in 1871. The Roman Catholics in 1891 numbered 5,384; Protestant Episcopalians, 1,498; Presbyterians, 608; Methodists, 170; and "All other Denominations," 151.

GENERAL

Taking the ten groups as a whole, we find that the number of pupils and students engaged in the higher studies shows a very satisfactory increase, notwithstanding the large diminution in the population.

Distributed amongst the various religious bodies, the numbers compare as follows:—

	ROM.		PROT.		OTH.
	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.
Roman Catholics, . .	8,835	5,707	5,614	4,660	5,177	3,663

Total,	13,880	9,604	10,662	7,995	10,814	6,117

It may be added that the great majority of the students in the faculties referred to at page 66 were returned in 1891 as in 1881 under the heading of a faculty only, and not as engaged in the study of Greek, Latin, Modern Languages, or Mathematics, consequently they are omitted from the above numbers for these years, though from the nature of the returns obtained they were included in the figures for 1871.

We now beg to refer to Table 152, page 522, which has been compiled from Table 147, and shows according to religious professions by provinces, the total number of pupils learning each of the four subjects—Latin, Greek, Modern Languages, and Mathematics—apart from the question whether it was learned singly or in combination with any other. In the case of mathematics, those pupils only who were returned as studying it in combination with one or more of the first mentioned three subjects, are included. The number who were learning Celtic is also given.

It appears from this Table that 10,497 pupils, of whom 1,416 were females, were under instruction in Latin during the week ended the 30th day of May, 1891; that 3,715 (including 52 females) were learning Greek; that 21,702 (12,238 males and 9,464 females) were acquiring a knowledge of one or more modern languages; that 14,055 (including 2,252 females) were studying mathematics in connexion with one or more of the foregoing subjects; and that 1,436 (including 314 females) were learning Celtic.

Comparing these numbers with those of 1881 and 1871 the decline or progress of each of these studies is shown.

	Latin.		Greek.		Modern Languages.		Mathematics.		Celtic.
	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.
1891,	9,081	1,416	3,663	52	12,238	9,464	11,803	2,252	1,122	314
1881,	8,598	770	3,148	122	8,090	7,392	8,557	1,062	1,039	276
1871,	9,148	292	6,570	35	7,311	5,994	8,065	510	—	—

The most remarkable feature exhibited in these figures as regards males is the large fall in the number of pupils engaged in the study of Greek, namely from 6,570 in 1871 to 3,148 in 1881 and to 3,663 in 1891, while on the other hand there is a very large increase in the number of male pupils learning Modern Languages and Mathematics. As to females a further very decided advance has taken place in 1891 in the numbers learning Latin, Modern Languages, and Mathematics.

Of the 1,436 persons learning Celtic, Munster furnishes the highest number, 614 males and 191 females; Leinster comes next with 332 males and 5 females; Connaught follows with 109 males and 98 females, and Ulster with 67 males and 20 females—

GENERAL REPORT. 1,429 of the students of Celtic were Roman Catholics; 3 were Protestant Episcopalians; 2 were Presbyterians, and 2 were Methodists.

Attendance at school, year ended 31st March, 1861, 1871, 1881, and 1891.

Following the precedents of 1861, 1871, and 1881, we obtained returns of the total number of attendances of each scholar during the year ended the 31st March, 1891, and though many establishments were as on previous occasions unable, and a few unwilling, to furnish the necessary particulars, our returns afford a valuable means of comparison as regards school attendance.

Table 149, page 516, gives the attendance of scholars in 1891, 1881, 1871, and 1861, within certain limits of days by provinces and counties, together with the proportion per cent. in each province and in the total of Ireland.

We have also illustrated this subject by a Diagram (No. 8).

The general attendance in 1891, as compared with 1881, it will be observed, shows a decrease of 46,948 or a little over 4 per cent., owing largely it is presumed to the great decrease in the number of children, referred to at page 18. Each of the provinces shares in this decrease except Leinster. In Leinster there was an increase of 1,397, or '6 per cent., in Munster a decrease of 17,462, or 5·9 per cent., in Ulster a decrease of 25,794, or 6·7 per cent., and in Connaught a decrease of 5,149, or 2·8 per cent.

The attendance has been divided into the following ten periods:—Under 5 days; 5 and under 20; 20 and under 40; 40 and under 60; 60 and under 80; 80 and under 100; 100 and under 150; 150 and under 200; 200 and under 300; and lastly, 300 days and upwards.

It is very satisfactory to find that though the total number of scholars in attendance during the year ended 31st March, 1891, was less than in 1881, there has been an increased attendance in two of the higher periods, those, namely, from 100 to 150 days, and from 150 to 200 days. In fact since 1861 there has been a gradual increase in these two groups—the former in 1861 embraced 18·8 per cent. of the scholars in attendance, in 1871, 20·0 per cent., in 1881, 24·4 per cent., and in 1891, 27·3 per cent. The number in the latter group in 1861 amounted to 13·8 per cent., in 1871 to 14·7 per cent., in 1881 to 18·5 per cent., and in 1891 it was as high as 24·2. Combining the two groups there has been an advance in the 30 years from 32·6 to 51·4 per cent.

The numbers for all Ireland taken in two groups are as follows:—

	No in 1861	No in 1891	Per-centage in 1861	Per-centage in 1891
Under 80 days, . . .	368,763	458,070	35·1	41·6
80 days and upwards, . . .	683,396	642,038	64·9	58·4

A similar feature is observable in each of the four provinces by a comparison of the per-centage in 1861 and 1891:—

	Under 80 days		80 days and upwards
	1861	1891	1861	1891
Leinster,	36·1	43·8	63·9	57·3
Munster,	29·1	35·6	70·9	64·4
Ulster,	39·2	44·0	60·8	56·0
Connaught,	34·9	44·9	65·1	55·1

Table 150, page 521, taken from the detailed Table 148, page 500, gives a comparative view of the number and per-centage of pupils in attendance at school during the years ended March the 31st, 1861, 1871, 1881, and 1891, respectively, in five groups of schools, and in the ten periods of days.

Compared with 1881, the schools under the National Board show a decreased attendance, the number of pupils on the school rolls now being 988,766. In 1881 there were 1,020,082, in 1871, 862,141, and in 1861, 638,282 pupils in these schools.

The individual attendance, however, has improved remarkably, as shown in the following statement:—

GENERAL

Under 100 days,	61.1	69.7	81.1	92.8
100 days and upwards,	38.9	30.3	18.9	7.2

The group of schools from which the next largest number of attendances was furnished to us is that of the Christian Brothers and other Roman Catholic communities. We find that in 1861, the number of pupils returned was 12,258; in 1871 the number returned was 25,272; in 1881 it was 23,914, whereas in 1891 the number has increased to 32,967. The individual attendances are as follows:—

	Percentage in 1861.	1871.	1881.	1891.
Under 100 days,	52.6	44.2	35.7	28.7
100 days and upwards,	47.4	55.8	64.3	71.3

In 1861 the pupils in the schools under the Church Education Society numbered 73,849; in 1871 they fell to 50,615; in 1881 they only numbered 24,178, and in 1891, 12,401. The rapid decline in the number of Church Education Society Schools has already been dealt with at page 63.

The pupils in schools under "Other Societies or Boards," who in 1861 numbered 33,971, fell in 1871 to 36,763, in 1881 to 32,512, are now as low as 10,476.

It is in private schools, however, that the most marked change has taken place during the last thirty years, there having been 42,114 pupils in 1861, 20,019 in 1871, 9,422 in 1881, and 8,556 in 1891.

Dealing with the ages of the pupils and their proportion to the total population at the same age-periods, we find from Table 151, page 521, that in 1871, 17.3 per cent. of persons under 7 years of age were attending school, in 1881, 22.0, and in 1891, 29.2 per cent. In the second period also—7 to 16 years—which may be termed the chief school period, rapid progress has been made. In 1871 the per-centage was 41.1, in 1881, 45.0, and in 1891, 51.3. In the period "16 and upwards" the per-centage, which in 1871 stood at 5, was in 1881 7, and in 1891 6.

Pupils.

Profiting by the experience of 1871 and 1881, we took care to reduce the number of unspecified ages to the lowest possible limit. In 1871 the ages of 5,318 pupils, or .8 per cent. of the entire number, were not given in the school returns; whereas in 1881 by further inquiry where necessary, the number was reduced to 745, or .1 per cent., and in 1891 to 826 or .1 per cent.

Table 154, page 524, shows, in single years, from 5 to 15 inclusive, the population, the number attending school, and the number and proportion per cent. of those not attending school during the Census school week in 1851, 1861, 1871, 1881, and 1891, respectively, from which it appears that 75 per cent. of the children aged 5 and under 16 years were not in attendance at school in 1851; 70 per cent. in 1861; 58 per cent. in 1871; 53 per cent. in 1881; and 46 per cent. in 1891. It is thus shown that in 1891 the average attendance was 54 per cent. of the population from 5 to 15 years inclusive—it appears, however that at 5 years the per-centage was 63; at 6 years 72; at 7, 8, and 9 years, 74, at 10 and 11 years 65; at 12 years 45; at 13 years 38; at 14 years 21; and at 15 years 18 per cent. only.

The following statement shows, by provinces, the number and proportion per cent. not attending school, and of the illiterate, aged 5 and under 16 years, in 1881 and in 1891:—

Districts.

Table 145 gives a return by Counties and Provinces of the number of pupils and students by sexes in attendance during the week ending the 30th of May, 1891, at institutions situated in (a) Rural Districts, and (b) Civic Districts. The latter are comprised of towns of 2,000 inhabitants and upwards. During the last 10 years the population of the following towns has fallen below 2,000, and they have consequently ceased to be classed as Civic Districts: Bagenalstown, Ballinrobe, Collan, Carrickmacross, and Roscommon.

It will be seen, however, from the accompanying general statement that though the numbers in the rural districts are almost identical in 1881 and 1891, there has been a decided advance in the school attendance both in primary and superior establishments in the civic districts :—

		1871	1881	1871	1881
Rural Districts,	{ Primary Schools,	497,353	498,483
	{ Superior " "	3,445	5,438
Civic Districts,	{ Primary " "	177,783	184,591
	{ Superior " "	19,248	22,331
Total, . . .		692,329	712,843

It should be added that this increase is largely attributable to the progress in the city of Belfast, where the number of scholars has increased from 23,557 in 1881 to 38,965 in 1891.

School attendance, fortnight
May, 1891.

At the request of the Resident Commissioner of the Board of National Education, we obtained in our school returns the number not only of pupils in attendance during any day or days of the week ended May the 30th, 1891, but of those in attendance during any day or days of the fortnight ended the 30th of May; and in conformity with his wishes we have prepared a table (No. 153, pages 52-3) showing by Provinces and Counties the attendance at the different kinds of National Schools, and at schools not connected with the National Board of Education; at National Training Schools, and at similar institutions referred to us as Training Schools, but not aided, as far as we are aware, by public grants; and lastly at the Colleges, the names of which are given in detail on page 66.

From this Table it appears that the total attendance of pupils and students, for the fortnight above referred to, was 772,064 (389,890 males and 382,174 females), of whom 692,702 (337,714 males, and 354,988 females), were at the various classes of schools connected with the National Board, being equal to a per-centage of 89.7 of the whole.

Compared with 1881 the following are the general results :—

	Ordinary Schools		Training Schools		Colleges.	Total
	National	Other than National	National	Other than National
1891, . . .	692,100	75,637	602	109	3,816	772,064

XI—IRISH SPEAKING POPULATION.

From Table 155 it will be seen that, in 1881, 64,167 persons were returned as speaking Irish only, and that in 1891 the number so returned was 38,121, or 26,046 less than in 1881; also that in 1881 the number of persons returned as able to speak "Irish and English" was 885,765, and that in 1891 it was 642,653, or 243,712 less than in 1881.

Persons

"Irish only," and both Irish and English.

The Table shows that the decreases referred to extended to each of the provinces, thus, the number returned as speaking "Irish only" fell in Leinster, from 50 in 1881, to 8 in 1891; in Munster, from 18,422 to 9,050; in Ulster, from 12,860 to 7,053; and in Connaught, from 33,335 to 22,071; and the number returned as being able to speak "Irish and English," fell in Leinster from 27,402 in 1881, to 13,669 in 1891; in Munster, from 427,344 to 238,573; in Ulster, from 98,163 to 77,099; and in Connaught, from 232,856 to 253,712.

The following statement shows the counties in which over 20 per cent. of the population in 1891 were returned as able to speak the Irish language, the counties being arranged according to the largest per-centage:—

Total persons who could speak "Irish."

From the foregoing statement it will be seen that in eight of the thirty-two counties over 20 per cent. of the population in 1891, could speak the Irish language; four of these counties are situate in Munster, three in Connaught, and one in Ulster.

The highest county per-centage of persons who could speak Irish in the Province of Leinster is that for the county of Kilkenny—4.5 per cent. of the population. There are 10 counties in this Province in which not 1 per cent. of the people could speak Irish, viz.:—Carlow, Dublin, Kildare, King's, Longford, Louth, Queen's, Westmeath, Wexford, and Wicklow.

In the Province of Munster there are two counties in which the proportion of the population who could speak Irish was under 20 per cent., viz.:—Limerick and Tipperary, in the former of which the per-centage was 10.7, and in the latter 7.1.

With the exception of Donegal, there is not any county in Ulster which had, in 1891, 20 per cent. of its population able to speak Irish—the nearest approaches being the counties of Tyrone, Monaghan, and Cavan, in which the per-centages were respectively 3.9, 3.3, and 3.6. In neither Antrim, Down, nor Fermanagh, could 1 per cent. of the population speak Irish.

There were two counties in the Province of Connaught in which not 20 per cent. of the population could speak Irish, viz.:—Leitrim and Roscommon, in which the per-centages were 7.2 and 13.0 respectively.

XII.—EMIGRATION.

Tables regarding emigration during the past decade have been compiled from Returns presented to Parliament by the Registrar-General. (Tables 58, 157, and 158.)

According to these Returns the number of Irish who left the country, during the ten years ended 31st March, 1891, with the intention of permanently settling elsewhere, amounted to 768,105—393,744 males and 374,361 females. During the previous decade the number was 629,130 (346,869 males and 282,261 females) and the total number for the forty years from 1st May, 1851 (when the collection of these Returns was commenced) to the 31st March, 1891, was 3,415,400—1,806,256 males and 1,609,144 females.

The following statement shows, by ages, the number of Irish emigrants during the ten calendar years 1881–90.

Age of Emigrants.

45 years and upwards,	33,928	4.4
Ages unspecified,	1,607	.1
Total,	779,706	100.

From the foregoing it will be observed that 61.3 per cent. of the emigrants were between the ages of 20 and 45; the number at this age period amounting to 472,673,

GENERAL
REPORT.

OUT of a total of 770,706; 188,536 or 24·5 per cent., were between 10 and 20 years; 74,532, or 9·7 per cent., were children under 10 years of age; 33,928, or 4·4 per cent., were persons over 45 years old; and in 1,037 instances, or 0·1 per cent., the ages of the emigrants were not ascertained.

(Emigrants

Province.
Table 158).

Table 158 shows the number of emigrants from each county in Ireland from the 1st of April, 1871, to the 31st March, 1891. The number of emigrants during those twenty years was equal to an average annual rate of 13·7 per 1,000 of the mean population; the rate for the Province of Leinster being 9·9; Munster, 16·8; Ulster, 13·3; and Connaught 15·0 per 1,000.

The following statement shows the counties arranged according to the highest average annual rate of emigration per 1,000 of the population during the twenty years ended 31st March, 1891:—

County.	Province.	Average Annual Rate.	County.	Province.	Average Annual Rate.
1. Kerry,	Munster,	20·0	17. Waterford,	Munster,	14·5
2. Longford,	Leinster,	19·7	18. Roscommon,	Connaught,	14·4
3. Leitrim,	Connaught,	19·2	19. Mayo,	"	14·3
4. Clare,	Munster,	18·7	20. Monaghan,	Ulster,	13·3
5. Sligo,	Connaught,	16·4	21. Meath,	Leinster,	12·7
6. Cork,	Munster,	16·4	22. Antrim,	Ulster,	12·7
7. Cavan,	Ulster,	16·2	23. Armagh,	"	12·5
8. Galway,	Connaught,	15·2	24. Fermanagh,	"	12·4
9. Queen's,	Leinster,	15·7	25. Westmeath,	Leinster,	11·9
10. Limerick,	Munster,	15·6	26. Kilkenny,	"	11·4
11. Londonderry,	Ulster,	15·4	27. Wexford,	"	10·3
12. Tipperary,	Munster,	15·2	28. Down,	Ulster,	9·9
13. Tyrone,	Ulster,	15·1	29. Kildare,	Leinster,	9·3
14. King's,	Leinster,	14·9	30. Louth,	"	8·3
15. Donegal,	Ulster,	14·7	31. Wicklow,	"	7·7
16. Carlow,	Leinster,	14·6	32. Dublin,	"	5·4

From the above it will be observed that in three of the six counties constituting the province of Munster, and two of the five counties in Connaught, and one county in Leinster, the rate exceeded 16 per 1,000; that the counties of Kerry, Longford, and Leitrim had the highest rates (20·3, 19·7, and 19·2, respectively), and the counties of Dublin, Wicklow, and Louth, the lowest, 5·4, 7·7, and 8·3 respectively.

Destination
igrants.

Since the year 1876, Tables showing the destinations of the emigrants have been included in the Emigration Statistics of Ireland, from which we learn that of 770,706 emigrants during the ten years 1881-90, 699,920, or 90·8 per cent., went to the colonies or foreign countries, and 70,786, or 9·2 per cent., to Great Britain. Of the former number 613,508, or 79·6 per cent. of the total emigrants from Ireland, went to the United States of America; 39,786, or 5·2 per cent., to Canada; 38,930, or 5·0 per cent., to Australia; 4,599, or 0·6 per cent., to New Zealand; and 3,097, or 0·4 per cent. to other countries; and of those who left for Great Britain, 43,341, or 5·6 per cent., of all the emigrants, went to England or Wales, and 27,445, or 3·6 per cent., to Scotland.

XIII.—MISCELLANEOUS TABLES.

Marriages,
Births, and Deaths.

Table 12, on page 110, shows by Provinces, the marriages, births, and deaths, registered in Ireland during the ten years ended 31st March, 1891, as compiled from the Registrar-General's Reports. The average annual marriage rate in Ireland for the decade was only 4·3 per 1,000 of the population, which is much under the corresponding rates for the other parts of the United Kingdom. The returns of marriages are probably somewhat defective, but that they are not so to the extent which might at first sight be inferred, is evident from our statistics of the conjugal condition of the people, which, it may be recollected, demonstrate that at the date of the last Census the number of married persons in Ireland was very small when compared with the population of the country. The births registered in the ten years numbered 1,147,321, and the deaths 879,412, leaving 267,909 as the natural increase of the population. This number, added to the population in 1881, would, if there were no set off, give 5,442,745 as the estimated population at the date of the last Census irrespective of immigration, of which we have no record, but which, however, was not extensive. But from the statistics of emigration, which we have glanced at above, we ascertain that the loss by this outflow during the decennium amounted to 768,105, and, deducting this number from 5,442,745, we have 4,674,640 as the estimated population for 1881. The actual population was found to be 4,704,750 or 30,110 over the number arrived at by the process we have set forth. The discrepancy is, after all, very slight, and the Registration and Emigration Statistics would appear to form reliable data for estimating approximately the fluctuations in the population of Ireland in the intervals between each systematic enumeration of the people.

In Table 159, pages 530-533, we have given a synopsis of the results of our inquiry as regards area, population, number and classes of houses, families, occupations, religious professions, and education by Provinces, counties, and cities in 1891. These subjects having been already treated of under their respective heads, no further observations regarding them are here necessary, but as, following the precedent of 1871 and 1881, we have also given in this Table the number of heads of families and their children, together with the number of visitors and servants residing with them on the Census night, a few remarks respecting the figures returned under these heads may be desirable.

Of the 4,704,750 persons who were enumerated on the Night of the Census, 3,965,570 were tabulated under the heading "Heads of Families and their Children," 522,043 as "Visitors," and 217,137 as "Servants." In 1881 the corresponding numbers were 4,130,096; 794,072; and 250,668, and in 1871, 4,307,101; 816,365 and 288,911. In 1891 a much larger decrease in the number of Visitors would appear to have taken place than the diminution in the population would warrant, but this is due to the elimination from the column "Visitors" of a large number of persons whom we considered would be more accurately tabulated under the heading "Heads of Families and their Children" as, for instance, a man and his wife and children living with his or her father or mother, the grandparent being described as "Head of Family." We concluded it would be inexpedient to class the man or his wife under one head and their children under another. We also included all members of religious communities under the same heading, "Heads of Families and their Children," but, as in 1881 and 1871, inmates of Public and Charitable Institutions are entered as "Visitors."

In Table 160, page 534, we have shown by Provinces and counties, the area in statute acres, the number of county and borough Parliamentary divisions, baronies, municipal boroughs, sessional districts, police districts, boroughs, and towns under local government, and towns with 2,000 inhabitants and upwards but not under local government, parishes, and townlands in Ireland.

Marriages,
Births, and Deaths.

There were 100 county and borough Parliamentary divisions, exclusive of the University of Dublin, returning 101 members, 11 boroughs under the control of Mayors and Municipal Councils, 95 Quarter Sessions districts, 606 Petty Sessions districts, 204 Constabulary districts, 105 towns with improvement, paving and lighting Commissions; 13 towns containing more than 2,000 inhabitants not under local government, 2,428 civil parishes, and 60,576 townlands in Ireland on the Census night. The population is shown separately in our tables for each of these divisions, together with those mentioned in the following Table (No. 161, page 535), with the exception of the Quarter Sessions and Constabulary districts; and we may mention that the number of townlands quoted is exclusive of a large number of islands which are also shown separately in Table 7 of our County Books.

Table 161 shows the area for Ireland, the number of counties, Superintendent Registrars', and Registrars' districts, Census enumeration districts, Poor Law Unions, Dispensary districts, and Electoral divisions in Ireland; together with the number of places for which the population is separately returned—the latter amounting to over 70,500, exclusive of small islands.

With reference to the constitution of the Superintendent Registrars' and Registrars' districts, Poor Law Unions and Dispensary districts, we beg to refer to the explanatory note attached to the Table last referred to, and to page 7 of this report.

XIV.—MAPS AND DIAGRAMS.

GENERAL REPORT.Maps and Diagrams.

In illustration of this Report we have appended four Maps and nine Diagrams.

The first three Maps show respectively, by various shades of colouring, the density of population, the state of education, and the quality of house accommodation in the several Counties of Ireland—thus presenting at a glance the position in these respects in which each County stands relatively to the others.

During the progress of the "Purchase of Land and Congested Districts (Ireland) Bill, 1891," through Parliament, and for the administration of the Congested District Clauses of that measure after it became law, the Irish Government required information with the view of ascertaining the areas to which the clauses of the Act applied.

The Registrar-General reported that, in his opinion, the most effectual standard to apply was that which showed the ratio between the Rateable Valuation and Population.

In accordance with this view Tables and Maps were constructed by Counties, Poor Law Unions, and Poor Law Electoral Divisions (for administrative purposes), showing the ratio of Valuation in 1889 to the Population according to the Census of 1881.

Of the Maps that which most clearly and generally demonstrated the difference between poor and wealthy districts was found to be the Map for Poor Law Unions.

We have, therefore, decided to include amongst these Plates and Diagrams, in addition to those published on the last occasion, a Valuation Map by Poor Law Unions based on the data for 1891. A comparison between this Map (Plate IV.) and the Land Census Tables, pages 170 to 319, will enable those specially interested in the subject to form a very fair estimate of the relative economic conditions of the various parts of the country.

Owing to the decrease in the population in 1891, the average valuation per head is £2 19s. 8d. as against £2 14s. on the 1881 population. Taking the former for convenience at £3 we have given 4 shades above, and 4 below the average with the following results:—

		Rateable Valuation per head of Population				No. of Poor Law Unions.
		" 2.—£4 10s.	0s.	and under	£5	5s.	0d.	.	12
		" 3.—£3 15s.	0d.	"	£4 10s.	0d.	.	.	20
		" 4.—£3 0s.	0d.	"	£3 15s.	0d.	.	.	38
Below the average.	{	Shade 5.—£2 5s.	0d.	"	£3	0s.	0d.	.	88
		" 6.—£1 10s.	0d.	"	£2 5s.	0d.	.	.	29
		" 7.—£0 15s.	0d.	"	£1 10s.	0d.	.	.	13
		" 8.—Under 15 shillings.	3

In the Map referred to as prepared for the Government during the passage of the Land Purchase Bill, the average valuation per head, according to the population of 1881, being £2 14s., the scale adopted was from shade 8 "under 13s. 4d." by gradations of two-thirds of a £1 to shade 1, "at and above £4 15s. 4d.," but for all practical purposes both Maps represent the same relative circumstances.

The Table which accompanies the present Map gives the Valuation, the Population, and the Average Valuation per head in 1891 for each of the Poor Law Unions arranged alphabetically.

The Diagrams exhibit graphically, by Counties and Provinces, the actual number of acres and the proportion of the acreage under pasture, tillage, &c.; the proportion per cent. of the inhabited houses in each class; the proportion of each religious profession; the proportion of the illiterate five years old and upwards in each religious body; the proportion of the population five years old and upwards who could read and write, read only, and neither read nor write; the proportion per cent. of persons between 5 and 16 years of age attending school and not attending school during the week ending the 30th of May, 1891; the per-centage of pupils attending school during certain specified periods of days in the year ended 31st March, 1891; the proportion per 10,000 of the population of lunatics and idiots, the sick at their own homes, the totally blind, and the deaf and dumb.

Diagrams dealing with all these subjects were also appended to the Report of the Commissioners for 1881. A scale is attached to each section of the diagram, so that not only do the sections collectively present to the eye the relative proportions of the various elements in any given County or Province, but they enable the exact proportion in each to be measured by a glance at the scale.

CONCLUSION.

Part I. of the Census of 1881 consisted of books for each County and Province. Similar books have been published on the present occasion, forming Part I. of the Census of 1891. Census Publications.

The General Report forms Part II., corresponding with Part II. of the 1881 Census. We have not thought it necessary to republish the Topographical Index to townlands, parishes, &c., issued in connexion with the Census of 1871; but following the course adopted in 1881, have prepared a Supplement to that Book containing a record of the alterations which have taken place in the various divisions up to the 5th April, 1891. Annexed to our Provincial Summaries will be found Alphabetical Indexes to the several territorial divisions.

The variety and magnitude of the work may be perceived from the fact that statistics are given for over 70,500 separate places or areas, exclusive of small islands. Our publications comprise over 4,700 pages of Tables and letter-press, treating of Area, Houses (and Out-offices), Population, Valuation, Conjugal Condition, Ages, Occupation, Social Condition, Birthplaces, Foreigners, Religious Profession, Education, Schools, Agricultural Statistics, Agricultural Holdings in relation to Population, &c.; Emigration; the Blind, the Deaf and Dumb, the Lame and Idiotic; the Sick and Infirm; the Irish-speaking population.

Several of these heads are not included amongst the subjects for inquiry in the Census of the other portions of the United Kingdom. The extraction and tabulation of these items, both singly and in combination with others, while it has invested the Irish Census with peculiar interest, has complicated our statistical operations and rendered the work much more intricate. Our labours cannot, therefore, be fairly measured by the relative population to be dealt with.

We have been enabled to bring this great work to a close at a date unprecedentedly early in the annals of Irish Census inquiries. The General Report of the Commissioners for 1841 is dated 14th August, 1843. The Commission of 1851 issued their General Report on 28th June, 1856. The General Report for 1861 bears date 1st September, 1864, and that for 1871—when the enlarged scheme for County Publications was first adopted—29th September, 1875. In 1881, great exertions were made to bring the work to an early termination, and the General Report is dated 21st September, 1882. On the present occasion, as will be seen, we have succeeded in closing the inquiry at a still earlier date.

The financial results are equally satisfactory, the cost of the office work of the Census of 1891 will not exceed the sum of £14,400, showing a saving as compared with 1881 of £2,300.

We have now to thank our office Superintendents, who were selected by the Registrar-General from the staff of his department, for the manner in which they performed their duties. Superintendents and Office Staff

Mr. James J. Wilson, our senior Superintendent, was entrusted with the issue of the forms and the preparation of the tables for the Preliminary Report. As in 1881, the statistics of the sick and infirm, of birthplaces, foreigners, Irish-speaking population, and of those relating to the population, &c., on agricultural holdings, were placed under his charge, also the final revision and press work connected with the County Books and Provincial Summaries. Mr. Wilson has served on five successive Censuses, and his knowledge and experience have been of much advantage to us. We regret that we were deprived of his services for a considerable period owing to his serious illness.

Mr. Robert J. Brew acted as Superintendent of Accounts, and assisted the Secretary in conducting the official correspondence. In addition to these duties he had, as in 1881, charge of the House Accommodation Section. In connection with the latter, he compiled the Townland Census which gives comparative statistics for all townlands, parishes, and baronies at each decade back to 1851. The preparation of these figures involved great labour and care, and to his untiring zeal and ability is due the rapid completion and issue of these important statistics.

Mr. William A. Squires occupied the same position as in 1881. He superintended the Ages and Education Statistics and the Statistics of Schools. He had also charge of the Census Strong Room and the Records therein. Under his immediate direction the original returns were received, checked, re-arranged and distributed for office use. Much of the success of the Census depended on the manner in which the work of his section was performed, and our best thanks are due to him for the energy and ability which he displayed in the performance of his varied and onerous duties.

Mr. Peter J. O'Neill was entrusted, as in 1881, with the charge of the Religious Professions and Education Branch, in which also the Conjugal Condition Statistics were compiled. In addition to these duties, he bestowed much time and care in the revision of our tables generally and had special charge of the preparation and press work of this Report. We are under great obligations to Mr. O'Neill. His experience, and marked ability as a statistician, have rendered his assistance invaluable to us.

To Messrs. Patrick J. Rigney and George A. Newnam, Assistant Superintendents, was assigned the joint charge of the Occupation Section, which is one of the most troublesome and intricate portions of the work. This was the first time either had filled such a post, and these young officers have entirely borne out the high opinion entertained of their ability. Their difficult work has been most efficiently and carefully done, and they have both proved themselves able and competent statisticians.

In consequence of Mr. Wilson's prolonged absence from illness, it was necessary to alter the arrangements of the Office, as set forth above, to meet the emergency. Mr. O'Neill then took charge of Mr. Wilson's Section, and Mr. Rigney of Mr. O'Neill's, leaving Mr. Newnam in sole charge of the Occupation Section.

Messrs. Patrick O'Flanagan and Thomas Butler occupied the same positions with respect to the Census accounts as they held in 1881. We are much indebted to Mr. O'Flanagan for his most efficient service in the management and auditing of our voluminous accounts in which he was ably assisted by Mr. Butler. Both these officers rendered valuable assistance to the Secretary in the preparation of financial statements and other matters connected with office control.

We desire also to record the efficient assistance rendered to us by Mr. Francis S. Sheridan (now of the Congested Districts Board), and by Mr. James Dodds, in the transaction of the extensive correspondence of our Department.

It gives us pleasure to state that with very few exceptions, the temporary clerks, boy-copyists, and taskworkers employed in this Department, performed their work satisfactorily, and their conduct was exemplary.

The female indoor Clerks, of whom, as already stated, we had ten, discharged their duties without exception in the most efficient manner. They were employed in the preparation of Statistical Tables, Checking Accounts, Type-writing, Mapping, &c.

We have been brought into contact with the Heads of many Government Departments and other public Officers, to whom we desire to offer our best thanks.

Our acknowledgments are specially due to the Commissioner of Valuation, who cordially placed at our disposal the books of his Department; to the Officer in charge of the Dublin Branch of the Ordnance Survey, who rendered us most valuable aid in the revision of areas, engraving of maps and diagrams, &c.; to the Civil Service Commissioners for their kind co-operation in respect to the supply of clerks and boy-copyists; to the Inspector-General of the Royal Irish Constabulary; to the Commissioner of the Dublin Metropolitan Police; to the Resident Commissioner of the Board of National Education; to the Secretary of the Post Office; and to the Controller of Her Majesty's Stationery Office.

We desire also to thank the District Inspectors of the Royal Irish Constabulary and the Inspectors of the Dublin Metropolitan Police, who acted most efficiently as Superintendents of Enumeration. Our acknowledgments are also due to the men of both forces, who performed the duties of enumerators as regards the general population; and to the Chief Resident Officers of Public Institutions who, under the provisions of the Census Act, furnished the returns relating to the inmates of their respective establishments.

Thanks to Heads of Public De-
&c.

We have thus brought to a close the work of the eighth complete Census of Ireland. In compiling and reporting upon the information which we have collected in accordance with your Excellency's commands, we have endeavoured to so classify and arrange the large masses of figures on the multifarious subjects dealt with that they may be readily utilized for such purposes of legislation and administration as they may be required for during the current decade. We trust that our efforts will meet with your Excellency's approval.

We have the honour to remain

Your Excellency's very faithful Servants,

THOMAS WRIGLEY GRIMSHAW,

Registrar-General,

T. J. BELLINGHAM BRADY,

ROBERT E. MATHESON,

Commissioners.

CENSUS OFFICE,
CHARLEMONT HOUSE,
DUBLIN, 23rd June, 1892.

ADDENDUM.

We beg leave to take this opportunity of expressing to your Excellency, in the strongest terms, our appreciation of the great ability, untiring energy and admirable tact displayed by our colleague, Mr. Matheson, in the performance of the special duties devolving on him as Secretary to the Commission.

Mr. Matheson, who was engaged on two previous Censuses, those of 1871 and 1881 (in the latter as Commissioner and Secretary), brought to his work on the present occasion an experience almost unique in its character and value.

This experience qualified him to devise appliances and arrangements by which the Commissioners have been enabled to reduce considerably the time occupied in compiling the returns of the Census now completed, and therefore to curtail materially the cost of the work.

The Secretary was entrusted, under the regulations approved by your Excellency, with extended powers for the direct government and discipline of our large establishment, and he fully justified the confidence reposed in him by the wise and judicious manner in which those discretionary powers were used.

Combining a thorough grasp of the Census work as a whole with an intimate knowledge of every detail, Mr. Matheson exercised a keen and constant supervision over the work of our official staff which has most materially contributed to the accuracy of the results arrived at and, generally, the successful accomplishment of the work of the Commission.

THOS. W. GRIMSHAW.

T. J. BELLINGHAM BRADY.

(a) The Civil Districts comprise all Municipal Boroughs, Townships, and Towns of 2,000 inhabitants and upwards.

NOTE TO TABLE 8.

NOTE.—The plan of classification in the foregoing Table is the same as that adopted in former Reports, and may be thus described:—

The value or position of a house, as to its quality, may be considered to depend, mainly, on—

(1) its extent, as shown by the number of rooms; (2) its quality, as shown by the number of its windows, and, (3) its solidity or durability, as shown by the material of its walls and roof. It is thus to be ascertained the position of every house in a scale of these elements, and if the numbers thus obtained for every house be added together, a new series of numbers will be produced, giving the position of each house in a scale composed of all the elements, i.e., the principal scale.

For classing, however, adopted, and the result is that in the lowest of the four classes are comprised houses principally built of wood, or other perishable material, (1) and only one room and window, as the least a better description of houses, varying from one to four rooms and windows, in the second, and which is considered a good farm house, having from five to nine rooms and windows, and in the third class all houses of a better description than the preceding.

The classification which the houses afford has also been arranged under four classes, viz.:

First Class, or semi-detached cottages of 1st class houses, occupied by one family; or 1st class houses, occupied by two or three families; second class, semi-detached cottages of 2nd class houses, occupied by one family, or of 3rd class houses, with two or three families, or 1st class houses occupied by four or five families.

Third Class, or semi-detached cottages, of 3rd class houses, and also houses with more than one family, but also houses with four or more families, and 1st class houses inhabited by six or more families.

* The plan of classification in the foregoing Table is the same as that adopted in former Censuses and may be thus described:—
 The value or rent of a house, as to its quality, may be considered to depend chiefly on—1st, its extent, as shown by the number of rooms; 2nd, its quality, as shown by the number of its windows; and 3rd, its solidity or durability, as shown by the material of its walls and roof. 50 pounds is adopted to represent the purchase of every house as a whole at each of these elements, and if the element that obtained for every house be added together, a new series of windows will be produced, giving the position of each house in a scale composed of 100 parts.

 (1) The County of Dublin, which, before 1840, was divided into 12 Divisions, is technically a "Barony", but being in this case an extension of the Bar, and without the assistance of boundary, etc., as previously, cannot be subdivided into 12 Divisions for Census purposes.
 (2) The Parliamentary Borough of Cork, which has not been divided, previous to the Census.
 (3) The West Riding of York County comprises 9 Police Districts, and the East Riding 11 Divisions, the remaining 2 being the North and South Police Districts of the City of York.
 (4) The North Riding of Yorkshire County comprises 4 Police Districts, and the South 7 Divisions.
 (5) Five of the Police Districts in London County consist of the Borough of St. Paul, which is divided into South, North, East, West, and North West Divisions.
 (6) The East Riding of York County comprises 6 Police Districts, and the West Riding 11 Divisions, the remaining 2 being the North and South Police Districts of the City of York.

(a) The area given in this Table is exclusive of the extent under the large rivers, lakes, and loughs. See note (b) at foot of Table 8.

NOTE.—The Superintendent Registrars' Districts in Ireland, formed under the 26th Vict., cap. 14, and the 21st and 22nd Vict., cap. 90, are co-extensive with the Poor Law Unions of the same names.

The Registrar Districts, formed under 26 Vict., cap. 14, and 28 & 29 Vict., cap. 90, are Sub-divisions of the Unions or Superintendent Registrars' Districts, and, in accordance co-extensive with the Dispensary Districts of the same names formed under the "Medical Charities Act." The latter districts consist of groups of Electoral Divisions (the unit for Poor Law rating purposes), each being under a Committee of Management subject to the control of the Local Government Board. In many of the large Towns and in some other Districts there are two or more Medical Officers, a defined portion of the Dispensary District being assigned to each. In these cases (the Area, Population, &c. requiring only once distribution) each portion of a district in charge of a separate Medical Officer (with one or two exceptions) has, under the authority of the Registration Act, been constituted a "Registrar's District." Hence, in the year 1891, although the number of "Dispensary Districts" was only 728, the number of "Registrar's Districts" was 799.

In each Registrar's District the Dispensary Medical Officer is ex-officio the Registrar of Births, Deaths, and Roman Catholic Marriages (under the 25 Vict., cap. 18, and 26 & 27 Vict., cap. 90); and in the event of his refusing, the appointment is vested in the Board of Guardians (each Superintendent Registrar's District there is a Superintendent Registrar (the Clerk of the Union) through whom quarterly returns of all the Births, Deaths, and Roman Catholic Marriages in each District are transmitted to the General Register Office. Returns of Protestant Marriages are transmitted through Registrars appointed by the Lord Lieutenant, under the 1 & 2 Vict., cap. 12. The latter officers have power to distribute and register marriages in the Local Register Office without any religious ceremony. Their Districts also are co-extensive with the Poor Law Unions, except in the case of Dublin, where the Unions of Dublin North and South have been formed into one Marriage Registrar's District since 1891.

CENSUS OF IRELAND—35 & 34 VICT., CHAPTER 46.

An Act for taking the Census of Ireland, [18th August 1890.]

A.D. 1890.

WHEREAS it is expedient to take the census of Ireland in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one:

Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1. A census of the population of Ireland shall be taken in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one in the manner herein-after directed, and the census day shall be Sunday the fifth day of April in that year.

Census of population to be taken.

2. Such officers and men of the police force of Dublin metropolis and of the Royal Irish Constabulary, as the Lord Lieutenant shall direct, together with such other competent persons as the Lord Lieutenant shall appoint to assist therein, shall, upon the Monday following the census day, and each one or more next consecutive days as the said Lord Lieutenant shall fix, severally visit every house within such districts as may be assigned to them respectively, between the hours of half-past eight in the forenoon and six in the afternoon, and take an account in writing, according to such instructions as may be given to them by the chief or under secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of the number of persons who abode therein on the night of the census day, and of the sex, age, religious profession, birthplace, and occupation of all such persons; and shall also take an account of the number of inhabited houses and of uninhabited houses and of houses then building within such districts respectively; and shall also distinguish those parishes and places, or parts of parishes and places, within each district respectively, which are within the limits of any parliamentary borough; and shall also take an account of all such further particulars as by such instructions they may be directed to inquire into; and all the expenses which shall be incurred by authority of the Lord Lieutenant under this Act, subject to the sanction of the Treasury, shall be paid out of such moneys as shall be provided by Parliament for that purpose.

By whom the census shall be taken.

3. The governor, master, or keeper of every gaol, prison, or house of correction, workhouse, hospital, or lunatic asylum, and every barracks master, and every master and keeper of every public or charitable institution which shall be determined upon by the Lord Lieutenant, shall act as the enumerators of the inmates thereof, and shall be bound to conform to such instructions as shall be sent to him by the authority of the Lord Lieutenant for obtaining the returns required by this Act, so far as may be practicable, with respect to such inmates, but the initial letters only of the Christian names and surnames of such inmates shall be stated in any such returns.

Masters, &c., of such, &c., to be appointed enumerators of the inmates thereof.

4.—(1.) For the more effectual obtaining of such accounts, the chief or under secretary to the Lord Lieutenant shall prepare and cause to be printed such forms and instructions for the use of the several persons who shall be appointed as aforesaid to take or certify the said accounts as he shall deem necessary.

Forms, &c., to be furnished for their use.

(2.) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the census shall be taken by means of, and in the manner prescribed by, the several forms and instructions which were issued under the authority of the Act of the session of the forty-third and forty-fourth years of the reign of Her present Majesty, chapter twenty-eight, and which are contained in the Appendix to the General Report of the Commissioners appointed under that Act, dated the twenty-first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, and presented to both Houses of Parliament by command of Her Majesty, and such matters and particulars as were contained in and prescribed by the said forms and instructions, and no other matters or particulars shall be inserted in the forms and instructions to be prepared under the authority of this Act, and no question shall be put for the purpose of obtaining information other than the information required by such forms and instructions.

43 & 44 Vict. c. 28.

5. The better to enable such persons to take the said accounts they are hereby authorised and empowered to ask all such questions of all persons within their respective districts, respecting themselves or the persons constituting their respective families, and of all such further particulars as shall be necessary for the purpose of taking the said accounts.

Power to make the enquiry.

6. Every person refusing to allow such question to be put or to answer or wilfully giving a false answer to such questions or any of them, shall for every such refusal, or false answer, be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds: Provided always, that no person shall be subject to any such penalty for refusing to state his religious profession.

Penalty for refusing to answer, or for giving false answers. Penalty on persons refusing to give a valid answer or neglect.

7. Every member of the said police force or of the Royal Irish Constabulary, or other person, who shall be so appointed to take the said accounts, or to assist therein, who shall make any wilful neglect, default, or falsification in any matter relating to the said accounts, or who shall make any communication or disclosure of any information obtained by him in taking the said accounts for

8. All proceedings under this Act, as to compelling the appearance of any such member of the said police force or of the Royal Irish Constabulary force, or other person, against whom any complaint under this Act shall have been made, or of any witness, and as to the hearing and determination of such complaints, and as to the making and executing of any orders or as to any other matter relating thereto, and as to the application of fines, amendments, and forfeited recognisances, imposed or levied under the provisions of this Act, shall be subject in all respects to the provisions of the Petty Sessions (Ireland) Act, 1851, as the same is amended by the Petty Sessions (Ireland) Act, 1858, when the case shall be heard in any petty sessions district, and to the provisions of the Acts relating to the divisional police officers when the case shall be heard in the police district of Dublin metropolis, so far as the said provisions shall be consistent with any special provisions of this Act; and when any penalty is imposed at any of the divisional police offices of Dublin metropolis under the provisions of this Act, such penalty shall be paid over to the same purposes, and appropriated and applied in the same manner as is now by law authorized in respect of penalties imposed at such divisional police offices respectively.

9. The said several persons so appointed to take the said accounts, or to assist therein, shall sign and certify the same, and make solemn affirmation before any justice of the peace within the county, to the effect that the said accounts have been truly and faithfully taken by him (or them), and that, to the best of his (or their) knowledge, the same are correct, or as far as may be known, and shall deliver the same to such officer of the said police force, or of the Royal Irish Constabulary, or other person, as may be appointed by the Lord Lieutenant to receive the same, within each county, city, town, or place; and such officer or person shall examine the same, and cause any defect or inaccuracy which may be discovered therein to be supplied or corrected, so far as may be possible, and shall certify and transmit the same to the General Register Office, in such manner and within such time as the Lord Lieutenant shall direct, and the same shall be digested and reduced into order under the direction of the chief or under secretary to the Lord Lieutenant, by the Registrar-General of Births and Deaths in Ireland, and by such other person or persons as the Lord Lieutenant shall appoint for that purpose; and an abstract thereof shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within twelve months after the day on which the said account shall be taken, or (if Parliament be not then sitting) within the first fourteen days of the session next ensuing.

10. The Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant shall obtain, by such means as shall appear to him best adapted for the purpose, returns of the particulars required by this Act with respect to all householders, and all persons who during the night of the census day were travelling or on shipboard, or for any other reason were not abiding in any house of which account is to be taken by the appointed persons, and shall cause such returns to be included in the abstract to be laid before Parliament.

11. A certificate from the General Register Office, purporting to be signed by the Registrar-General of Births, Deaths, and Marriages in Ireland, shall be admitted in any court of law as evidence of the population, at the last census, of any county, city, town, or other area in Ireland to which it refers, and the said Registrar-General shall be bound, if possible, to deliver such certificate to any person on payment of a fee of one shilling.

12. Penalties imposed by this Act shall be recovered in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction (Ireland) Acts.

13. Every solemn affirmation or declaration made or signed under the authority of this Act shall be of the same force and effect as if the person making such affirmation or declaration had taken an oath in the usual form, and if any person making such affirmation or declaration shall wilfully, falsely, and corruptly affirm or declare any matter or thing which, if deposed on oath, would have amounted to wilful and corrupt perjury, he shall be liable to prosecution, indictment, sentence, and punishment in all respects as if he had committed wilful and corrupt perjury.

14. This Act may be cited as the Census (Ireland) Act, 1890.

Census Office, Charlemont House,
Dublin, 23rd October, 1890.

SIR,

With reference to the forthcoming Census, I request you will be so good as to report at your earliest convenience, in the opposite margin, whether you have a complete set of Ordnance Survey Maps for your District, showing the Townlands and Streets, &c., comprised within it.

If you have not, will you be so good as to state the numbers of the Sheets of these Maps required by you, which can be easily ascertained on reference to an Index Map of the County.

Census Office, Charlemont House,
Dublin, 1st January, 1891.

SIR,

I am directed by the Census Commissioners to enclose herewith a Copy of the Census Act for Ireland, 53 & 54 Vict., cap. 45, from section 2 of which you will perceive that the collection of the Census Returns will commence on Monday Morning, the sixth day of April, and that the Officers and men of the Royal Irish Constabulary, and of the Police Force of Dublin Metropolis, are to act as Enumerators.

2. You will, therefore, from that time, have delivered to you parcels containing forms of various kinds, which are to be carefully preserved in your house or in the adjoining barracks, and are not to be opened until you receive further instructions. These parcels will be marked "PRIVATE"—all others will, of course, be immediately opened. As the very large number of forms to be forwarded might cause great inconvenience if their transmission was not commenced at an early period, the necessity of now addressing you on this subject is manifest.

3. I am further directed to forward to you herewith some copies of Form P 1, upon which you will state the Names and Stations of the various Members of the Force in your District, whom you recommend on account of their intelligence and local knowledge for appointment as Enumerators in connection with the forthcoming Census; also copies of Form P 2, on which you will enter the names of the townlands, &c., allotted to each Enumerator. The Census is to be taken by townlands, parishes, baronies, and counties, and also by streets, towns, townships, boroughs, and cities, according to the boundaries laid down on the Ordnance Maps. Sets of Forms P 1 and Form P 2 are to be filed in duplicate; one set is to be returned to this Office on or before the 31st of January, and the other is to be retained by you for Census purposes.

4. As special forms will be required for enumerating the various classes of the community as well as for all PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS, I am also directed to request you to state on Form Q, enclosed, the number of houses and of families, also the number of schools, workhouses, hospitals, lunatic asylums, prisons, and other similar establishments, within your district, with the probable number of inmates, as nearly as can be estimated, in order that a sufficient supply of forms for each may be sent to you.

5. If the sea touches your district in any part, or if navigable lakes, rivers, or canals occur in it, you will also state, as far as is your power, on Form Q, the number of ships or boats usually within your District.

6. Form Q should be filled up and forwarded to this Office at your earliest convenience.

7. Suitable envelopes for all communications with the Census Office and with your Enumerators are forwarded herewith, and a further supply, as well as additional copies of Forms P 1, P 2, and Q, will be sent if necessary.

CENSUS OF IRELAND, 1891.

Circular No. 3.

Census Office, Charlemont House,
Dublin, 2nd January, 1891.

SIR,

I beg to state that much inconvenience and delay were caused in connection with the Census of 1881 owing to the necessity, in many instances, on the revision of the County Books, of making local inquiries through the police regarding discrepancies between the returns for that period for townlands and small towns, and the figures published for 1871.

Although in many cases these discrepancies were caused by decreases or increases in the population, it was ascertained that they were principally owing to houses which properly belonged to one townland being included in the return for an adjoining townland; to the rural portion of a townland being included in a town situated in it; or to small towns or portions of towns being included in the townlands on which they stood.

Under these circumstances the Census Commissioners request that you will be so good as to have the houses and population of the townlands and towns in your District, as given in Table VII. of enclosed County Book, noted in the Sub-Districts in which they are situated on Form P 3, a supply of which has been already sent.

When the enumeration for 1891 has been completed, the inhabited houses and population for that period should be similarly entered by the enumerator, who should furnish on the Form P 3, which will afterwards be supplied for the purpose, an explanation of any material discrepancy which may be discovered between the figures for 1881 and 1891. If there is no such discrepancy, a Return marked "all" should be forwarded.

The figures for 1891 are only to be entered on the duplicate Form P 3, which is to be retained by the Enumerator.

A supply of this Circular is enclosed in order that a copy may be filed in each Sub-District for the information of the Enumerators, as well as in your office.

Dublin, 15th January, 1891.

Sir,

With reference to the forms sent with Invoice No. 2, I am directed by the Census Commissioners to request you will have the Forms of Account No. 1, Examiner's Estimate of Expenses, filled and returned to this Office through the County Inspector, not later than the 1st February next, in order that they may be duly examined, and the estimated Expenditure ascertained, before the duty of Examination has been entered upon.

The Estimate as regards Extra Pay and Nightly Allowance should be based on those for 1881, due allowance being made for the difference in the Constabulary Rates now in force on the one hand, and for the decrease in the population on the other.

Every claim will be carefully examined; and the Registrar-General as Accounting Officer to the vote has signified that no allowance under these heads will be passed by him unless it is shown to his satisfaction that it is absolutely necessary.

The Census Commissioners will therefore feel obliged if the District Inspector will carefully scrutinize each claim before submitting it.

CENSUS OF IRELAND, 1891—53 and 54 Vic., CAP. 46.

NOTICE is hereby given that pursuant to the provisions of the 53 and 54 Vic., cap. 46, an account of the population of Ireland on the night of Sunday, the 5th of April next, will be taken by the Royal Irish Constabulary and Dublin Metropolitan Police and such other competent persons as the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland may appoint; and that on the Monday following the Census day, or as soon after as possible, such enumerators will visit each house within their respective districts, "between the hours of half-past eight in the forenoon and six in the afternoon," and take an account in writing of "the sex, age, religious profession, birthplace, and occupation," of its inmates; and will also take an account of the number of houses, inhabited, uninhabited, and building in their respective districts; and "of all such further particulars" as they may, subject to the provisions of the Act, be instructed by the Chief or Under Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant to inquire into.

Under section 4 of the above-mentioned statute, printed forms have been prepared for "the more effectual obtaining of such accounts," and the enumerators have been instructed to leave the "Family Return," Form A, with the head of each family prior to the date fixed for taking the Census. Special forms have been constructed for the use of the various public institutions.

As the enumerators have been directed to collect the "Family" and other returns on Monday, the 6th of April, or as soon after as possible, heads of families and others are particularly requested to fill up the forms immediately after the night of the Census, and as the value of the inquiry depends on the manner in which the householders' and other schedules are filled up, the heading of each column, also the instructions and pattern tables should be carefully read over before filling the forms.

Section 5 authorizes and empowers the enumerators to ask all such questions of all persons within their respective districts respecting themselves or the persons constituting their respective families, and all such further particulars as shall be necessary for the purpose of taking the said accounts, and by section 6 (subject to the provisions therein) every person refusing "to answer or wilfully giving a false answer to such questions or any of them," is liable to a penalty of five pounds.

The enumerators are liable to a penalty of five pounds should they make any communication or disclosure of any information obtained by them in taking the said accounts for any other object than that of rendering the Census as complete as possible.

The Commissioners desire to express the hope that the heads of families and others by whom particulars may be furnished will co-operate with them in their efforts to obtain full and accurate information in connection with this great social inquiry. The facts will be published in general abstracts only, and strict care will be taken that the returns are not used for the gratification of curiosity.

QUERY.

Census Office, Charlemont House,
Dublin, 9th April, 1891.

Sir,

I am directed by the Census Commissioners to request that you will be good enough to inform them of the number of persons in receipt of Out-door relief in your Union, on Saturday, the 4th instant, distinguishing the number belonging to each County.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

R. E. MATHERSON, Secretary.

To the Clerk of the Poor Law Union.

REPLY.

Sir,

I am directed by the Census Commissioners to request you will be so good as to hasten the completion of the Enumerators' Abstracts (Form N.), and Summaries (Form O. 1 and O. 2), and forward, as soon as possible, the various Census Returns committed to your charge.

The Commissioners trust you will be able to let them have all the Summaries O. 1 not later than the 11th May.

Inquiry having been made in some instances as to whether the inmates of Public Institutions are to be included in these returns, I am to add that the entire number of persons in each townland or street—whether residing in private dwellings or public institutions—is to be included in these abstracts and summaries.

See "Instructions to Enumerators," paragraph No. 55.

Sir,

In reply to your letter on the opposite margin,

CENSUS OF IRELAND, 1891.

Census Office, Charlemont House,
Dublin, 30th April, 1891.

The Census Commissioners beg to inform the Commissioners and Directors of Educational Boards and Institutions, the principals, managers, and teachers of colleges and schools, the clergy of all denominations, and others interested in the condition and progress of instruction, whether public or private, that the Educational Census of Ireland will be taken for the fortnight ending the 30th of May next, and is intended to comprise the students or pupils who actually attended upon any day or days during that period.

In schools where a roll is kept, a return of the children on the roll, and of their actual daily attendance during each month for the year ended 31st March, 1891, will be required not later than the 1st July, 1891, according to the practice adopted at the last three Decennial Censuses.

The principals of colleges and boarding schools, and masters of all schools, are requested to furnish these statistics as accurately as circumstances will admit, and in compliance with the instructions on the forms. The Commissioners look forward with confidence to the assistance of every one connected with education in Ireland in the procurement of the fullest and most trustworthy returns.

By order of the Commissioners,
R. E. MATTHEWS, Secretary.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR FILLING UP THE COLUMN HEADED "RANK, PROFESSION, OR OCCUPATION."

A person following more than one distinct occupation than one, should insert each of them in the order of their importance.

1. THE TITLES OF PEERS and other PERSONS OF RANK to be inserted, as well as any important office they may hold.

2. MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT, MAGISTRATES, ALDERMEN, and other important public OFFICERS, to state their profession or occupation, if any, after their official rank or title.

3. ALL PERSONS SERVING in the ARMY and NAVY, to state their rank and the branch of the service to which they belong. Officers to state whether on the Active or the Retired List, Pensioners from the Army and Navy to state the service to which they belong.

4. ALL PERSONS in the CIVIL SERVICE to state their rank, and the department or branch to which they belong; those retired or superannuated to be distinguished.

5. MINISTERS OF RELIGION.—Gentlemen of every religious denomination are requested to describe themselves according to their clerical rank or position, and to state distinctly the Church to which they belong.

6. LEGAL PROFESSION.—Barriers to state whether they are in actual practice. The designation Solicitor to be confined to those whose names are actually on the Roll. Clerks in Solicitors' Offices should state whether they are Solicitors' Managing, Attended, or General Clerk. Officers of any Court to state the name of the Office and the name of the Court.

7. MEMBERS OF THE MEDICAL PROFESSION to state whether they practise as Physicians, Surgeons, Dentists, Oculists, General Practitioners, Apothecaries, Medical Assistants, &c., or as "not practising." They should also state the University or other Society of which they are Graduates, Fellows, or Licentiates.

8. PROFESSORS, TEACHERS, PUBLIC WRITERS, AUTHORS, and SCIENTIFIC MEN,—to state the particular branch of Science or Literature which they follow: Artists, the art which they cultivate. Graduates should enter their degrees in this column.

9. STUDENTS of Theology, Law, or Medicine, and Undergraduates of any University, to be so returned.

10. SCHOLARS.—Children or young persons attending a School, or receiving regular instruction at home, to be returned as Scholars.

11. FARMERS.—This term is to be applied only to the occupiers of land. Sons or Daughters employed at home or on the farm, may be returned as "Farmer's Son," "Farmer's Daughter." Persons employed on the farm and sleeping in the Farmer's house should be described as Farm Servants.

12. AGRICULTURAL LABOURERS, SHEPHERDS and others employed on Farms, but not living in the Farmer's house, should be described as Agricultural Labourers, Shepherds, &c.

13. PERSONS ENGAGED in COMMERCE as Merchants, Brokers, Agents, &c., to state in all cases the particular branch of Commerce in which they are engaged, or the staple in which they chiefly deal.—Examples: "Corn Merchant," "Member of—Stock Exchange," "Tea Agent."

COMMERCIAL CLERKS, COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS, SHOPMAN—always to add in what branch of business.

14. IN TRADES, MANUFACTURES, or other BUSINESS. Masters should, in all cases, be distinguished.—Example: "Carpenter—Master."

15. WORKMEN in MANUFACTURES, and generally in Mechanical Arts, should distinctly state the particular BRANCH of WORK, and the MATERIAL, if they are not implied in the TRADE, as in Brass-founder, Iron-founder. Where the trade is much sub-divided, both TRADE and BRANCH are to be returned thus—"Watch-maker—Finisher;" "Printer—Compositor."

16. MINERS should state the description of Mine in which they work. Examples: "Coal Miner," "Lead Miner," "Copper Miner," &c. The term Miner should never be used alone.

17. ENGINEERS.—Civil Engineers and Mining Engineers to be so described. Workmen employed in works or factories are to be distinctly described.—Examples: "Engine Smith at Factory," "Engine Fitter at Works." Engine Drivers, Stokers, and Firemen, to be described in connection with the manufactory, railway, steam-vessels, &c., in which they are employed.—Example: "Railway Engine Driver," "Stoker in Locomotive." "Engineer" alone is not to be used.

18. ARTISANS and MECHANICS should invariably state the particular branch of mechanical art or business in which they are employed.

19. WEAVERS.—Silk, Wool, Woollen, Cotton, &c., should always be written before this general term, so as to express distinctly the material which he weaves; thus—"Cotton Weaver."

20. DOMESTIC SERVANTS should be described according to the nature of their service, adding in all cases "Domestic Servant."—Examples: "Cookhouse—Domestic Servant," "Gardener—Domestic Servant," "Cook—Domestic Servant."

21. MENSTRUERS, PORTERS, LABOURERS, to be described according to the nature of their employment. Examples: "Railway Porter," "Bricklayer's Labourer," "Labourer in Iron Works," "General Labourer"—see also Instruction No. 12. The term Labourer should never be used alone.

22. PERSONS ordinarily engaged in some industry, but OUT OF EMPLOYMENT at the time of the Census, should be so described; as "Bricklayer unemployed," "Carpenter unemployed."

23. PERSONS FOLLOWING NO PROFESSION, TRADE, OR CALLING, and holding no public office, but deriving their income chiefly from land, houses, dividends, interest of money, annuities, &c., should describe themselves accordingly. The indefinite terms Gentleman, Esquire, are not to be used. Persons who have RETIRED FROM BUSINESS to be entered thus—"Retired Farmer," "Retired Grocer."

24. WOMEN and CHILDREN.—The occupation of those who are regularly employed from home, or who follow any business at home, is to be distinctly recorded. See also Instruction No. 10.

NOTE.—For examples of the mode of filling up this Return, see Pattern Tables on another part of this Form.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

R. E. MATHESON, *Secretary*To the District Inspector, Royal Irish Constabulary.

County ———

Constabulary District ———

——— May, 1891.

Sir,

I have received the several documents enumerated on the opposite margin.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

District Inspector, R.I.C.

To the Secretary, Census Office, Charlemont House, Dublin.

is, for any one day on which he is obliged to absent himself from his barracks on Census duty for eight consecutive hours and under twelve, and 1s 6d for a day of twelve hours and upwards. He will also be allowed 3s 6d for each night absent, when, owing to the distance of the locality to be visited, such absence cannot possibly be avoided. Matching money will also be allowed when payable under the Constabulary Regulations. The Enumerator must not, however, absent himself from barracks without special authority for any period for which a subsistence allowance is payable in excess of the number of days approved of in the Estimate.

12. Car hire, railway-fare, and horse-hire will be allowed when absolutely necessary, as also will boat-hire when unavoidable, but the services of the constabulary boats are to be procured if possible. Previous to any expense being incurred, authority must in all cases be obtained on the Form marked "Enumerator's Estimate of Expenses," Form of Account No. 1— which is to give every detail necessary to a full understanding of the estimate. This estimate is also to include the cost of Affirmation Stamps.

13. The Enumerators will also be allowed expenses for postage and for carriage of parcels where unavoidable.

14. When interpreters are indispensable on allowance of 1s 6d, a day will be made for them, but in those districts where the Irish language prevails, the Superintendent may, if possible, to appoint Enumerators acquainted with that language, in order to avoid the necessity of employing interpreters.

15. The estimates are to be collected by the Superintendent and if he considers them reasonable, he is to certify the fact, and forward them not later than the 1st February, to the Census Office, through the County Inspector, whose approval is also required thereon. After these estimates are examined and approved they will be returned to the Superintendent, who shall again transmit them to the Census Office when forwarding the accounts for his district.

16. Receipts for interpreters' pay, boat hire, car-hire, &c. are in all cases to be taken, on the "Enumerator's Voucher," Form of Account No. 3, and these receipts are subsequently to be attached to the "Enumerator's Pay Sheet," for the Sub-District in which the expense was incurred.

17. Immediately after the Returns have been forwarded to the Census Office, the claims of the several Enumerators are to be made out on the "Enumerator's Pay Sheet," Form of Account No. 2, and the Superintendent is to prepare an abstract thereof on the "District Abstract of Expenses," Form of Account No. 4, which is to be attached in front of the file of claims when sent to the County Inspector (whose approval is required thereon), for transmission to the Census Office, for payment.

18. The Superintendent's Stationary Allowance, &c., is to be inserted (in his own name) in the "Enumerator's Pay Sheet" for the Sub-District in which the head-quarters of the District is situated, the heading of the second column being altered to "Superintendent and Enumerators."

19. All claims are to be furnished not later than ten days after the Enumeration has been completed, in order to their prompt discharge.

20. When paying the several claims, the Superintendent is to take care that a receipt stamp is attached by the Enumerator to Form of Account No. 2, if the claims amount to £2 or upwards. No payment is to be made to any person on behalf of another, without authority, in writing, from the Secretary to the Census Commissioners.

21. The County and District Inspectors will carefully examine the several claims for subsistence and nightly allowances, Interpreter's pay, and boat or car hire, taking care not to recommend any charge which does not appear to them fair and reasonable. Their special attention is directed to the Circular No. 4 of the 15th January, 1891, headed "Estimate of Probable Expenses."

IV. FORWARDING THE RETURNS TO THE CENSUS OFFICE.

22. The Superintendent is to see that the Enumerator's Returns (Form O 1) are furnished to him with the least possible delay, and he is to send them by post to the Census Office immediately on receipt.

23. As soon as the remaining Returns of an Enumerator's District (except those on Forms "L 1," "L 2," and "L 3," also "L 4," if any, regarding which further instructions will be issued) have been received and examined by the Superintendent (who shall also see that their contents have been duly affirmed), they are to be carefully packed in brown paper, well secured with strong cord, and at once transmitted to the Census Office, with one of the labels supplied for the purpose pasted on each parcel, and accompanied by a "Superintendent's Invoice of Returns" (Form S)—a duplicate of which is to be forwarded, by post, to the Census Office.

24. The Returns for each Enumerator's District (except the Forms "O 1" and "L 1," "L 2," "L 3," and "L 4") should be transmitted to the Census Office in a Separate Parcel by Letter Post. No parcel weighing over 14 lbs. or measuring more than 18 inches by 11 and 3 inches in depth, will be received by the Post Office Authorities. If the Returns for any one Enumerator's District exceed 14 lbs. in weight, they must be divided and sent in separate parcels. The Postage is to be left unpaid.

25. Census Forms of every description, which have not been used, are to be returned to the Census Office at the close of the Enumeration, as directed on the "Superintendent's Invoice of Unused Forms" (Form T), which Invoice is to be sent in a separate envelope.

V.—INCORRECT RETURNS.—PENALTIES.

26. Should any instance occur in which, to an Enumerator's knowledge, the Forms have been incorrectly filled in any particular wherever, he is, without delay, to make a detailed report of the circumstances to his Superintendent, who is to forward it to the Census Office, stating whether he considers, under the circumstances, a prosecution would be advisable; but in no case is a prosecution to be undertaken under the provisions of the Census Act, 33 & 34 Vic. cap. 46, without express authority from the Census Commissioners.

VI.—PENALTY FOR WILFUL DEFECTION OR NEGLECT.

27. The Superintendent's attention is directed to sec. 7 of the Census Act, which enacts that:—"Every member of the said police force or of the Royal Irish Constabulary, or other person, who shall be so appointed to take the said accounts, or to assist therein, who shall make any wilful neglect, default, or falsification in any matter relating to the said accounts, or who shall make any communication or disclosure of any information obtained by him in taking the said accounts for any other object than that of enabling the Census as aforesaid, or possible, shall for every such neglect, default, or falsification, or communication, or disclosure, be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds."

CENSUS OF IRELAND, 1891.

Census Office, Charlemont House, Dublin,
15th January, 1891.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ENUMERATORS.

1. The Enumerator, when supplied by his Superintendent with the Census Forms, is to make himself fully acquainted with the nature of the various questions asked, and to carefully examine the Pattern Tables and the Instructions on the Forms, especially those on "Form A," the family return. Upon receiving the list of townlands or streets in his Enumeration District, he is to proceed to ascertain its extent and boundaries, and should he have any difficulty as to boundaries, he is to refer to the Ordnance Maps in his Superintendent's office.

2. On Monday, the 2nd of March, or sooner if authorised by his Superintendent, the Enumerator is to commence visiting the houses in his District, and, before the night of Saturday, the 4th of April, leave a "Form A" for every District Family in each house, and at the same time proceed to fill "Form B 1" and "Form B 2," as described at page 8 of these Instructions. Where a family (including visitors and servants) consists of more than fifteen persons, the Enumerator is to leave two or more copies of "Form A," as the case may require. The Enumerator will observe that the entries in the spaces for the "No. —" in the endorsement of "Form A" and in the upper right-hand corner of that Form, are to correspond with the number of the house in the first column of "Form B 1."

3. The Enumerator will carefully observe that according to the Census Act visits to the houses in his District on Census business must be made "between the hours of half-past eight in the forenoon and six in the afternoon."

4. The Enumerator shall only ask such questions as may be absolutely necessary to obtain the information required to answer the queries on the papers. Direct answers shall be accepted, and if these be clear and explicit no cross-examination shall take place.

5. Before leaving the "A" Forms, the Enumerator is to write on the back of each the name of the County, Barony, Parish, Townland, Town, Street, &c., for which spaces have been left.

FORM A—THE FAMILY RETURN.

6. Each of the following classes is to be regarded as a Distinct Family—

- (a.) A man and his wife—or a man and his wife and children living together, and having no other persons residing with them—or a family such as either of the foregoing, with their relatives, servants, boarders, and visitors residing with them.
- (b.) All persons occupying the same house in common, and boarding at the same table, and their servants.
- (c.) A person living alone, whether occupying the whole or a part of a house, with servants, if any.
- (d.) Two or more lodgers boarding together distinct from the family, and their servants, if any.

7. On Monday, the 6th of April, the Enumerator is again to commence visiting the houses in his Enumeration District, and is to continue at this branch of his duty from day to day until he shall have collected all the "A" Forms from every family within his district. On this occasion he is to see that each column in the Form has been filled, and if it has not, he is then to have the required information inserted. In case the column for "Religious Profession" has not been filled, and the Head of the Family declines to fill it, the Enumerator is to state this fact by writing in the column "Information refused." Should the vague term "Protestant" have been entered, in any instance, in the column for "Religious Profession," the Enumerator is to inquire carefully the precise "Name of the particular Church, Denomination, or Body," to which the person belongs, and ask that it may be inserted as suggested in the remarks at the head of the column; should there, however, be any disinclination to afford this information, he shall not press inquiry into the matter, but note on the Form that the giving of further information was declined. When all the proper entries have been made in the return, it should be signed by the Head of the Family, or by some person authorised in his or her behalf. The Enumerator is then to attach his signature to the Return.

8. In case of a head of a family who cannot write, the Enumerator is to assist such person to fill the Form, and is then to require him or her to attach a mark thereto (+), which he is to witness, having first read all the particulars entered on the Form, for his or her approval.

9. The Enumerator is to take care that no person or family within his District be omitted from the Returns, and in order further to guard against such omission he is to have with him a supply of blank copies of "Form A." Should any person have gone away from a house before full particulars were obtained, the sex and probable age of such should be learned, and stated as of a "Person unknown."

10. In the case of "houseless persons" who are not enumerated elsewhere, the Enumerator will have a "Form A" filled for each family or person so enumerated—column 2 of "Form B" being filled "Houseless."

11. Persons travelling, or out all night, are to be enumerated at the house or hotel at which they arrive on Monday, the 6th of April, and as Clubs, Hotels, Inns, Lodging and Boarding-houses, &c., change their inmates frequently, the Enumerator is to visit these establishments as soon as possible after 8.30 a.m. on the 6th of April. The owner, master, or steward of any such establishment, with his family and servants, if any, is to be returned on a separate "Form A" as a distinct family. Each temporary resident, or traveller, who is accompanied by any member of his family, or by a servant, is, with such persons, to be regarded as a Distinct Family, and entered on a separate "Form A."

12. Special Forms (described further on) for enumerating persons in Barracks, Workhouses, Hospitals, Lunatic Asylums, Prisons, &c., are to be delivered to the Barrack-masters, Masters, Governors, or Keepers of such Institutions, respectively—they being appointed by the Census Act, Enumerators of the inmates of all such buildings or institutions, but the Officers of Public Institutions and their families, together with the partners and nurses (unless when paupers in workhouses) are to be enumerated as "Form A." The Military, also Members of the Royal Irish Constabulary, Dublin Metropolitan Police Force, and Coast Guard, if residing in barracks, are to be enumerated on "Form B," the Barrack Return;—but their respective families are to be enumerated on "Form A."

13. The occupants of ships, vessels, or boats, in harbours, and persons engaged in river, lake, or canal navigation, are to be enumerated according to the same rule as those residing in houses. The Enumerators for localities in which seamen or boatmen are to be found are to collect the Returns of these classes early on the 6th of April, but their vessels might well before such returns are obtained. For further instructions, see "Form B 5, Shipping Return," at page 10.

14. In Corporate Towns having Municipal Wards, the names of the Ward, as well as that of the Street in which each family resides, is to be entered on "Form A;" the "Ward" name is to be entered in the space for "Barony," the pen being drawn through the latter word, and the word "Ward" substituted. In all cases where a village contains twenty or more houses, the Enumeration Returns for it are to be made up into a separate id. When a village does not contain twenty houses it is not to be noticed separately as a Town, but the houses, &c., are to be treated as others disposed over a townland. (See paragraph 54, page 17.)

15. In case of a Townland or Island, which is uninhabited, or which has no house or out-office thereon, at the date of the Census, an Enumerator's Abstract, "Form N" for it is to be marked "Nil," and forwarded with the returns for the District.

FORM B 1 AND FORM B 2.—HOUSE AND BUILDING RETURNS.

16. Before or on the 23rd of March, the Enumerator is to commence filling "Form B 1" and "Form B 2," which are to contain the required particulars relating to each house and out-office in each townland, street, &c., in his Enumeration District. (See paragraphs 14 and 54.) He will be most careful to give strict attention to the instructions at the head of each column, especially those relating to inhabited houses. In towns where dwelling-houses are numbered, the houses in each street are to be entered on "Form B 1," in numerical order, but in small towns, villages, and townlands, where the houses are not numbered, they are to be entered according to the order in which they are visited by the Enumerator.

17. Every dwelling which has a distinct outer door shall be considered as One House, although it may be occupied by several families living in separate apartments, or what are known as tenements, under the same roof. In counting the number of rooms in a house, each apartment is to be reckoned as one room, the particulars being obtained either by observation, or through the information afforded by the occupants; thus, a cabin, within which there is no partition wall, is to be regarded as a house with one room; if one end of a cabin is partitioned off, and a means of communication maintained by an inner doorway, it is to be considered as a house having two rooms; and if a dwelling is divided by partitions into three portions, it is to be considered as a house having three rooms; and so on.

18. Whenever a school is held in any part of a house, the exact name of the school is to be given in Column 5 of Form B 1.

19. Uninhabited houses and houses in progress of building at the time of the enumeration are also to be returned on Form B 1.

20. Out-offices, viz.—Barns, stables, coach-houses, cow-houses, &c., are to be returned on "Form B 2;" but if an individual or a family live in part of an out-office, that portion is to be considered as an inhabited house and entered as such on "Form B 1," according to the number of rooms occupied by such individual or family, and the remainder entered on "Form B 2" in the proper column.

21. On the occasion of his second visit, when collecting "Form A," the Enumerator will be able to verify the particulars in "Form B 1" and "Form B 2," and to correct any errors which, on examination, he may find to exist. He shall also, when requisite, fill, or have filled, "Form C" for the clerk. (See par. 25.)

22. To assist the Enumerator in filling "Form B 1," the Pattern Table on page 9 has been prepared.

FORM B 3—SHIPPING RETURN.

23. The instructions with respect to "Form A" and "Form C" are applicable to the enumeration of the crews and passengers of ships and boats of every kind. "Form B 3, Shipping Return" is analogous to "Form B 1," for Houses and Buildings.

24. Previous to the night of Sunday, the 5th of April, the Enumerator is to leave one or more copies of "Form A" with the person in charge of each vessel. Upon these Forms are to be entered collectively the names, &c., of the Captain, Crew, and Passengers, but when the captain, master, or any person on board is accompanied by his wife or family, he and his wife or family are to be enumerated on a separate "Form A." When leaving these Forms, the Enumerator is to make the necessary entries respecting the vessel and its occupants in "Form B 3, Shipping Return," which entries he can verify and complete when subsequently collecting the "A" Forms.

25. When leaving "Form A," the Enumerator is to enter the Registered Number of the vessel upon the back of the Form, but where vessels or boats have no such number, he is to enumerate them consecutively, making the endorsement on "Form A" correspond with the number for the vessel in the first column of "Form B 3, Shipping Return."

26. On Monday, the 30th of March, the Enumerator is to commence to fill "Form B 3, Shipping Return," he is to assess "Form A" to be filled for all those vessels going to sea on the 4th or 5th of April which would not in the ordinary course reach their destination before the morning of the 6th of April; but where a vessel remains in port up to the morning of the 6th of April, only those persons who slept on board on the previous night and those not enumerated elsewhere who arrive on the morning of the 6th are to be entered upon the "A" Form for it, as other persons belonging to the ship will have been enumerated on shore. Vessels seeking temporary shelter from stress of weather in any harbour or roadstead are to be enumerated if they happen to be there on the night of the 5th of April. The captains or stewards of mail and packet boats plying daily or weekly between any Irish port and other ports in the United Kingdom or foreign countries, are to be supplied with a sufficient number of copies of Form "A," on which to enumerate the passengers (not enumerated elsewhere), who may arrive during the night of the 5th or on the morning of the 6th of April. The crews are to be enumerated immediately after their arrival in port.

27. The Enumerator is to be careful not to enter British Subjects as "Foreigners" on "Form B 3."

28. All ships, coasting vessels, and fishing or other boats, which arrive in port on the 5th of April or during any part of the following week, are to be enumerated in the same manner on vessels in port on the night of the 5th of April, provided such ships or boats shall not have been previously enumerated at any other port of Great Britain or Ireland: to ascertain which special enquiry is to be made.

FORM C—RETURN OF THE SICK of their Own Homes.

29. When collecting "Form A," the Enumerator is to inquire as to all persons labouring under sickness; and in each house or family where any individual was ill on the 5th of April he is to present "Form C," with a respectful request to have it filled by the Head of the Family, if possible, at the moment. Should he not succeed in getting this Form filled at the time of his visit, he is to leave it and—having made a mark thus (+) in the 14th column of "Form B 1," is to enter to guide him in collecting "Form C" afterwards—is to call for it again as soon as convenient. Where the inmate cannot fill up "Form C," he is to do so for them. It is to be distinctly understood that sick persons are also to be enumerated on "Form A."

FORM D—RETURN OF LUNATICS AND IDIOTS not in Institutions.

30. It is expected that the local knowledge of the Enumerators with regard to Lunatics and Idiots, not in Institutions, will enable them to fill this Form with accuracy, especially as regards mendicants and vagrants who are thus afflicted. Where Idiots or Lunatics are in the custody of their friends, the inquiries necessary to fill this Form are to be made with the greatest delicacy. All these persons will, of course, have been enumerated upon "Form A," at their respective places of abode on the night of Sunday, the 5th of April.

FORM E—WORKHOUSE RETURN.

31. The Enumerator is to leave the requisite number of these Forms at each Workhouse and Auxiliary Workhouse within his district, before the 5th of April, and at the same time to call the attention of the Masters of these Institutions to the sections of the Act of Parliament printed at foot of the Form. See also paragraph 12 on page 7, and Instructions as to "Form I," page 13, paragraph 36.

FORM F—HOSPITAL RETURN.

32. The required supply of these Forms is to be left at all such Public and Charitable Institutions as General and Fever Hospitals, Infirmaries, Lying-in, and other special Hospitals, and whenever persons are admitted for in-door treatment, except in the case of Workhouse Hospitals, the inmates of which are to be enumerated on "Form B" only. The resident officers of all such Institutions, together with resident pupils, nurses, and servants, are to be returned on "Form A," by the resident head of the establishment. Each officer whose wife or family resides with him shall with his wife or family be returned on a separate "Form A."—See also Instructions as to "Form I."

33. The Enumerator when leaving these Forms (F) is to inform the chief Resident Officer that the column "How long afflicted" refers only to the "Disease" for which the patient is under treatment, and not to the time the "Deaf and Dumb," the "Dumb only," or the "Blind" have been afflicted with these infirmities.

FORM G—OCCUPERS AND BOARDING-SCHOOL RETURN.

34. Universities, Colleges, Seminaries, Boarding-Schools, Institutions for the Deaf and Dumb, the Blind; Model, Industrial, and Reformatory Schools, and all educational establishments in which pupils reside—are to be supplied with "Form G," and also, when necessary, with "Form C." The principals or proprietors of such establishments are, with their families, to be returned on "Form A."

FORM H—BARRACK RETURN.

35. This Form is intended for barracks, or other buildings where military, police, or constabulary may be stationed at the time. Where Hospitals exist within the precincts of these establishments, the Barrack-Master is to be supplied with the necessary number of copies of "Form F," but soldiers in such hospitals are also to be accounted for on "Form H." The families of all officers, non-commissioned officers, soldiers, and policemen who reside in Barrack are to be enumerated on "Form A," and a note added that the Head of the Family is returned on "Form H." When necessary these families are to be supplied with "Form C." Permanent officials residing in Barracks, such as Barrack-Master, Barrack Sergeants, Canton-Keeper, &c., with their servants, are to be supplied with "Form A" and "Form C." Such persons are not to be entered on "Form H."

FORM I—RETURN OF LUNATICS AND IDIOTS in Institutions.

36. All Lunatic Asylums of both a public and private nature are to be supplied with these Forms; and as Lunatics are frequently inmates of other Institutions, one or more more copies of this Form are also to be left, where necessary, with the Governor or other person appointed under the Act 63 and 64 Vic., cap.

46, to act as Enumerator for such Institutions. Each Form when filled in is to be attached to the ordinary Returns for these Institutions.

FORM K.—PRISONS RETURNS.

37. These Forms are intended for all Prisons, Bridewells, Penitentiaries, and Police Stations, such establishments are likewise to be supplied with "Form F" for their Magazines (if any); but the persons incarcerated on those latter are also to be entered on "Form K." The officers and servants of these establishments, with their families, are to be enumerated on "Form A."

THE DEAF AND DUMB AND THE BLIND IN PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS AND SCHOOLS.

38. When the Returns for "Public Institutions" and Schools (Forms E to K) have been collected, the Enumerator shall immediately examine them, and in each case in which it appears that a Deaf and Dumb or Blind person is an inmate of any Institution or School, he is to enter the name, or the initials of the name, as the case may be, of the affected person on one of the Forms containing questions relative to the Deaf and Dumb or the Blind, and leave it with the Chief Resident Officer of the establishment in which the person was enumerated, with a request that answers to the questions thereon may be inserted. The Enumerator is subsequently to collect these Forms and deliver them, with his other Returns, to his Superintendent.

FORMS "L 1," "L 2," "L 3," AND "L 4"—COLLEGE AND SCHOOL RETURNS.

39. "Form L 1" is to contain the number of students or pupils on the books of each College or Boarding-school during the week ending the 30th May. "Form L 2" is for the purpose of ascertaining the number of scholars (except those returned on "Form L 1") of all ages and classes attending School, or receiving instruction, as day or evening scholars, at Public and Private Educational Establishments, and at Literary Institutions of every description throughout Ireland, during the period above referred to. The Heads of such Institutions are to be respectfully requested to fill this Form, and their attention is to be directed to the circumstance that it is not all the names on the Roll of the School which are required, but only the names of those Pupils in attendance during any part of the period specified. "Form L 3" is intended for a Return of the children on the roll of each School, and their actual daily attendance during each month of the year ending the 31st March, 1891. "Form L 4" is for the number of students on the Books of the Universities and University and Professional Colleges in Ireland. Further instructions on this subject will be forwarded with the "L" Forms.

FORMS "M 1," "M 2," AND "M 3"—LAND CENSUS.

40. These Forms are for the purpose of ascertaining the number of Agricultural Holdings, the area and valuation of each, the number of Houses and Out-buildings, and the resident population on the night of April 5th, 1891.

41. In filling "Form M 1," the names of all the Landholders in the townland, whether resident or non-resident, are first to be inserted according to the size of their holdings, and the area and valuation of each holding are then to be entered. The Enumerator is to refer to "Form B 1" for the same townland, from Column 16 of which he will ascertain the names of all Landholders on whose holdings houses are situated. He is then to enter in column 5 of "Form M 1" the number or numbers of the house or houses on the holding, as given in Column 1 of "Form B 1," and proceed carefully to fill in all the information regarding such house or houses, and the inmates thereof, required in the remaining columns of "Form M 1," according to the instructions at the head of each column.

42. In those cases where there is no house on the holding, the Enumerator, after entering the name of the Landholder and the area and valuation of the holding, is to make a stroke (—) in each of the remaining columns. The area of land not occupied, or under towns, waste, &c., is to be entered after the last holding enumerated in the townland, as Unallotted. [See Pattern Table on page 15.]

43. "Form M 2" is for a Summary of the particulars given on "Form M 1" for the Townlands in each Electoral Division, or portion of an Electoral Division, in the Enumerator's District.

44. "Form M 3" is intended to provide for those cases where an occupier of land, resident within the Enumerator's District, holds two or more farms, or has a farm which extends into two or more adjoining townlands; the Enumerator is to show on this Form the townland where each farm, or portion of a farm, is situated, giving the required particulars. He is to be careful to add the word "adjoin" in those cases where it applies, as directed in the Instructions on the Form. [See also Pattern Table on "Form M 3."]

Minor at present of holding are not to be included in this Return.

FORM N.—ENUMERATOR'S ABSTRACT.

45. One or more of these Abstracts shall be prepared for each townland or street, or portion of a townland or street, as the case may require, the necessary information being extracted by the Enumerator from the "B 1" Return and the various Enumeration Returns, care being taken that in those cases where according to the instructions any persons are entered in more than one Return, they are not entered twice in these Abstracts. These Forms are also to be used for the purpose of making Abstracts of the Shipping Returns.

FORM O 1.—ENUMERATOR'S SUMMARY OF HOUSES AND PERSONS.

46. When all the Abstracts have been filled, as above directed, the Enumerator is to make a summary of them upon "Form O 1," the "ENUMERATOR'S SUMMARY OF HOUSES AND PERSONS," entering the names of the several townlands or streets, or parts thereof, in the order in which they are arranged on "Form P 2." In case one "Form O 1" is insufficient, two or more are to be used—carrying the total of the first forward to the second, and so on.

47. In compiling the Abstracts and Summary, the Enumerator is to be careful to see that the tot of the number of Males and of Females entered under the head of "Religious Profession" agrees with the total number of each sex as entered under the head of "Persons."

48. Having completed this "Summary," the Enumerator is to immediately transmit it to the Superintendent of his District.

FORM O 2.—ENUMERATOR'S SUMMARY OF HOUSES BY CLASSES.

49. The number of inhabited houses of each class returned in "Form B 1" should be entered in this Form in the columns provided for the purpose, in accordance with the number of families residing in them. The total number of houses in the four classes given in the Form must agree with the total number of inhabited houses. The information required for filling the columns headed "No. of Dwelling Houses" should be taken from "Form N," and the total number of out-offices should be entered from "Form B 2." Where an Enumerator's district extends into more than one Electoral Division, or where it is partly civil* and partly rural, a separate summary should be made for each portion. These summaries should be forwarded with the General Returns.

FORM P 2.—RETURN OF THE TOWNLANDS, &c., IN EACH ENUMERATOR'S DISTRICT.

50. "Form P 2" is to be filled in duplicate according to the instructions on the Form, and one copy returned to this Office. The duplicate is to be preserved by the Enumerator.

FORM P 3.—STATEMENT SHOWING DIFFERENCES BETWEEN NUMBER OF HOUSES AND POPULATION IN 1861 AND 1891.

51. The Enumerator is to enter on this Form all material differences between the figures for houses and population in 1861 and 1891, and to forward a VR Return if there are no such differences. Further instructions are given in a Special Circular (No. 3), and a specimen report is given on the back of the Form.

FORM R.—AFFIRMATION OF THE RETURNS BY THE ENUMERATOR.

52. Each Form, except those for the Public Institutions referred to below, should be signed by the Enumerator; but if having been represented that it might be difficult to find magistrates willing to give so much time as would be necessary to affirm each Return separately, the "Affirmation Return, Form R," has been prepared, which is to include in one Declaration all the Returns from each Enumerator, except those on Forms "L 1," "L 2," "L 3," and "L 4." One of the Affirmation Returns, when occasionally filled up by the Enumerator, is to be affirmed by him before a Justice of the Peace, and transmitted to his Superintendent. Returns from Public Institutions, the inmates of which are to be enumerated by the officers of the Institutions specified in the Census Act, are not to be included in the Affirmation Return, "Form R," and the Enumerator, when collecting them, is to see that they have been duly affirmed as directed by the Act. The Enumerator will observe that the Returns for Colleges and Boarding Schools on Form "G" do not come under this head: they are to be included in his Affirmation Return.

MAKING UP THE RETURNS.

53. The Forms "A," "E," "F," "G," "H," "J," and "K," being for the district enumeration of the people, are to be stitched together at the left-hand upper corner in files by townlands or streets, or portions thereof, as the case may be, with "Form N," "Form B 1," and "Form B 2" in front, in the order here given, so that the Abstract "Form N" will be the first Form of the file.

54. When a townland or street is situated partly within and partly without a Parliamentary Borough, City, Municipal Town, or Township, or extends into more than one Parliamentary Division, a separate file is to be made for each portion; also when a street is divided by a Parish or Ward boundary, each portion is to be made up in a separate file.

55. The "A" Return for persons on board ships should be stitched together in a separate file with "Form B 3" and "Form N" in front, as directed above for Townlands, &c.

56. Forms "C," "D," and "O 2" are to be made up in files by Enumerator's districts; also the Returns (if any) containing answers to questions relative to the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind in Public Institutions and Schools.

57. The Returns on "Form M 1" are to be arranged according to Electoral Divisions, those for each Electoral Division, or portion of an Electoral Division in the Enumerator's District, being kept in a separate file, and the Summary "Form M 2" placed in front of the file. The Returns on "Form M 3" for the Enumerator's District are to be made up in one file.

58. When the above mentioned Forms have been made up in the manner directed, they are to be delivered to the Superintendent of the District, who is alone authorised to inspect them, previous to their transmission to the Census Office.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.

59. If the Enumerator finds at any time that he requires an additional supply of printed Forms, and that he cannot conveniently procure them from his Superintendent, or from any other Enumerator in his neighbourhood, he is, in order to save time, to apply for them direct by post to "The Secretary, Census Office, Charlemont House, Dublin," stating the Name and Letter, and the number of each Form required; also the Post Town to which they are to be forwarded. The postage is to be left unpaid.

60. All unused Forms remaining in the hands of the Enumerator, on the completion of the enumeration, are to be returned to the Superintendent for transmission to the Census Office.

61. The Census Commissioners are confident that in carrying the foregoing instructions into effect the Enumerators will observe the greatest civility, and ask for the necessary information in a respectful manner, carefully observing the instructions in paragraph

* A Civil District being a Town of 2,000 inhabitants and upwards.

No. 4. Many people, at first view, regard Census inquiries with suspicion, in proportion to their want of knowledge of the results sought to be arrived at, and there are comparatively few so fully acquainted with the objects of a Census as to enable them to understand what advantage it can be to the State to possess minute information as to the social condition of any member of the community; yet it is information of this character, when properly classified, which forms the best guide to the Legislature and the Philanthropist in their efforts to elevate the condition of mankind.

52. If the Enumerator finds his progress obstructed by difficulties of any kind, he is to state them to the more enlightened and educated persons in his District, and respectfully solicit their aid in removing them.

53. Should any instance occur in which, to the Enumerator's knowledge, the Forms have been incorrectly filled in any particular whatever, he is, without delay, to make a detailed report of the circumstances to the Superintendent of his District, who will forward it to the Census Office, stating whether he considers, under the circumstances, a prosecution would be advisable; but in no case is a prosecution to be undertaken under the provisions of the Census Act, 33 & 34 Vic, cap. 46, without express authority from the Census Commissioners.

54. The Enumerator will note that—"Every member of the said police force or of the Royal Irish Constabulary, or other person, who shall be so appointed to take the said accounts, or to assist therein, who shall make any wilful neglect, default, or falsification in any matter relating to the said accounts, or who shall make any communication or disclosure of any information obtained by him in taking the said accounts for any other object than that of rendering the Census as complete as possible, shall for every such neglect, default, or falsification, or communication, or disclosure, be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds."

CENSUS OF IRELAND, 1891.

SUPPLEMENTAL INSTRUCTIONS TO ENUMERATORS.

Form L 1.—College and Boarding School Returns.

Form L 2.—Returns of Scholars attending (Day) Schools.

Form L 3.—Returns of Children on School Roll.

1. In accordance with paragraph 39 of the "Instructions to Enumerators," the above Forms are now forwarded, and, as soon as possible after their receipt, "Form L 1" is to be left at every Educational Establishment in which any portion of the Students or Pupils reside, whether a College, Seminary, Boarding-School, Model Orphanage, Reformatory, Industrial Workhouse, or other School, and "Form L 3" at any of these Establishments where a Daily Roll of Attendance is kept.

2. "Form L 2" and "Form L 3" are to be left at every other School within each Enumerator's District.

3. A copy of the accompanying Circular to the Principals, &c., is to be left at each educational establishment when the Enumerator is leaving the Form.

4. The Enumerator will apprise the Principals or Teachers in the several establishments, that the Returns upon Forms "L 1" and "L 2" will be called for in a fortnight after the 30th of May, and, at the expiration of that period, the Enumerator will apply for the Returns, and forward them to his District Inspector for immediate transmission to this Office.

5. When collecting the returns the Enumerator will see that the headings, &c., are properly filled and that the name of the parish in which the school is situated corresponds with the parish in his "P 2" return. The "Civil" and not the "Ecclesiastical" parish should be given.

6. The Enumerator will further apprise principals and teachers that the "Form L 3" is to be called for not later than the 1st of July. These Returns, when collected, are also to be forwarded through the District Inspector to the Census Office.

7. The Enumerator will include in one Affirmation Return (Form E) all the schools in his district, giving the names of the schools in the 3rd column and affixing the word "localities" to "schools" in the heading, also the affirmation at foot of Form E to suit the circumstances of the case. The Enumerator will further proceed in the manner shown in paragraph 54 of the "Instructions to Enumerators."

By order of the Commissioners,

R. E. MATHESON, Secretary.

Census Office, Charlemont House, Dublin,
30th April, 1891.

CENSUS OF IRELAND, 1891.

Census Office, Charlemont House,
Dublin, 30th April, 1891.

The Census Commissioners beg to inform the Commissioners and Directors of Educational Boards and Institutions, the principals, managers, and teachers of colleges and schools, and clergy of all denominations, and others interested in the condition and progress of instruction, whether public or private, that the Educational Census of Ireland will be taken for the fortnight ending the 30th of May next, and is intended to comprise the students or pupils who actually attended upon any day or days during that period.

In schools where a roll is kept, a return of the children on the roll, and of their actual daily attendance during each month for the year ended the 31st March, 1891, will be required, not later than the 1st July, 1891, according to the practice adopted at the last three Decennial Censuses.

The principals of colleges and boarding schools, and masters of all schools, are requested to furnish these statistics as accurately as circumstances will admit, and in compliance with the instructions on the Form. The commissioners look forward with confidence to the assistance of every one connected with education in Ireland in the procurement of the fullest and most trustworthy returns.

By Order of the Commissioners,

R. E. MATHESON, Secretary.
